INTRODUCTION

Where do you go when you go to sleep?

There are those who believe that when our heads nod, our minds travel to another plane of existence, and into a life just as personal and complex as the one we know here. Okay, maybe that's just me. But at some point, everyone has woken from a night's sleep more tired than when they shut their eyes, convinced that they were not only in a dream but also in another place, in another life, entirely. In this land, we are who we are in the waking world, but not. We encounter people familiar to us, but different. We fly, we change, we run (always slowly) from monsters; we dwell in the past, question the future, win impossible battles and voyage to shores unknown in daylight. Until 1991 I had no name for this realm other than "asleep." But when I first encountered this volume of darkly enchanting tales, I immediately knew I had been spending my nights in Dream Country.

I'm not sure if it's a blessing or a curse that we remember so little of what happens to us while visiting Dream Country. Often all we are left with from a full night's ramble through its boundless landscapes are a vivid image or two, or a nightmare's lingering shadow. From these scraps we try to reconstruct narratives as colorful as the dreams themselves, and we usually fail. Like gold given by King Auberon, it fades all too quickly, until, in frustration, we dismiss our dream lives as a nonsensical jumble of subconscious fantasies. I can't help but think our dream selves might dismiss the dreary grayness of our "reality" in a similar manner.

I would be willing to bet, however, that if anyone knows how to walk an easy path through both the dream and waking worlds, it is Neil Gaiman. I don't know how much of his Dream Country life he retains when he is up and about, but it would not surprise me to learn that any faerie gold he may have brought back with him has provided the inspirations for some of his most wonderful stories.

This volume presents four standalone tales from Gaiman's groundbreaking comic book series THE SANDMAN. Coming on the heels of his magnificent multi-part story THE DOLL'S HOUSE, this collection takes a respite from continuity and features individual ruminations on dreams and those beings, human and otherwise, who dream them. The stories are tenuously linked by the presence of the Endless, a family of aspects of universal consciousness possessing human forms, and frequently, very human sibling rivalries.

Morpheus, the titular Sandman, is rightfully prominent in the stories, though his shape varies from tale to tale, as befits a being whose very nature is dreams. In "Calliope," he is at his most familiar: the King of the Dreaming, dark, dour, equal parts compassionate and vengeful. Dispensing poetic justice on a greedy author for imprisoning and defiling a muse, Morpheus curses the writer with a violent torrent of ideas that the punished man can neither contain nor control. It's a nightmare familiar to every writer: a head swirling with great ideas but without the focus to weave them together. Ask any author on the eve of a deadline and they will confirm this.

The Sandman takes on a feline identity in "A Dream of a Thousand Cats," proving that Morpheus is present in the dreams of all living creatures, even those of a slumbering kitten.

For his newest play, "A Midsummer Night's Dream," William Shakespeare finds an unlikely patron in the form of an Elizabethan-era King of Dreams, and an even stranger audience just arrived from Faerie to attend his opening night.

In "Façade," Morpheus' sister Death takes the lead role, facilitating a dream of sorts for a onetime superheroine seeking permanent release from her lonely existence and invulnerable body.

Artists Kelley Jones, Charles Vess, Colleen Doran and Malcolm Jones III beautifully illustrate the diverse dreamscapes of Neil Gaiman's imagination. As the stories shift from fairy tale to horror, from emotional despair to radiant joy, each artist redefines the geography of Dream Country and demonstrates that it truly is a land without limits.

Consider, then, this book your introductory travel guide to a world you visit every night but barely know. Perhaps these stories will inspire you to write down dreams of your own, and from them, create worlds. It's possible. As a wise cat says, "Dream the world the way it truly is." When we're in Dream Country, we can.

Safe passage and pleasant dreams.

FOREWORD

My father died last year. He'd been sick for some time. Two weeks after his death I had a dream about him. I was walking through the rooms of a very nice rest home; the windows were open, and outside the sky was blue and trees were swaying in the breeze. There was no one else in this home, no one but my father. He was sitting up in his bed and looked fine; he was tranquil and happy. He greeted me. Oh, I said, this is a dream.

This is not a dream, he answered.

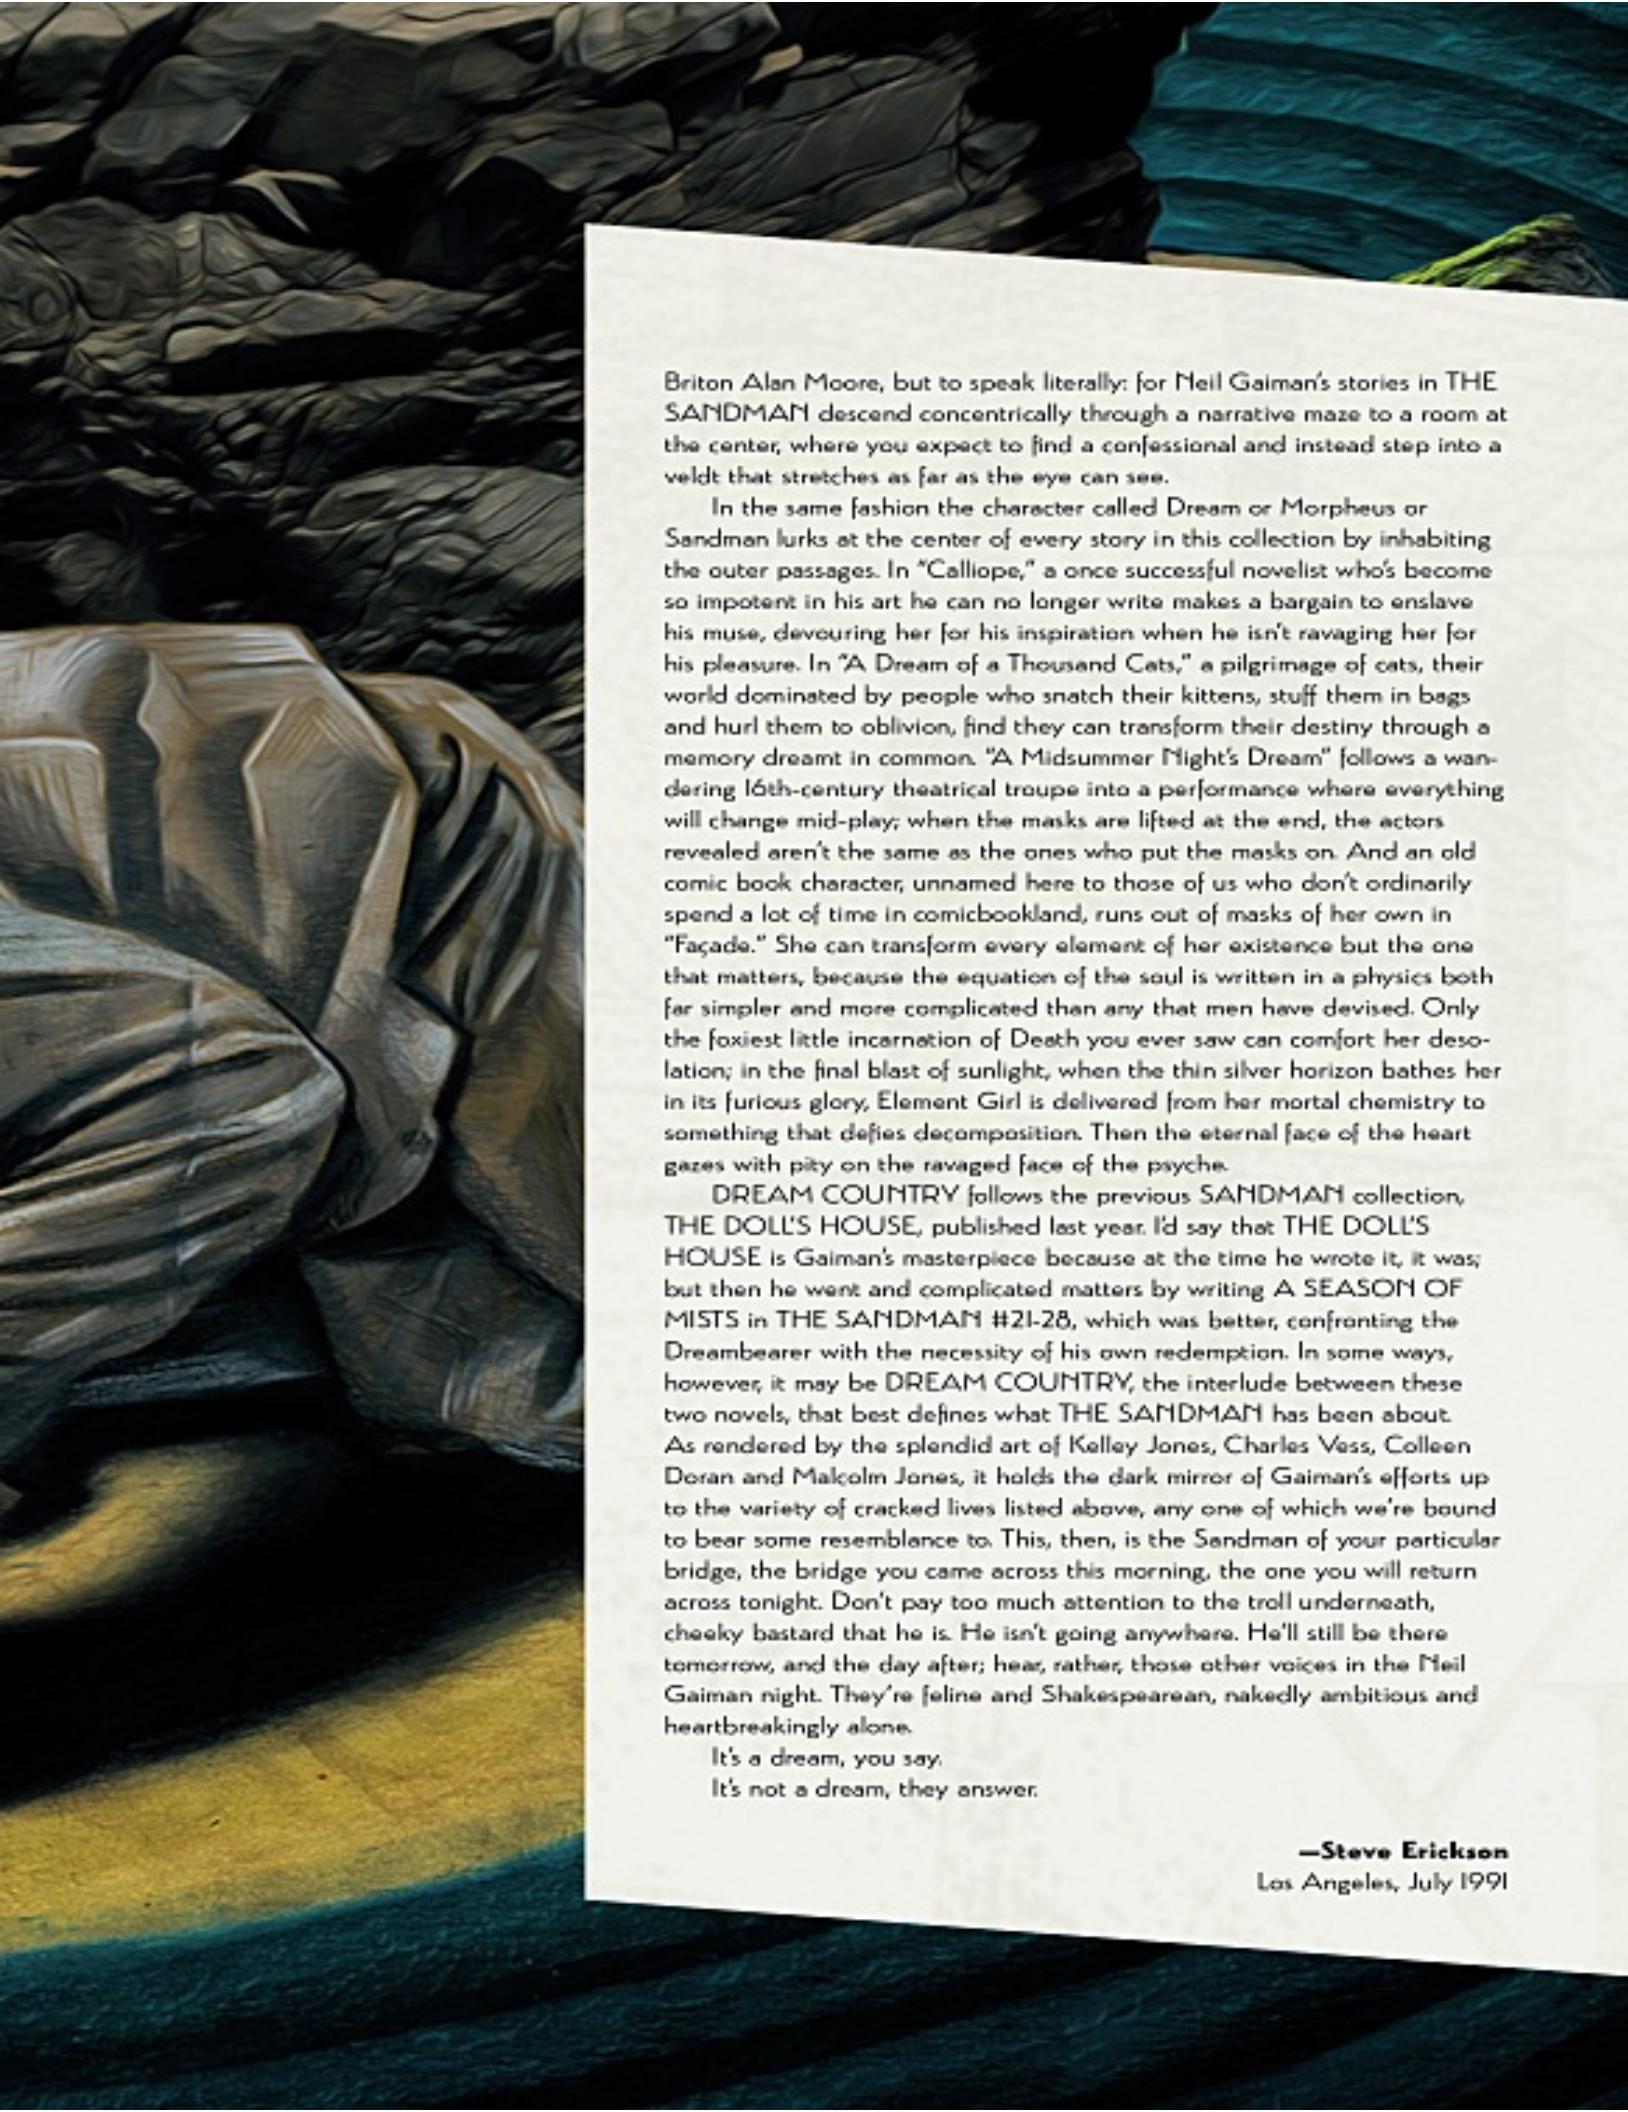

We sat there for some time discussing this. On his lap he held a small plate and on the plate was a small pastry. He gave the pastry to me and said, Here, taste this; and I did. He said, You can taste it, can't you? and I could. He said, You can taste it because this isn't a dream. But I wouldn't believe him, and then I woke up. Except I didn't wake into consciousness but rather into another dream.

I've told a number of people about this since it happened, and every one of them has said the same thing. Every one of them has said that my father was right.

I'm writing this in the morning now. I'm writing this on the fine edge of that blade that's consciousness on one side and dream on the other, that thin silver horizon where you hover right before falling asleep, and right before completely waking. Neil Gaiman lives here all the damn time. He scribbles his stories and sends them out from the thin silver horizon whose bridge the rest of us traverse just twice a day. Gaiman is the troll who lives beneath the bridge; he exhales into word balloons the visions that flash only fleetingly across our gaze and then are gone with the next memory. Dreams of what we've loved and lost, dreams that are more vivid than our lives, dreams that tell you they aren't dreams, from which come the questions that trouble and enthrall and finally free our spirits, if we're brave enough for the answers. Gaiman's ideas, in other words, of a good time.

If I say that he writes circles around everyone else in comics, it's not simply to put him in a rare class with Gilbert Hernandez and Art Spiegelman and fellow Briton Alan Moore, but to speak literally: for Neil Gaiman's stories in THE SANDMAN descend concentrically through a narrative maze to a room at the center, where you expect to find a confessional and instead step into a veldt that stretches as far as the eye can see.

In the same fashion the character called Dream or Morpheus or Sandman lurks at the center of every story in this collection by inhabiting the outer passages. In "Calliope," a once successful novelist who's become so impotent in his art he can no longer write makes a bargain to enslave his muse, devouring her for his inspiration when he isn't ravaging her for his pleasure. In "A Dream of a Thousand Cats," a pilgrimage of cats, their world dominated by people who snatch their kittens, stuff them in bags and hurl them to oblivion, find they can transform their destiny through a memory dreamt in common. "A Midsummer Night's Dream" follows a wandering 16th-century theatrical troupe into a performance where everything will change mid-play; when the masks are lifted at the end, the actors revealed aren't the same as the ones who put the masks on. And an old comic book character, unnamed here to those of us who don't ordinarily spend a lot of time in comicbookland, runs out of masks of her own in "Façade." She can transform every element of her existence but the one that matters, because the equation of the soul is written in a physics both far simpler and more complicated than any that men have devised. Only the foxiest little incarnation of Death you ever saw can comfort her desolation; in the final blast of sunlight, when the thin silver horizon bathes her in its furious glory, Element Girl is delivered from her mortal chemistry to something that defies decomposition. Then the eternal face of the heart gazes with pity on the ravaged face of the psyche.

DREAM COUNTRY follows the previous SANDMAN collection, THE DOLL'S HOUSE, published last year. I'd say that THE DOLL'S HOUSE is Gaiman's masterpiece because at the time he wrote it, it was; but then he went and complicated matters by writing A SEASON OF MISTS in THE SANDMAN #21-28, which was better, confronting the Dreambearer with the necessity of his own redemption. In some ways, however, it may be DREAM COUNTRY, the interlude between these two novels, that best defines what THE SANDMAN has been about. As rendered by the splendid art of Kelley Jones, Charles Vess, Colleen Doran and Malcolm Jones, it holds the dark mirror of Gaiman's efforts up to the variety of cracked lives listed above, any one of which we're bound to bear some resemblance to. This, then, is the Sandman of your particular bridge, the bridge you came across this morning, the one you will return across tonight. Don't pay too much attention to the troll underneath, cheeky bastard that he is. He isn't going anywhere. He'll still be there tomorrow, and the day after; hear, rather, those other voices in the Neil Gaiman night. They're feline and Shakespearean, nakedly ambitious and heartbreakingly alone.

It's a dream, you say.

It's not a dream, they answer.

IT'S DISGUSTING. BUT THANKS. WHAT DO I OWE YOU, FELIX?

FEATURING CHARACTERS CREATED BY GAIMAN,
KIETH & DRINGENBERG

I WAS NOT ALWAYS AS YOU
SEE ME
TODAY.

ONCE, MANY YESTERDAYS GONE, I,
LIKE MANY OF YOU, WAS IN THE THRALL OF HUMAN BEINGS, LIVING IN THEIR WORLD: PLAYTHING, POSSESSION AND TOY.

AND I FOOLED MYSELF--AS,
PERHAPS, MANY OF YOU FOOL
YOURSELVES--THAT I WAS IN CONTROL OF MY OWN LIFE.

THEY FED ME,
DID THEY NOT?
THEY GAVE ME COMFORT AND WARMTH.

AND WHAT DID I GIVE THEM IN RETURN? SOME AFFECTION, PERHAPS.
MY PRESENCE.

LITTLE ENOUGH, REALLY, FOR WHAT THEY OFFERED.

HE WAS A TOM-CAT.

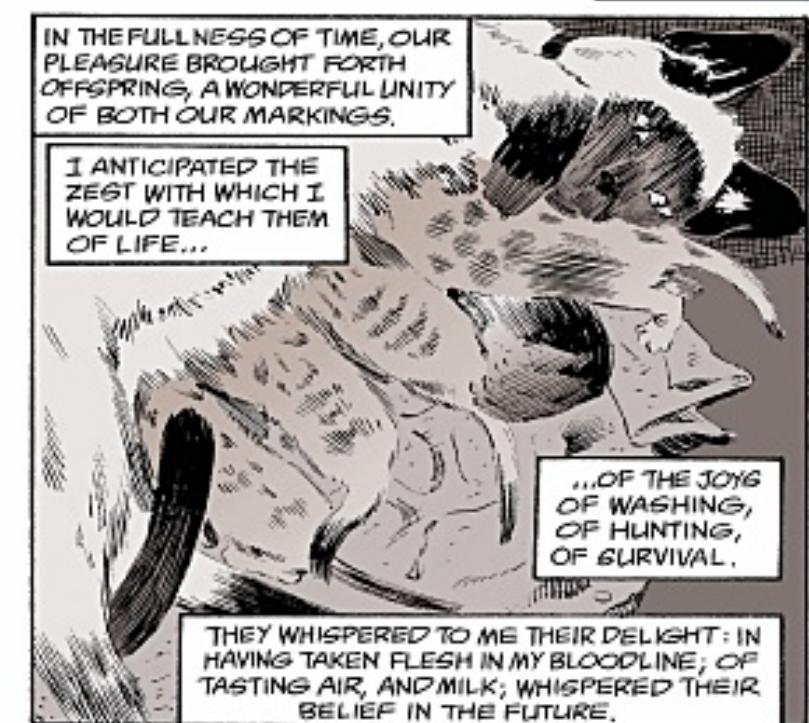

RAGGED OF EAR.

DARK OF EYE.

IT WAS MY TIME FOR LOVE; AND HE WAS MY CHOICE FOR LOVER.

I PRAYED TO THE DARKNESS, TO
THE NIGHT, TO THE CARRION KING.

I PRAYED TO THE KING OF THE CATS, THE KING'S EMIGGARY ON EARTH, HE WHO WALKS AMONGST US AND WE DO NOT KNOW HIM.

I PRAYED...

...AND I DREAMED.

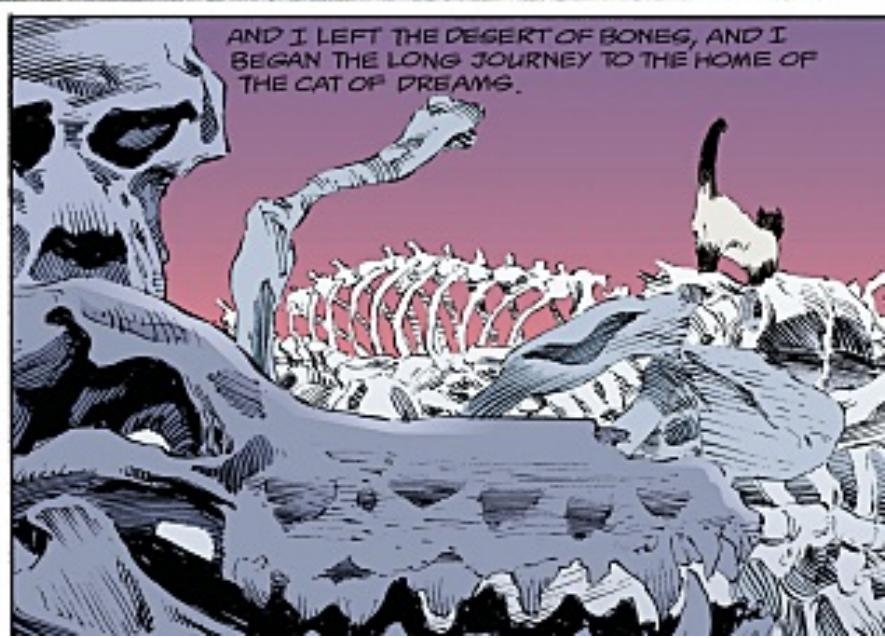

WHY HAVE YOU
VENTURED TO THE HEART OF THE DREAMING,
LITTLE CAT?

THERE IS NOTHING HERE
FOR YOU.

I HAVE COME HERE
FOR JUSTICE; I HAVE COME FOR REVELATION; I HAVE COME FOR WISDOM.

I WALKED THROUGH THE WOOD OF GHOSTS, WHERE THE DEAD AND THE LOST WHISPERED CONTINUALLY, PROMISED ME WORLDS IF I WOULD ONLY STOP AND PLAY WITH THEM.

AT ONE POINT I THOUGHT I HEARD MY CHILDREN CALLING ME, BUT I STRAIGHTENED MY TAIL, AND I WALKED FORWARD.

I WALKED THROUGH THE WETNESS THAT NUMBED MY PAWS, DRENCHED MY FUR, TRIED TO WASH AWAY MY MEMORIES.

I WALKED THROUGH THE DARKNESS, THROUGH THE VOID, WHERE EVERYTHING WAS SUCKED FROM ME--EVERYTHING THAT MAKES ME WHAT I AM.

BUT EVEN IN THE EMPTINESS OF PURE NOTHING, NO LONGER KNOWING WHY I WAS WALKING OR WHAT I WAS SEEKING, I WALKED ONWARD.

I WALKED THROUGH THE COLD PLACES, HARD AND FROZEN, WHERE EVERY STEP WAS PAIN, EVERY MOVEMENT WAS TORMENT.

I WALKED ON.

AND, AFTER A TIME, MY SELF RETURNED TO ME, AND I LEFT THAT PLACE, AND I FOUND MYSELF AT THE MOUNTAIN OF THE CAT OF DREAMS.

AND I SAW THE CAVE, AND ITS GUARDIANS. AND I SAID TO THEM, "I HAVE COME TO TALK WITH THE CAT OF DREAMS."

WHY SHOULD WE LET YOU THROUGH, LITTLE ONE?

ONE SMALL MOUTHFUL, AND THAT MOSTLY FUR AND BONE.

WHY SHOULD THE DREAM LORD BE DISTURBED BY ONE SUCH AS YOU?

WELL? ANSWER US.

THE DREAM LORD WILL NOT BE AMUSED IF WE ALLOW YOU TO WEX HIM WITHOUT FIT REASON.

I HAVE COME TOO FAR TO BE TURNED AWAY NOW, GRYPHON.

I WILL STATE MY BUSINESS TO THE DREAM LORD, AND ONLY TO HIM.

I AM A CAT, AND I KEEP MY OWN COUNSEL.

ENTER, THEN, PUSSYCAT.

BUT BE WARNED: DREAMS HAVE THEIR PRICE.

AND I WALKED ON.

THE SCENT ON THE AIR WAS STRANGE, BUT STILL IT WAS CAT.

I WALKED FORWARD SLOWLY, EVERY SENSE SCREAMING AT ME TO FLEE
THIS PLACE. MY FUR PRICKLED, MY CLAWS EXTENDED.

AND THEN I STOOD BEFORE HIM.

AND IT SHOWED ME. IT TOLD ME THE TRUTH, EVEN AS I AM TELLING IT TO YOU NOW.

FOR IN ITS EYES I SAW PICTURES. AND IN THE PICTURES I SAW THE TRUTH.

ALL CATS CAN SEE FUTURES, AND SEE ECHOES OF THE PAST. WE CAN WATCH THE PASSAGE OF CREATURES FROM THE INFINITY OF NOW, FROM ALL THE WORLDS LIKE OURS, ONLY FRACTIONALLY DIFFERENT.

AND WE FOLLOW THEM WITH OUR EYES, GHOST THINGS, AND THE HUMANS SEE NOTHING.

BUT THE REALITY THE CAT OF DREAMS SHOWED ME TRANSCENDED ANYTHING I HAD IMAGINED.

MANY, MANY SEASONS AGO, CATS TRULY RULED THIS WORLD.

WE WERE LARGER THEN, AND THIS WHOLE WORLD WAS CREATED FOR OUR PLEASURE. WE ROAMED IT AS WE WOULD, TAKING WHAT WE WANTED.

IN THOSE TIMES
HUMANS WERE TINY CREATURES,
NO LARGER THAN WE ARE NOW.

AND THE HUMANS WOULD GROOM US, AND FEED US, AND PET US.

AND WHEN THE MOON SHONE FULL, WE WOULD HUNT THEM, AND WE WOULD EAT PART OF THEM, BUT CHIEFLY WE WOULD HUNT THEM...

...FOR THEY WERE MORE DELIGHTFUL
TO HUNT EVEN THAN BIRDS, AND BACK
THEN, MICE WERE TOO SMALL AND INSIGNIFICANT FOR US TO DEIGN TO TOUCH.

OH, THE JOY OF THOSE HUNTING DAYS,
BENEATH THE CAT'S MOON. THE GAME OF CAT AND MAN...

PRRRRRRR.

THEN A HUMAN AROSE AMONGST THEM. A GOLDEN-FURRED MALE, BRED AND RAISED IN THE PLEASURE GARDENS OF ONE OF THE SYBARITIC FELINE LADIES.

AND THE HUMAN HAD A DREAM, AND AN INSPIRATION, AND IT WALKED AMONGST ITS FELLOWS, AND IT TOLD THEM...

DO NOT DREAM THE WORLD THE WAY IT IS NOW, IN THRALL TO OUR FELINE MASTERS AND MISTRESSES.

DREAM A NEW WORLD. DREAM A WORLD OF HUMAN BEINGS. DREAM A WORLD IN WHICH WE ARE THE DOMINANT SPECIES, IN WHICH WE ARE THE KINGS AND THE QUEENS, AND THE GODS.

DREAM A WORLD IN WHICH WE WILL NO LONGER BE HUNTED AND KILLED BY CATS.

I DO NOT KNOW HOW MANY OF US IT WILL TAKE. BUT WE MUST DREAM IT, AND IF ENOUGH OF US DREAM IT, THEN IT WILL HAPPEN.

DREAMS SHAPE THE WORLD.

AND THE WORD SPREAD AMONGST THE HUMANS.

AND SOME OF THEM BELIEVED AND THEY DREAMED.

AND, FOR A WHILE, NOTHING HAPPENED.

ONE NIGHT, ENOUGH OF THEM DREAMED. IT DID NOT TAKE MANY OF THEM. A THOUSAND, PERHAPS. NO MORE.

THEY DREAMED...

AND THE NEXT DAY, THINGS CHANGED.

HUMANS WERE HUGE, AND CATS WERE TINY. HUMANS WERE THE DOMINANT SPECIES, AND WE WERE PREY TO THEM, TO DOGS, TO THEIR METAL MACHINES.

PREY TO THE WORLD THE HUMANS HAD BROUGHT WITH THEM.

ALL THIS I SAW, WHEN I LOOKED INTO THE DREAM CAT'S EYES.

YOU SEE, I HAD SEEN THE UNDER-SIDE OF
WHAT HE HAD GIVEN TO ME.

IF THEY COULD DREAM
IT...

WE COULD CHANGE THINGS BACK, IF WE BELIEVED, IF WE DREAMED.

WE ARE THE DREAMS OF
THE CARRION KIND, THEY SAY, AND
PERHAPS IT IS SO.

BUT IF ENOUGH OF US
DREAM...
IF A BARE THOUSAND OF US DREAM...

...WE CAN CHANGE
THE WORLD.

WE CAN DREAM IT ANEW! A WORLD IN WHICH NO CAT SUFFERS FROM THE MALICE OF HUMANS.
IN WHICH NO CATS ARE KILLED
BY HUMAN CAPRICE.

A WORLD THAT WE RULE.

I LEFT THE HUMANS THAT VERY DAY, TO SPREAD
THE GOOD NEWS.

AND NOW I TRAVEL FROM PLACE TO PLACE.

I HAVE WALKED FOR LEAGUES BEYOND MEASURE.
I HAVE STARVED, SOMETIMES; AND OFTEN I HAVE BEEN HURT. BUT I HAVE WALKED ON.

IN A METAL MACHINE I CROSSED THE COLD WATERS.

I HAVE PREACHED TO SOLITARY FERAL CATS
IN EMPTY PLACES.

I HAVE SHOUTED MY MESSAGE TO THE STARS FROM ROOFTOPS AND WHISPERED IT TO DYING
CATS IN ALLEYWAYS.

I HAVE SPOKEN TO ONE CAT, AND TO
MANY. AND WHEREVER I HAVE GONE, MY MESSAGE IS THE SAME...

DREAM IT!

DREAM THE WORLD, NOT THIS PALLID SHADOW OF REALITY. DREAM THE WORLD THE WAY IT TRULY IS.

A WORLD IN WHICH ALL CATS ARE QUEENS AND KINGS OF CREATION.

THAT IS MY MESSAGE.

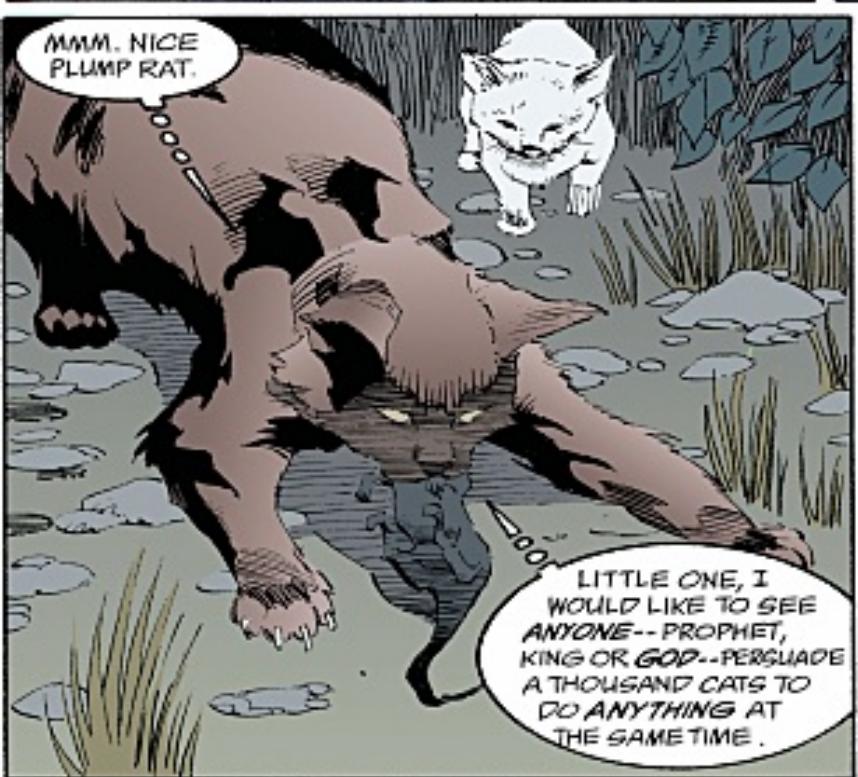

AND I SHALL KEEP MOVING, KEEP REPEATING IT, UNTIL I DIE.

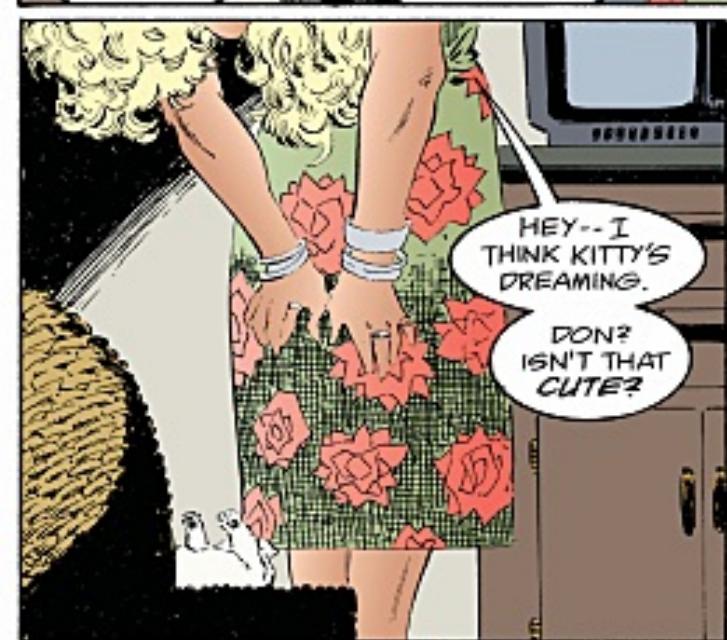

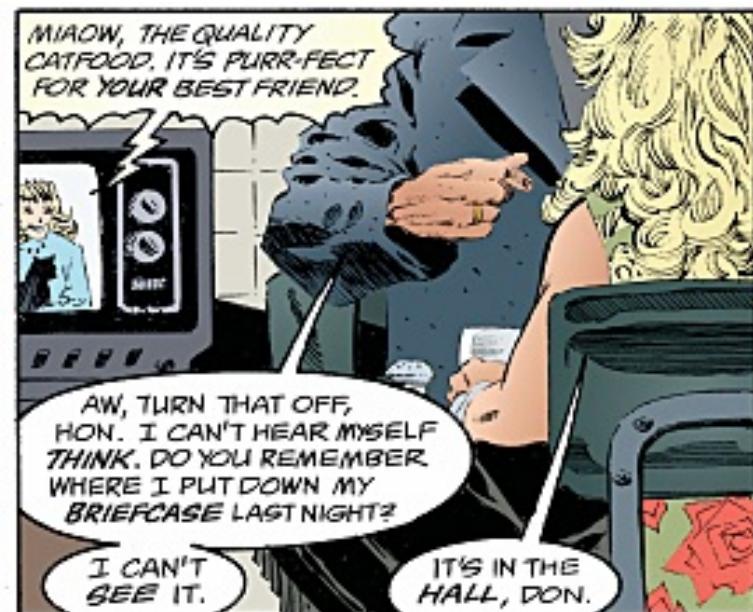

OR UNTIL A THOUSAND CATS HEAR MY WORDS, AND BELIEVE THEM, AND DREAM...

AND WE COME AGAIN TO PARADISE.

MISTRESS--
I BELIEVE.

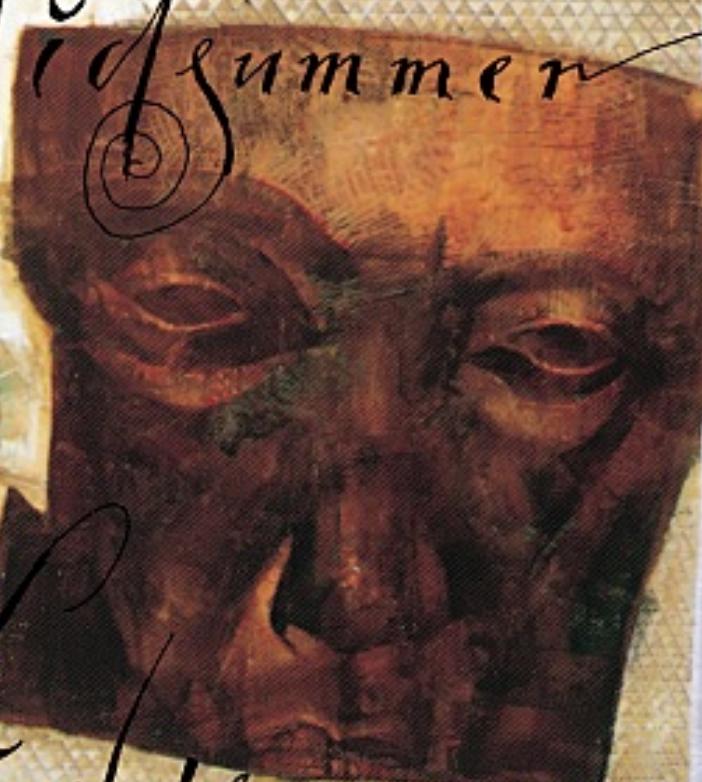

NEXT: A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM...

Midsummer

Nights Dream

JUNE 23RD, 1593.

FATHER? HOW LONG UNTIL WE GET TO AN INN? MY LEGS ARE TIRED OF WALKING.

HMMN? I NEVER SAID WE WERE GOING TO AN INN, HAMNET.

BUT FATHER, YOU SAID THAT WE WOULD BE PERFORMING THE NEW PLAY TONIGHT. WHERE SHALL WE PLAY IT IF NOT IN AN INN?

I HAVE NO IDEA. BUT WE WILL KNOW SOON. KEEP YOUR EYES ON THE ROAD AHEAD, LAD.

BUT FATHER...

WILL! A MOMENT OF YOUR TIME.

YES, KEMP?

I HAVE AN IDEA! HOW WOULD IT BE IF I WERE TO BE EATING A PORK PIE, IN THE FIRST SCENE? AND THEN, I COULD SIT ON IT, DURING BOB ARMIN'S SPEECH.

I THINK NOT.

BUT IT WOULD MAKE THEM LAUGH.

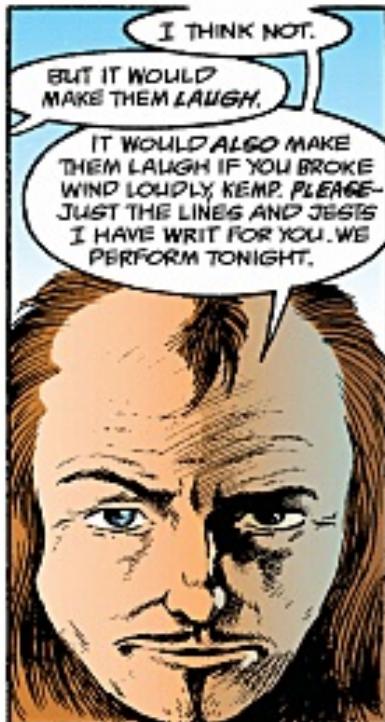

IT WOULD ALSO MAKE THEM LAUGH IF YOU BROKE WIND LOUDLY, KEMP. PLEASE JUST THE LINES AND JESTS I HAVE WRITTEN FOR YOU. WE PERFORM TONIGHT.

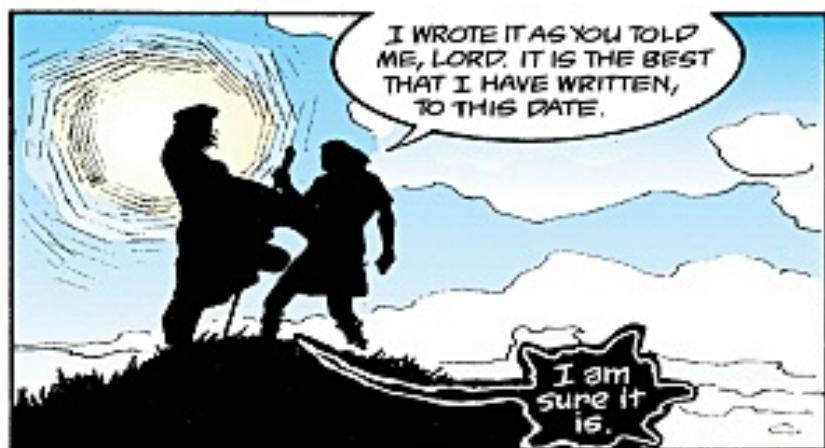

FATHER! I CAN SEE A MAN ON THE WAY, THERE!

INDEED.

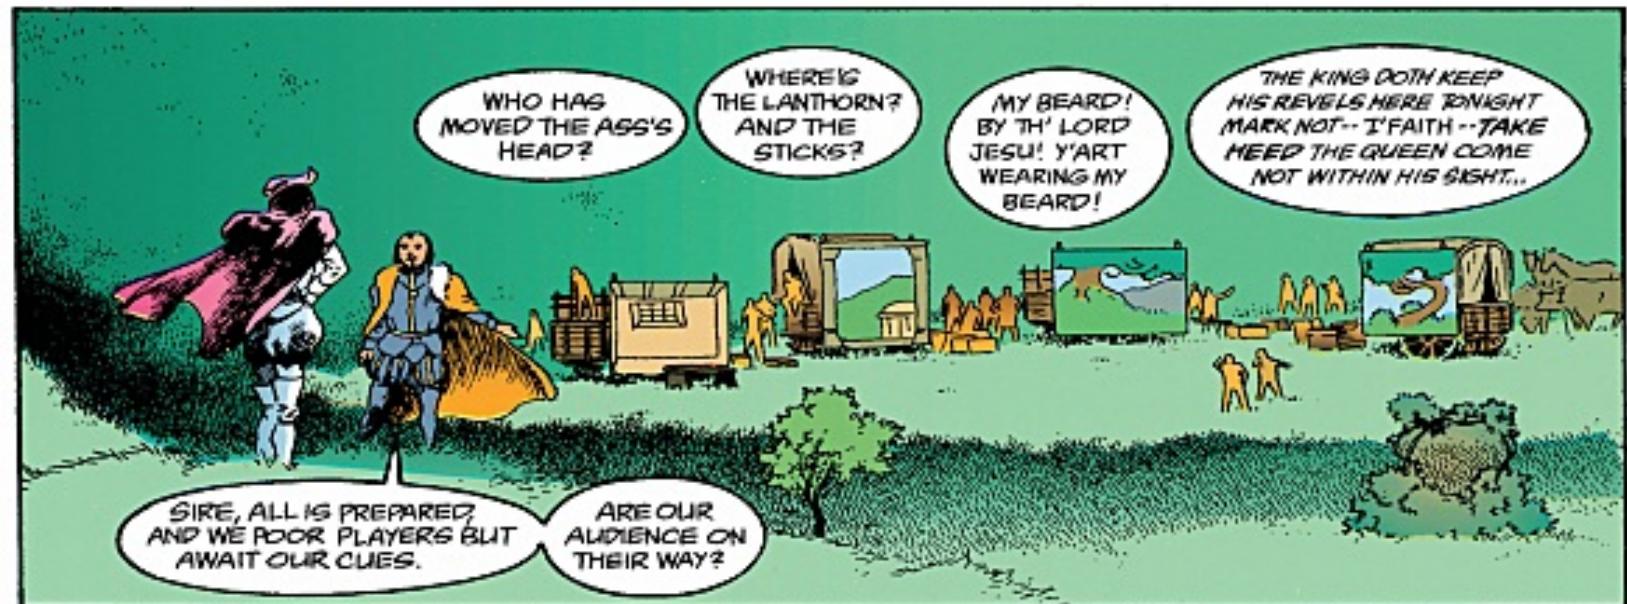

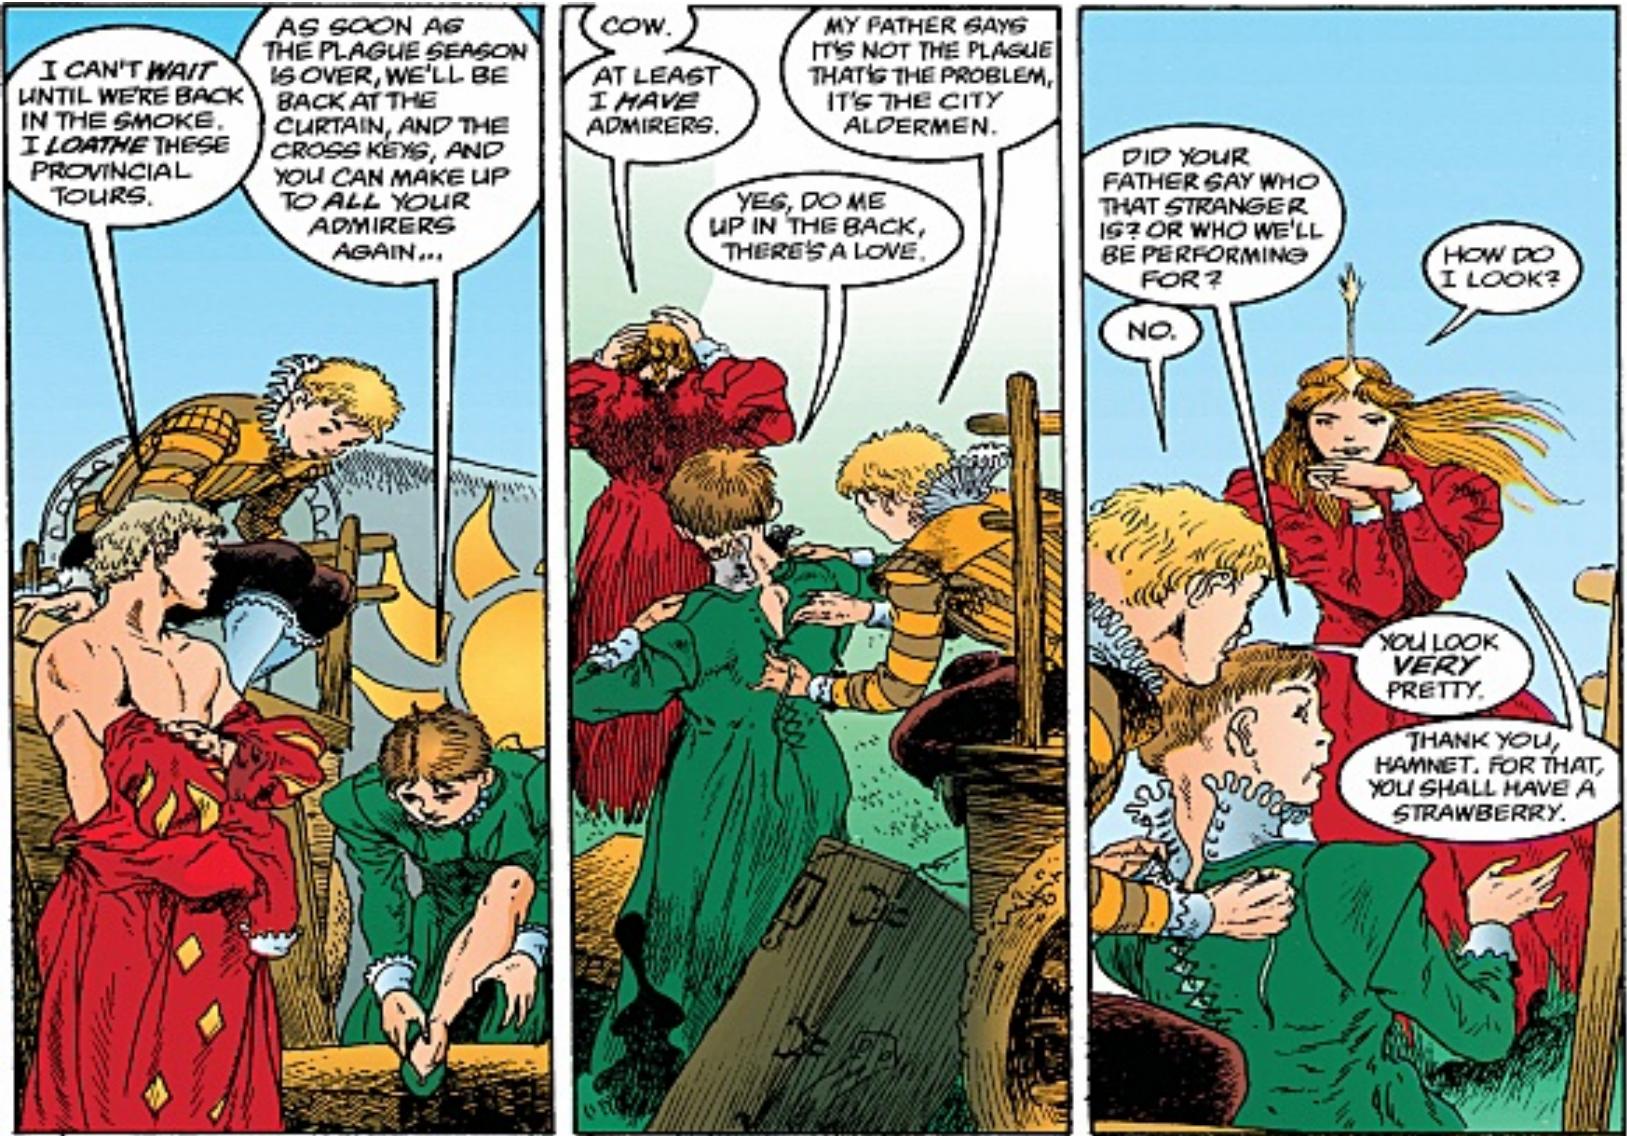

LOOK. WILL HE BE OUR AUDIENCE?

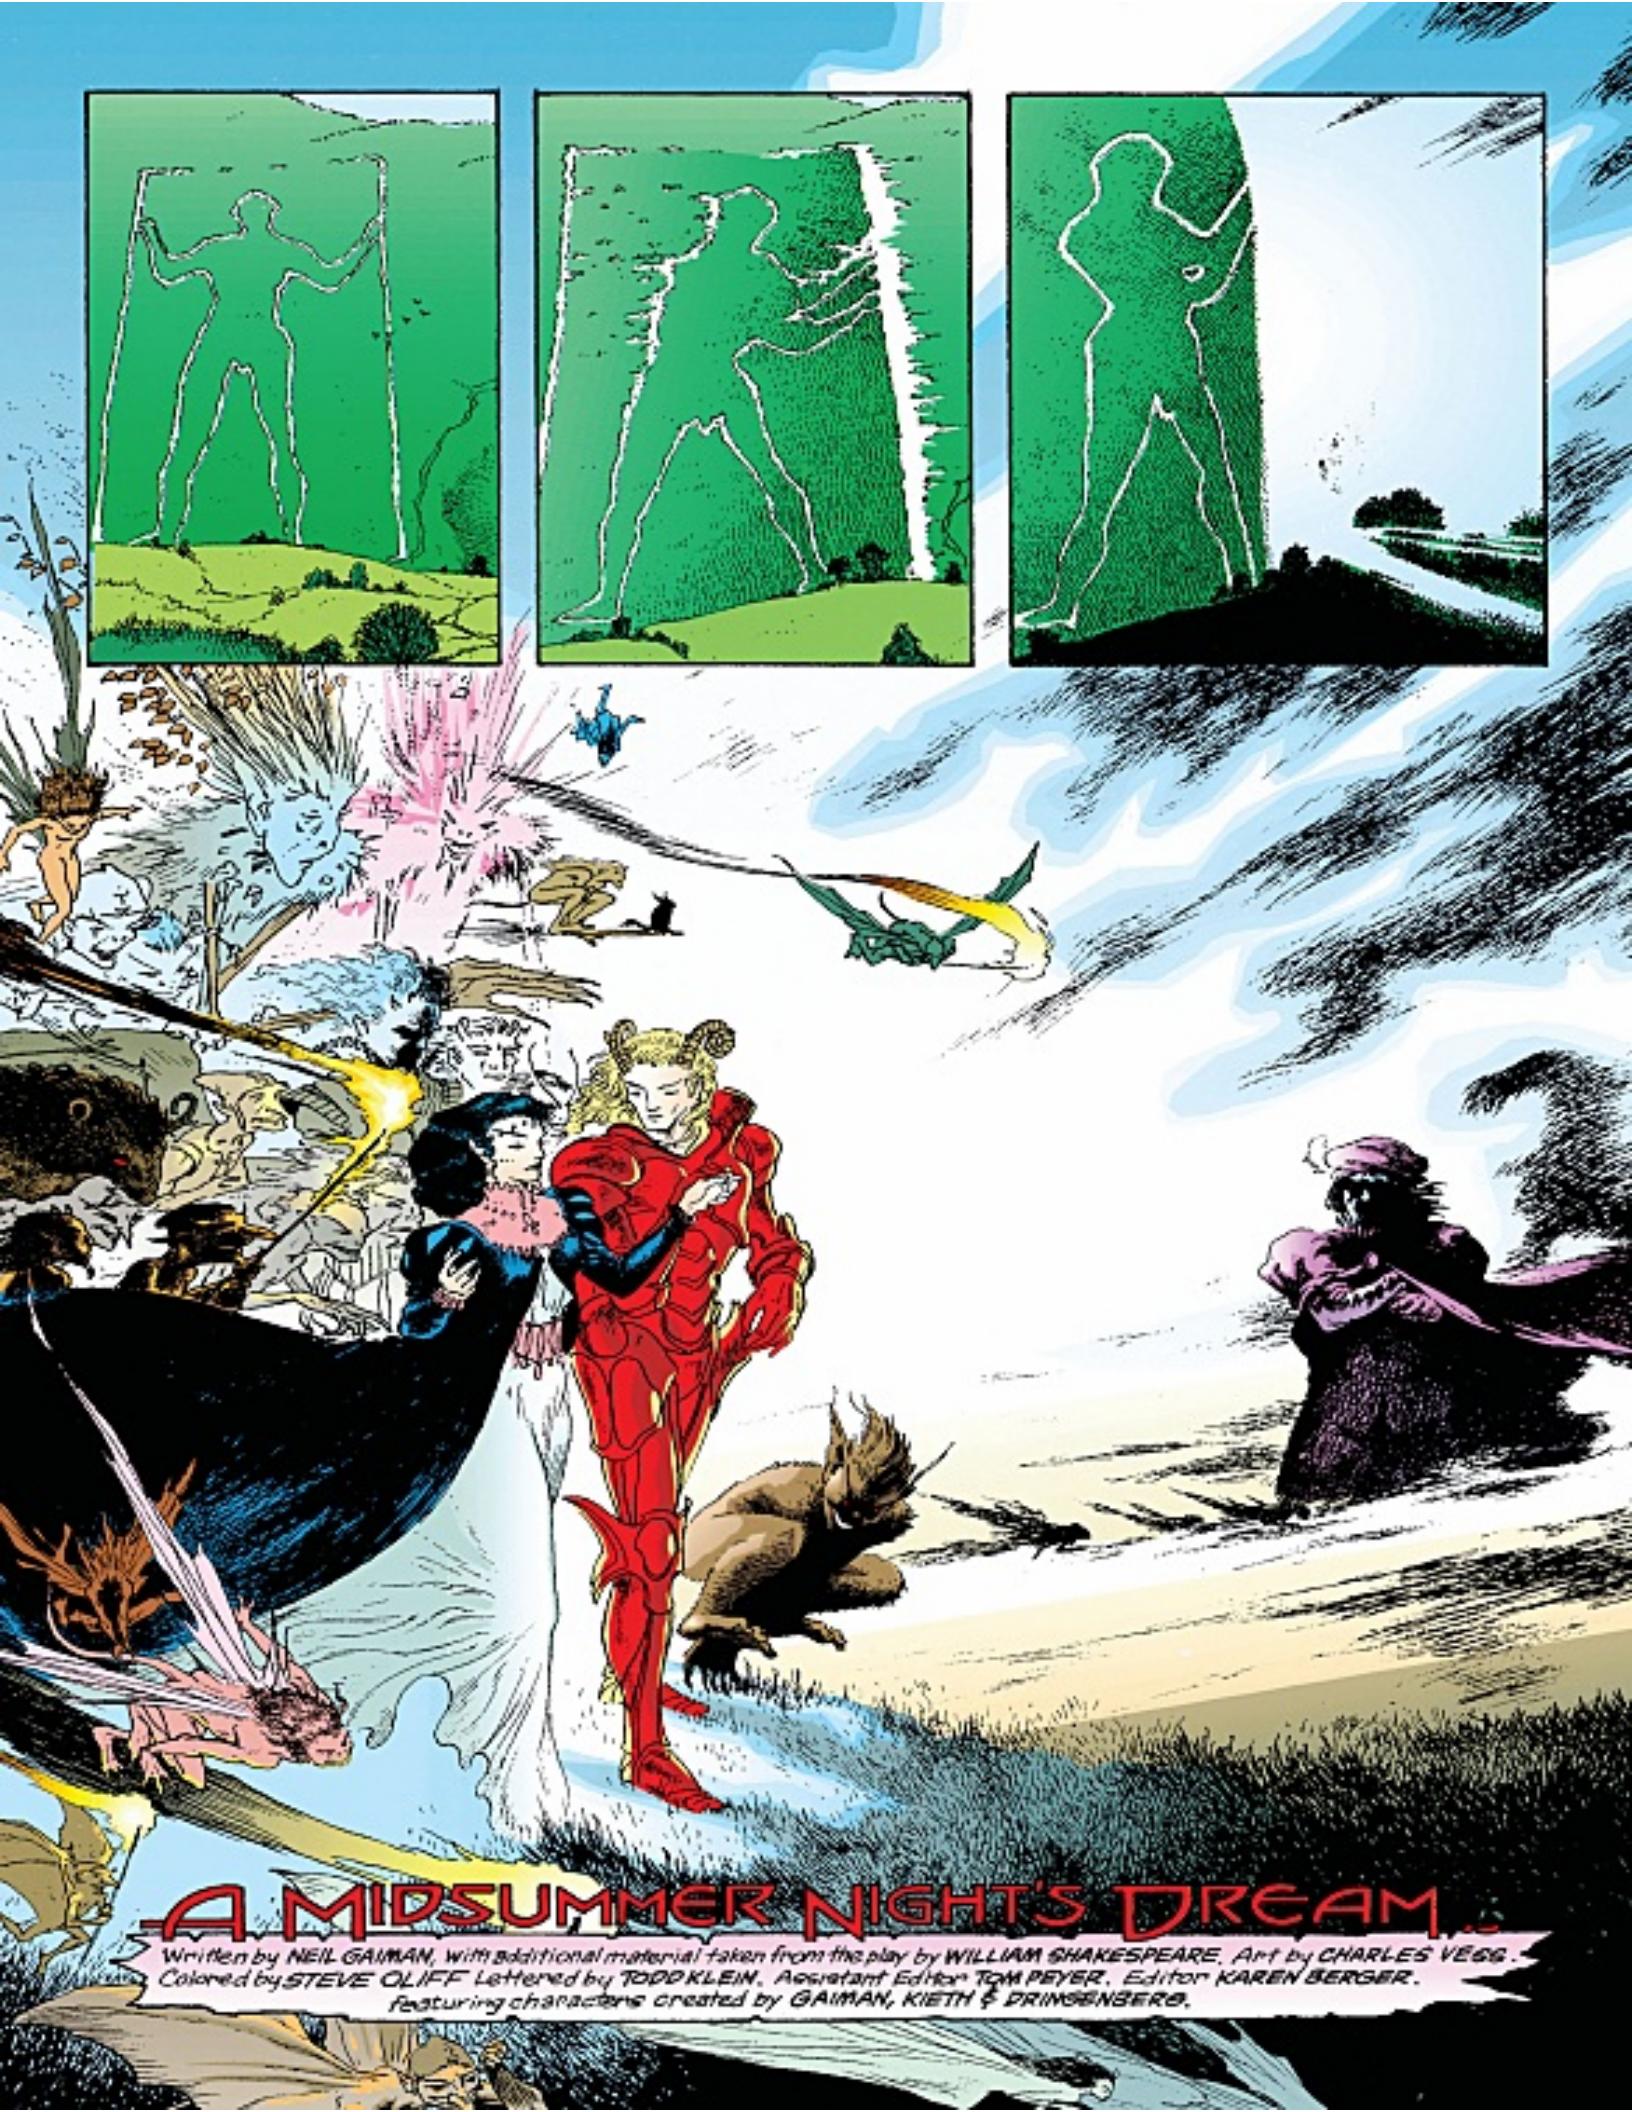

I FEAR SO, LAD.

I wonder, Titania. I wonder if I have done right.

And I wonder why I wonder. Will is a willing vehicle for the great stories.

Through him they will live for an age of man; and his words will echo down through time. It is what he wanted.

But he did not understand the prize, their heart's price. Mortals never do.

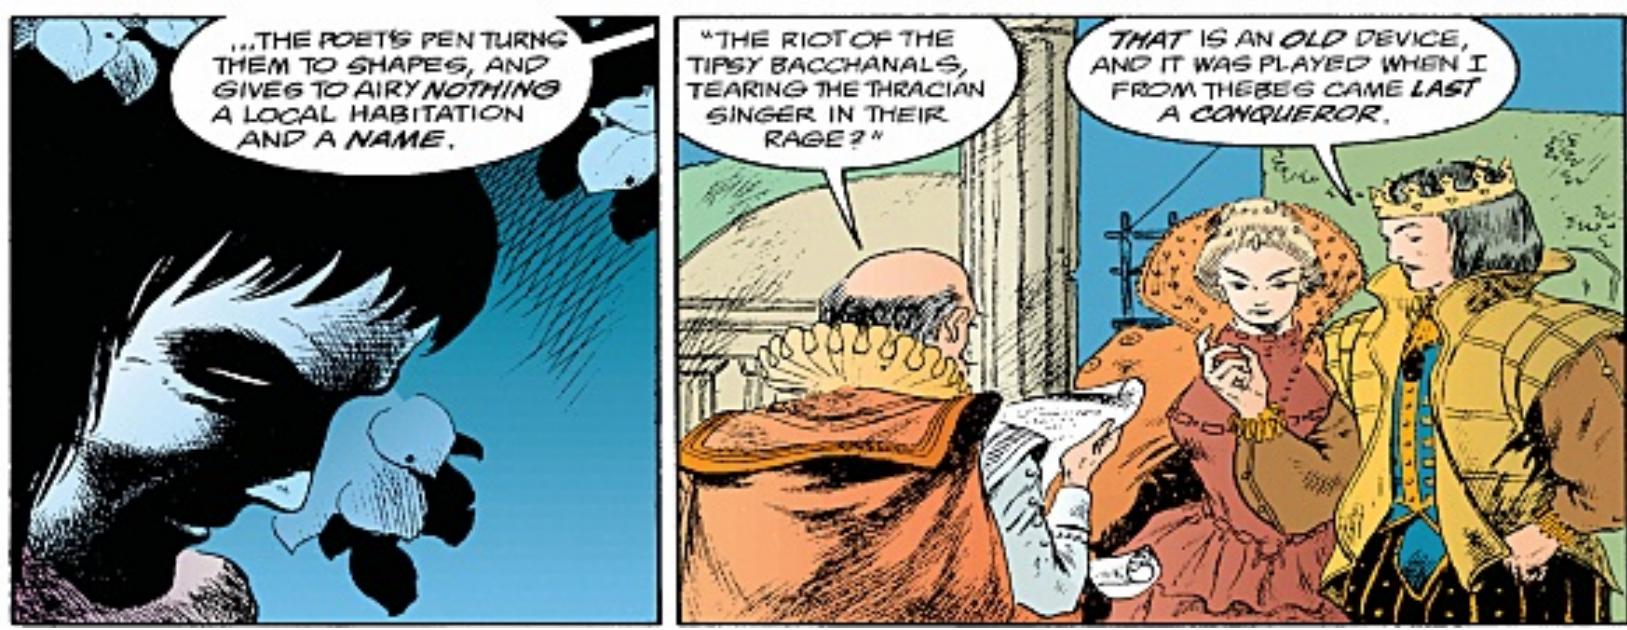

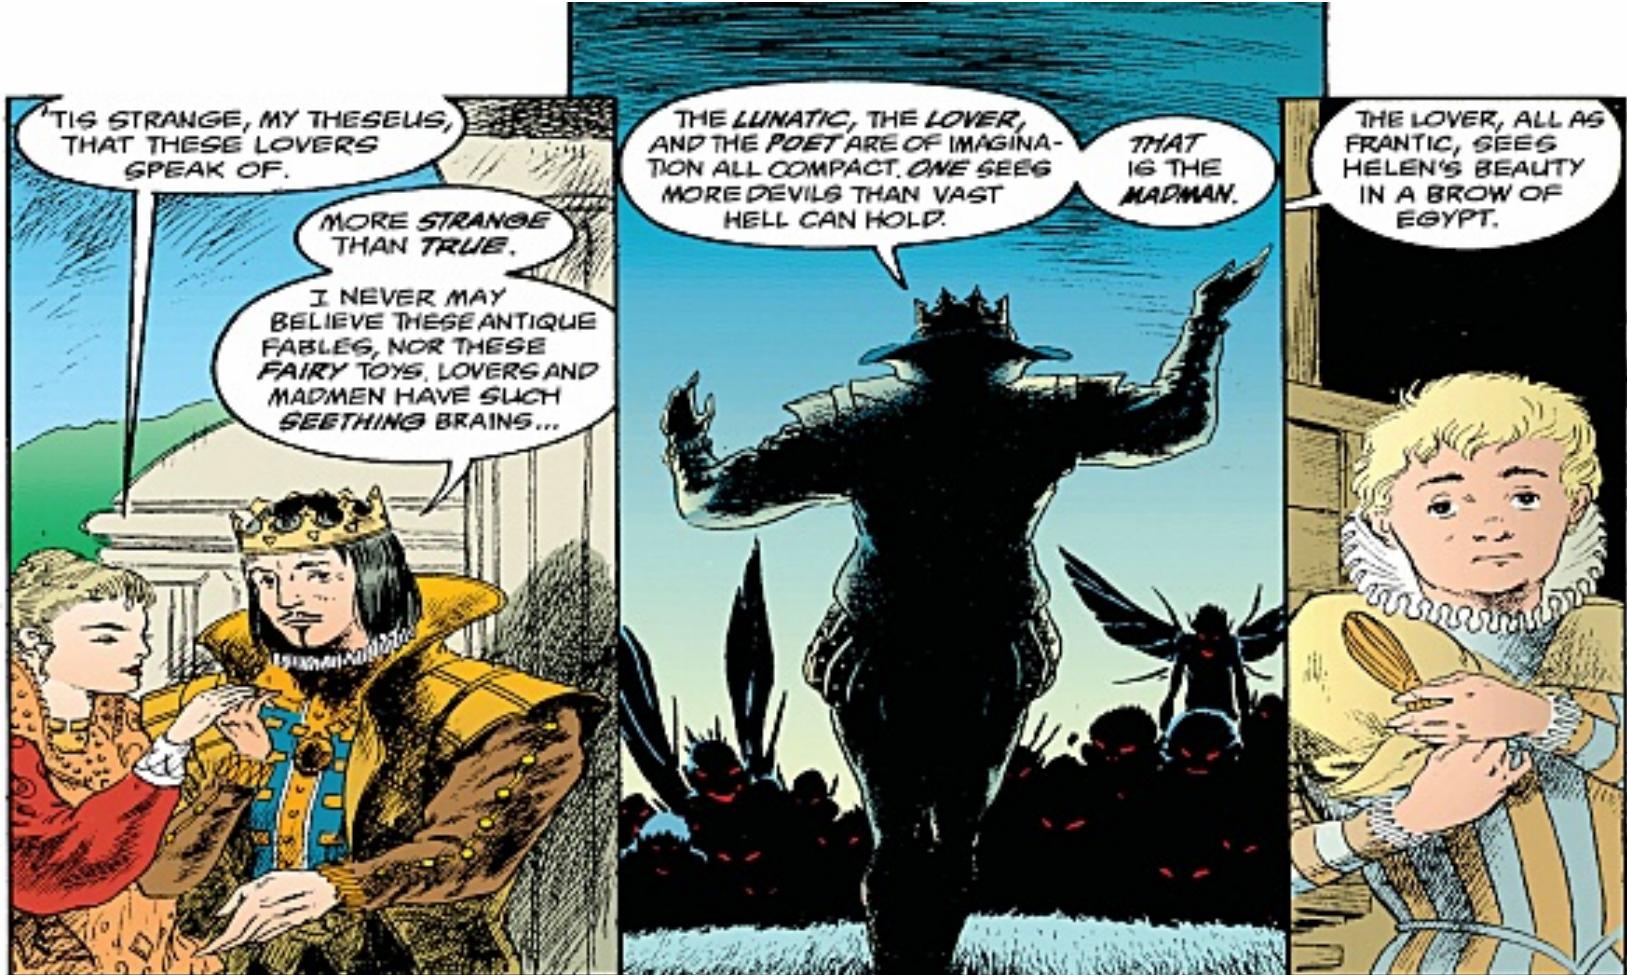

They only see the desire, their dream... But the price of getting what you want, is getting what once you wanted.

And had I told him? Had he understood? What then? It would have made no difference.

Have I done right, Titania? Have I done right?

HM? OH, IT IS A WONDERFUL PLAY, LORD SHAPER, MOST ENCHANTING AND FINE.

I LOOK LIKE THEM.

YOU WERE REALLY CUTE. I MEAN BEFORE. FROM YOUR FILE.

YOUR CHECK DOESN'T GO OUT TILL THE LAST WEDNESDAY IN THE MONTH, RAINIE. YOU SHOULD KNOW THAT BY NOW.

HUH? I DUNNO, RAINIE. SORT OF NORMAL, I GUESS. BROWN HAIR, BROWN EYES. FIVE FOOT TEN. HOW ABOUT YOU?

I CAN LOOK LIKE THAT NOW, MULLIGAN. I CAN EVEN FEEL LIKE FLESH, SO YOU ALMOST COULDN'T TELL. HONEST.

IT--IT'S JUHJUST WHUWHAT YUHYOU

THINGS AWAY...

I WANT TO DIE. I WANT TO KUH-KILL MYSELF.

AND--
AND I CAN'T!

IT'S NOT THAT I'M TOO SCARED TO KILL MYSELF.

I--I'M SCARED OF
LOTS OF THINGS.

I'M SCARED OF NOISES IN THE NIGHT-TIME, SCARED OF TELEPHONES AND CLOSED DOORS,
SCARED OF PEOPLE... SCARED OF EVERYTHING.

NOT OF DEATH.

I WANT TO DIE.

IT'S JUST THAT I DON'T KNOW HOW.

I'VE BEEN THINKING ABOUT IT FOR SO LONG, NOW. I CAN'T SLASH MY WRISTS--I DON'T HAVE ANY BLOOD.

WHEN I WAS AT HIGH SCHOOL, A KID SHUT HIMSELF IN A GARAGE, TOOK SLEEPING PILLS, CLIMBED IN THE CAR AND TURNED THE IGNITION.

I CAN'T DO THAT. CARBON MONOXIDE'S JUST ANOTHER GAS, TO ME.

"AND MY BODY JUST PROCESSES POISONS."

I CAN'T SHOOT MYSELF. A BULLET WOULDN'T DO ANY REAL DAMAGE.

SO THEN I GET MORE EXTREME.

"MAYBE I COULD SIT AT GROUND ZERO OF A NUCLEAR TEST-- IF I COULD FIND ONE.

"BUT I'M AFRAID I COULD SURVIVE THAT. I THINK I WOULD."

"PERHAPS I'D BE RADIOACTIVE FOR ALWAYS... BUT I'D SURVIVE."

I WANT IT TO STOP. I DON'T KNOW HOW TO STOP IT.

HOW DID THAT SONG GO? FROM THAT TV SHOW?

SUICIDE IS PAINLESS... IT BRINGS ON MANY CHANGES... AND I CAN TAKE OR LEAVE IT...

"I THOUGHT ABOUT TRANS-MUTING MYSELF TO FREE OXYGEN RADICALS AND JUST MELTING WITH THE AIR, OR WITH ADDED HYDROGEN, I COULD BECOME WATER AND JOIN MYSELF WITH THE SEA.

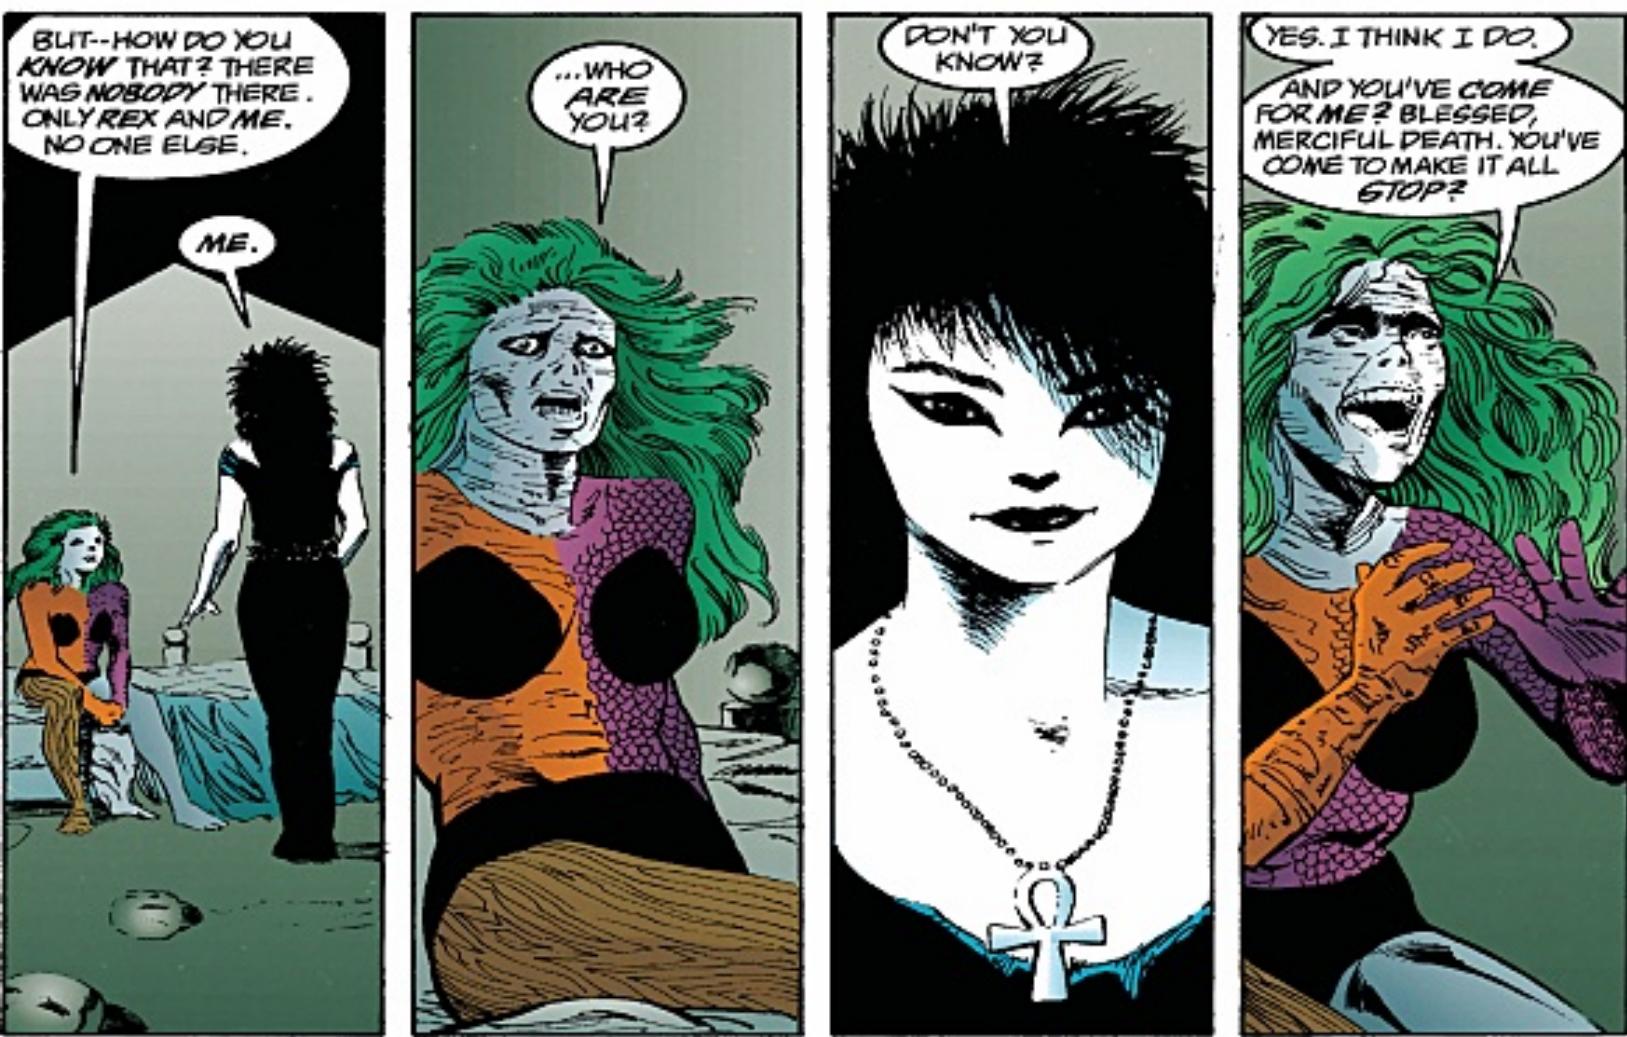

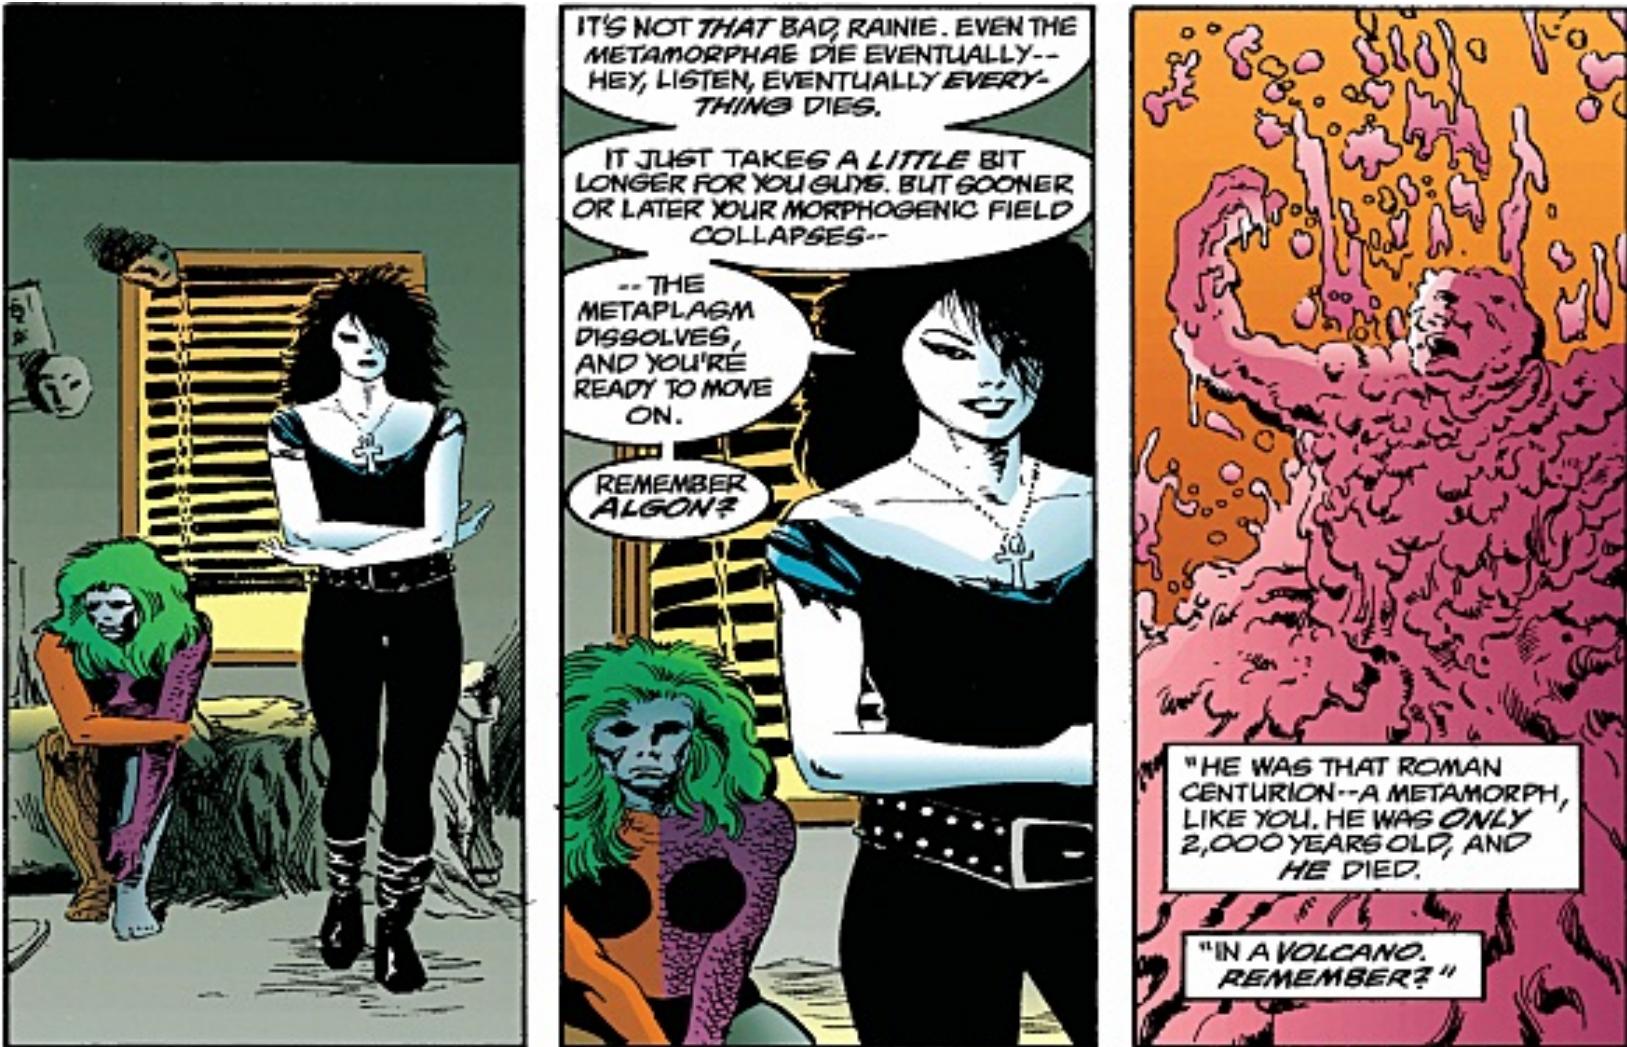

"BUT I'D PROBABLY STILL BE CONSCIOUS. JUST SPREAD OUT ALL OVER THE WORLD."

ISN'T IT DUMB? ALL OVER THE WORLD, PEOPLE RUNNING AROUND, TRYING NOT TO DIE?

HANGING ON TO LIFE LIKE GRIM DEATH.

AND I WANT TO DIE. AND I CAN'T.

NO. I HAVEN'T COME FOR YOU, RAINIE.

THERE WAS A WOMAN UPSTAIRS, CHANGING THE LIGHT BULB IN HER KID'S ROOM. THE STEPLADDER SLIPPED...

LIKE I SAID: I WAS PASSING AND I HEARD YOU CRYING, AND, WELL, THE DOOR WAS OPEN...

ANYWAY: I'M NOT BLESSED, OR MERCIFUL. I'M JUST ME. I'VE GOT A JOB TO DO, AND I DO IT.

LISTEN: EVEN AS WE'RE TALKING, I'M THERE FOR OLD AND YOUNG, INNOCENT AND GUILTY, THOSE WHO DIE TOGETHER AND THOSE WHO DIE ALONE.

I'M IN CARS AND BOATS AND PLANES; IN HOSPITALS AND FORESTS AND ABATTOIRS.

FOR SOME FOLKS DEATH IS A RELEASE, AND FOR OTHERS DEATH IS AN ABOMINATION, A TERRIBLE THING.

BUT IN THE END, I'M THERE FOR ALL OF THEM.

RAINIE, IN WEST AFRICA A SMALL VILLAGE IS BEING MASSACRED BY MERCENARIES, IN PAY OF THEIR OWN GOVERNMENT. I'M THERE.

IN THE FARDEST REACHES OF A DISTANT GALAXY, A PLANET IS BEING RIPPED APART BY INTERNAL STRESSES; THE PLANET WAS THE HOME OF MANY CRYSTAL INTELLIGENCES, CALM AND FINE AND BEAUTIFUL. I AM THERE AS WELL.

I'M IN ALL THOSE PLACES, AND I'M ALSO HERE, TALKING TO YOU.

BUT... I'M NOT YOUR DEATH.

AT LEAST, NOT YET.

WHEN THE FIRST LIVING THING EXISTED, I WAS THERE, WAITING.

WHEN THE LAST LIVING THING DIES, MY JOB WILL BE FINISHED.

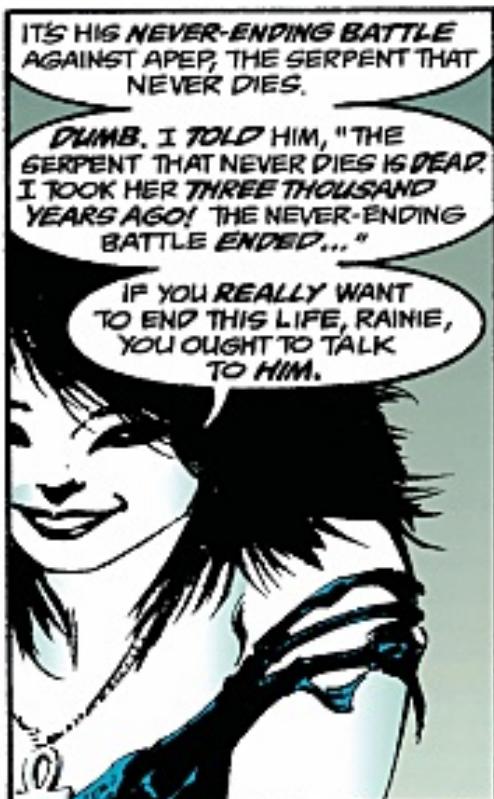

I'LL PUT THE CHAIRS ON THE TABLES, TURN OUT THE LIGHTS AND LOCK THE UNIVERSE BEHIND ME WHEN I LEAVE.

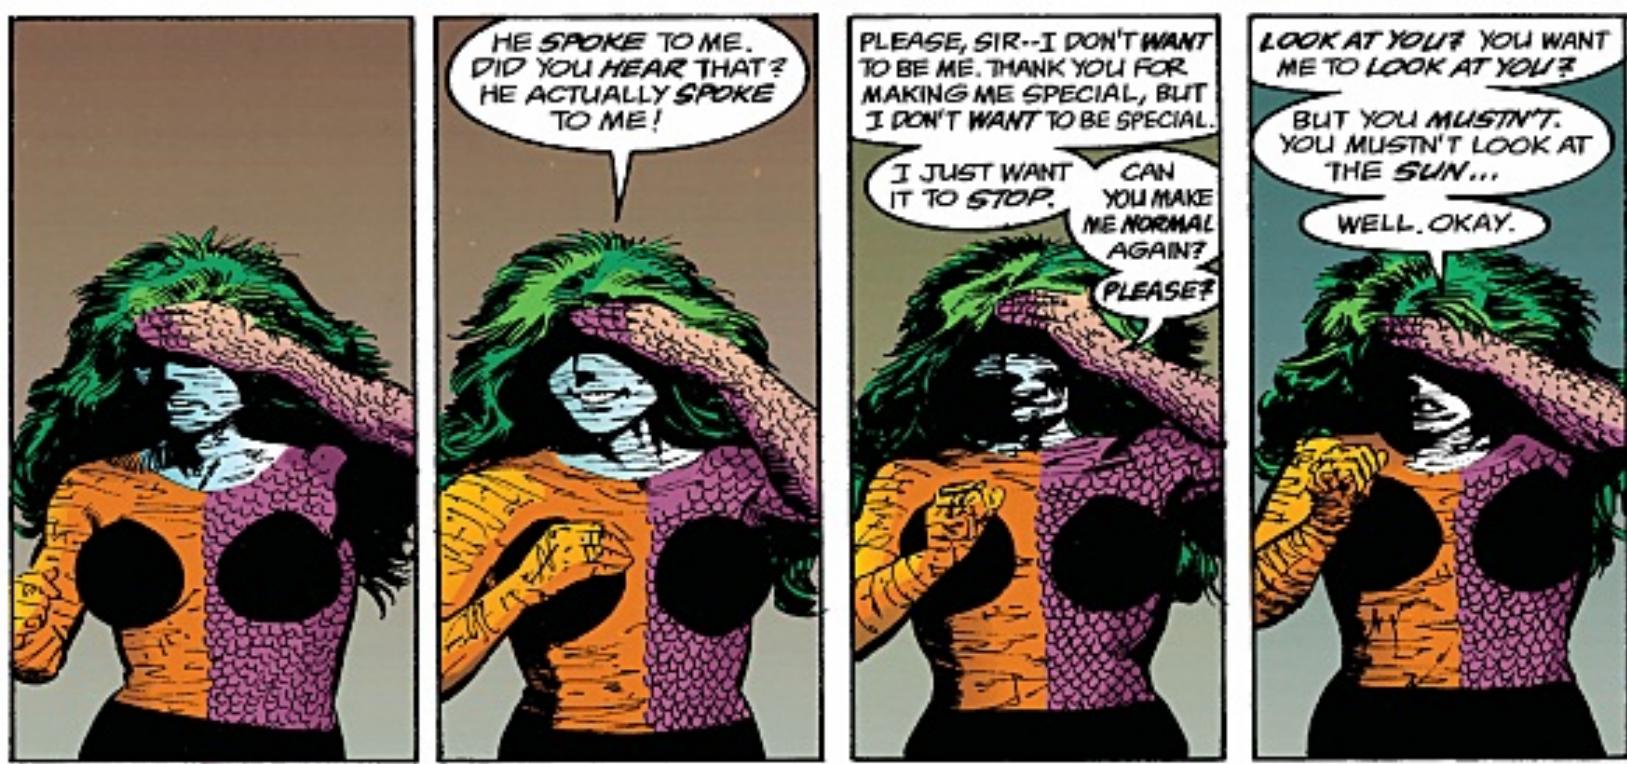

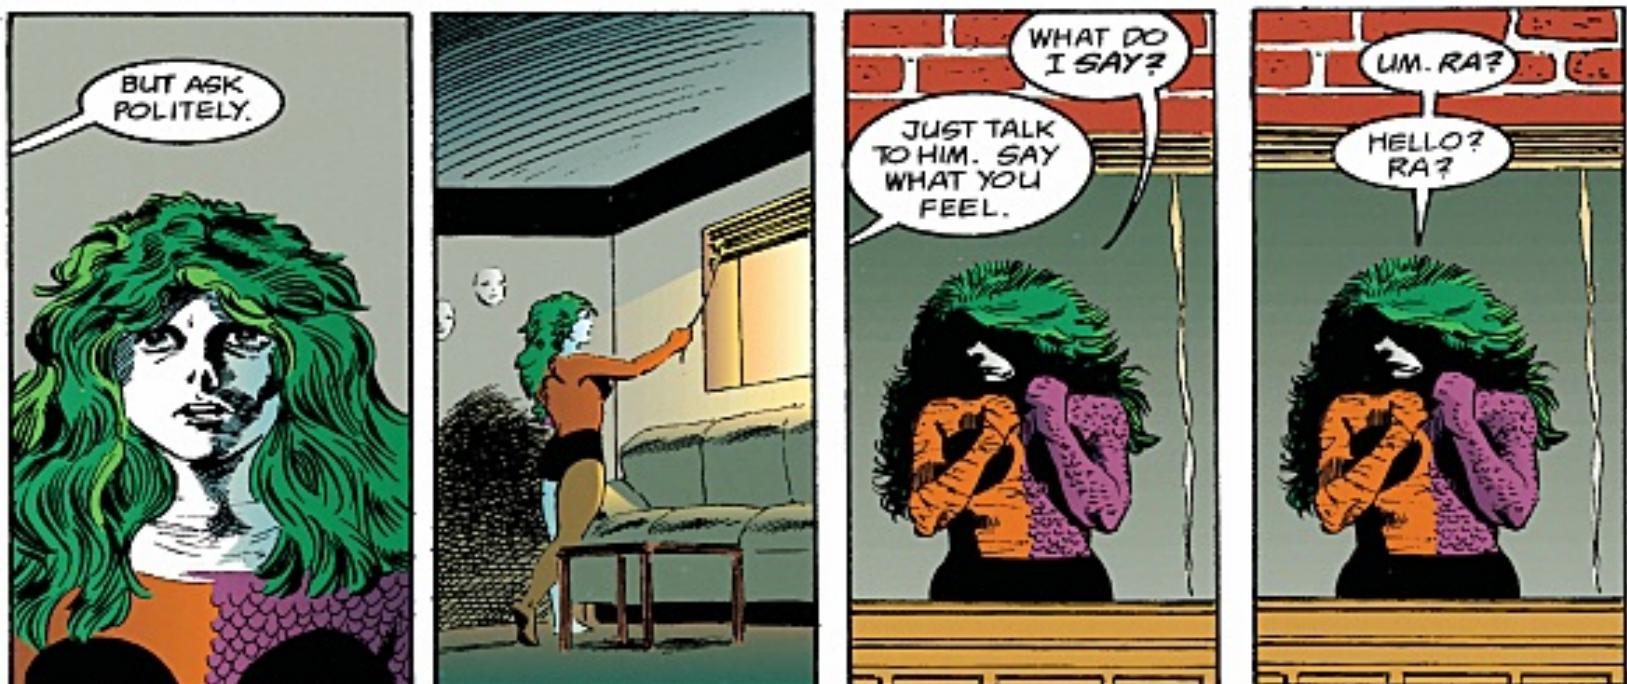

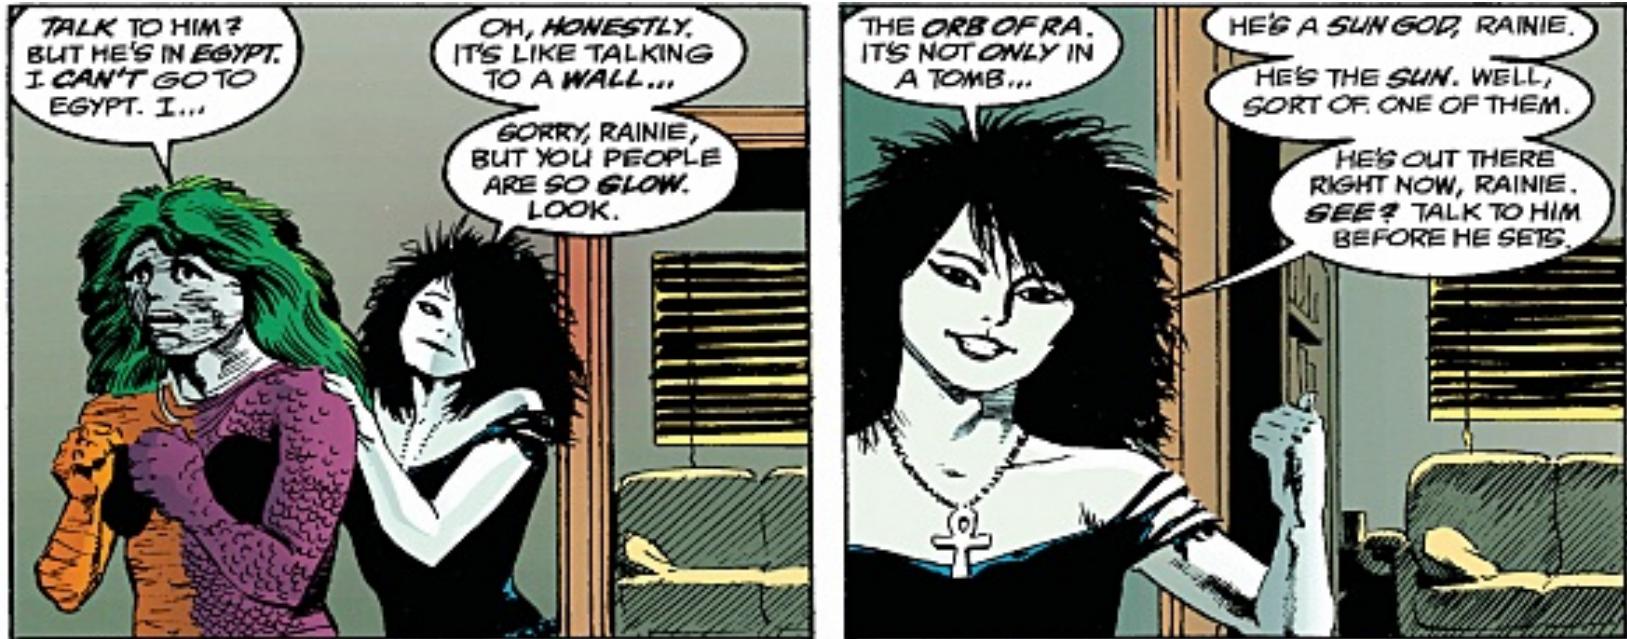

I-I DON'T THINK I UNDERSTOOD ALL THAT.

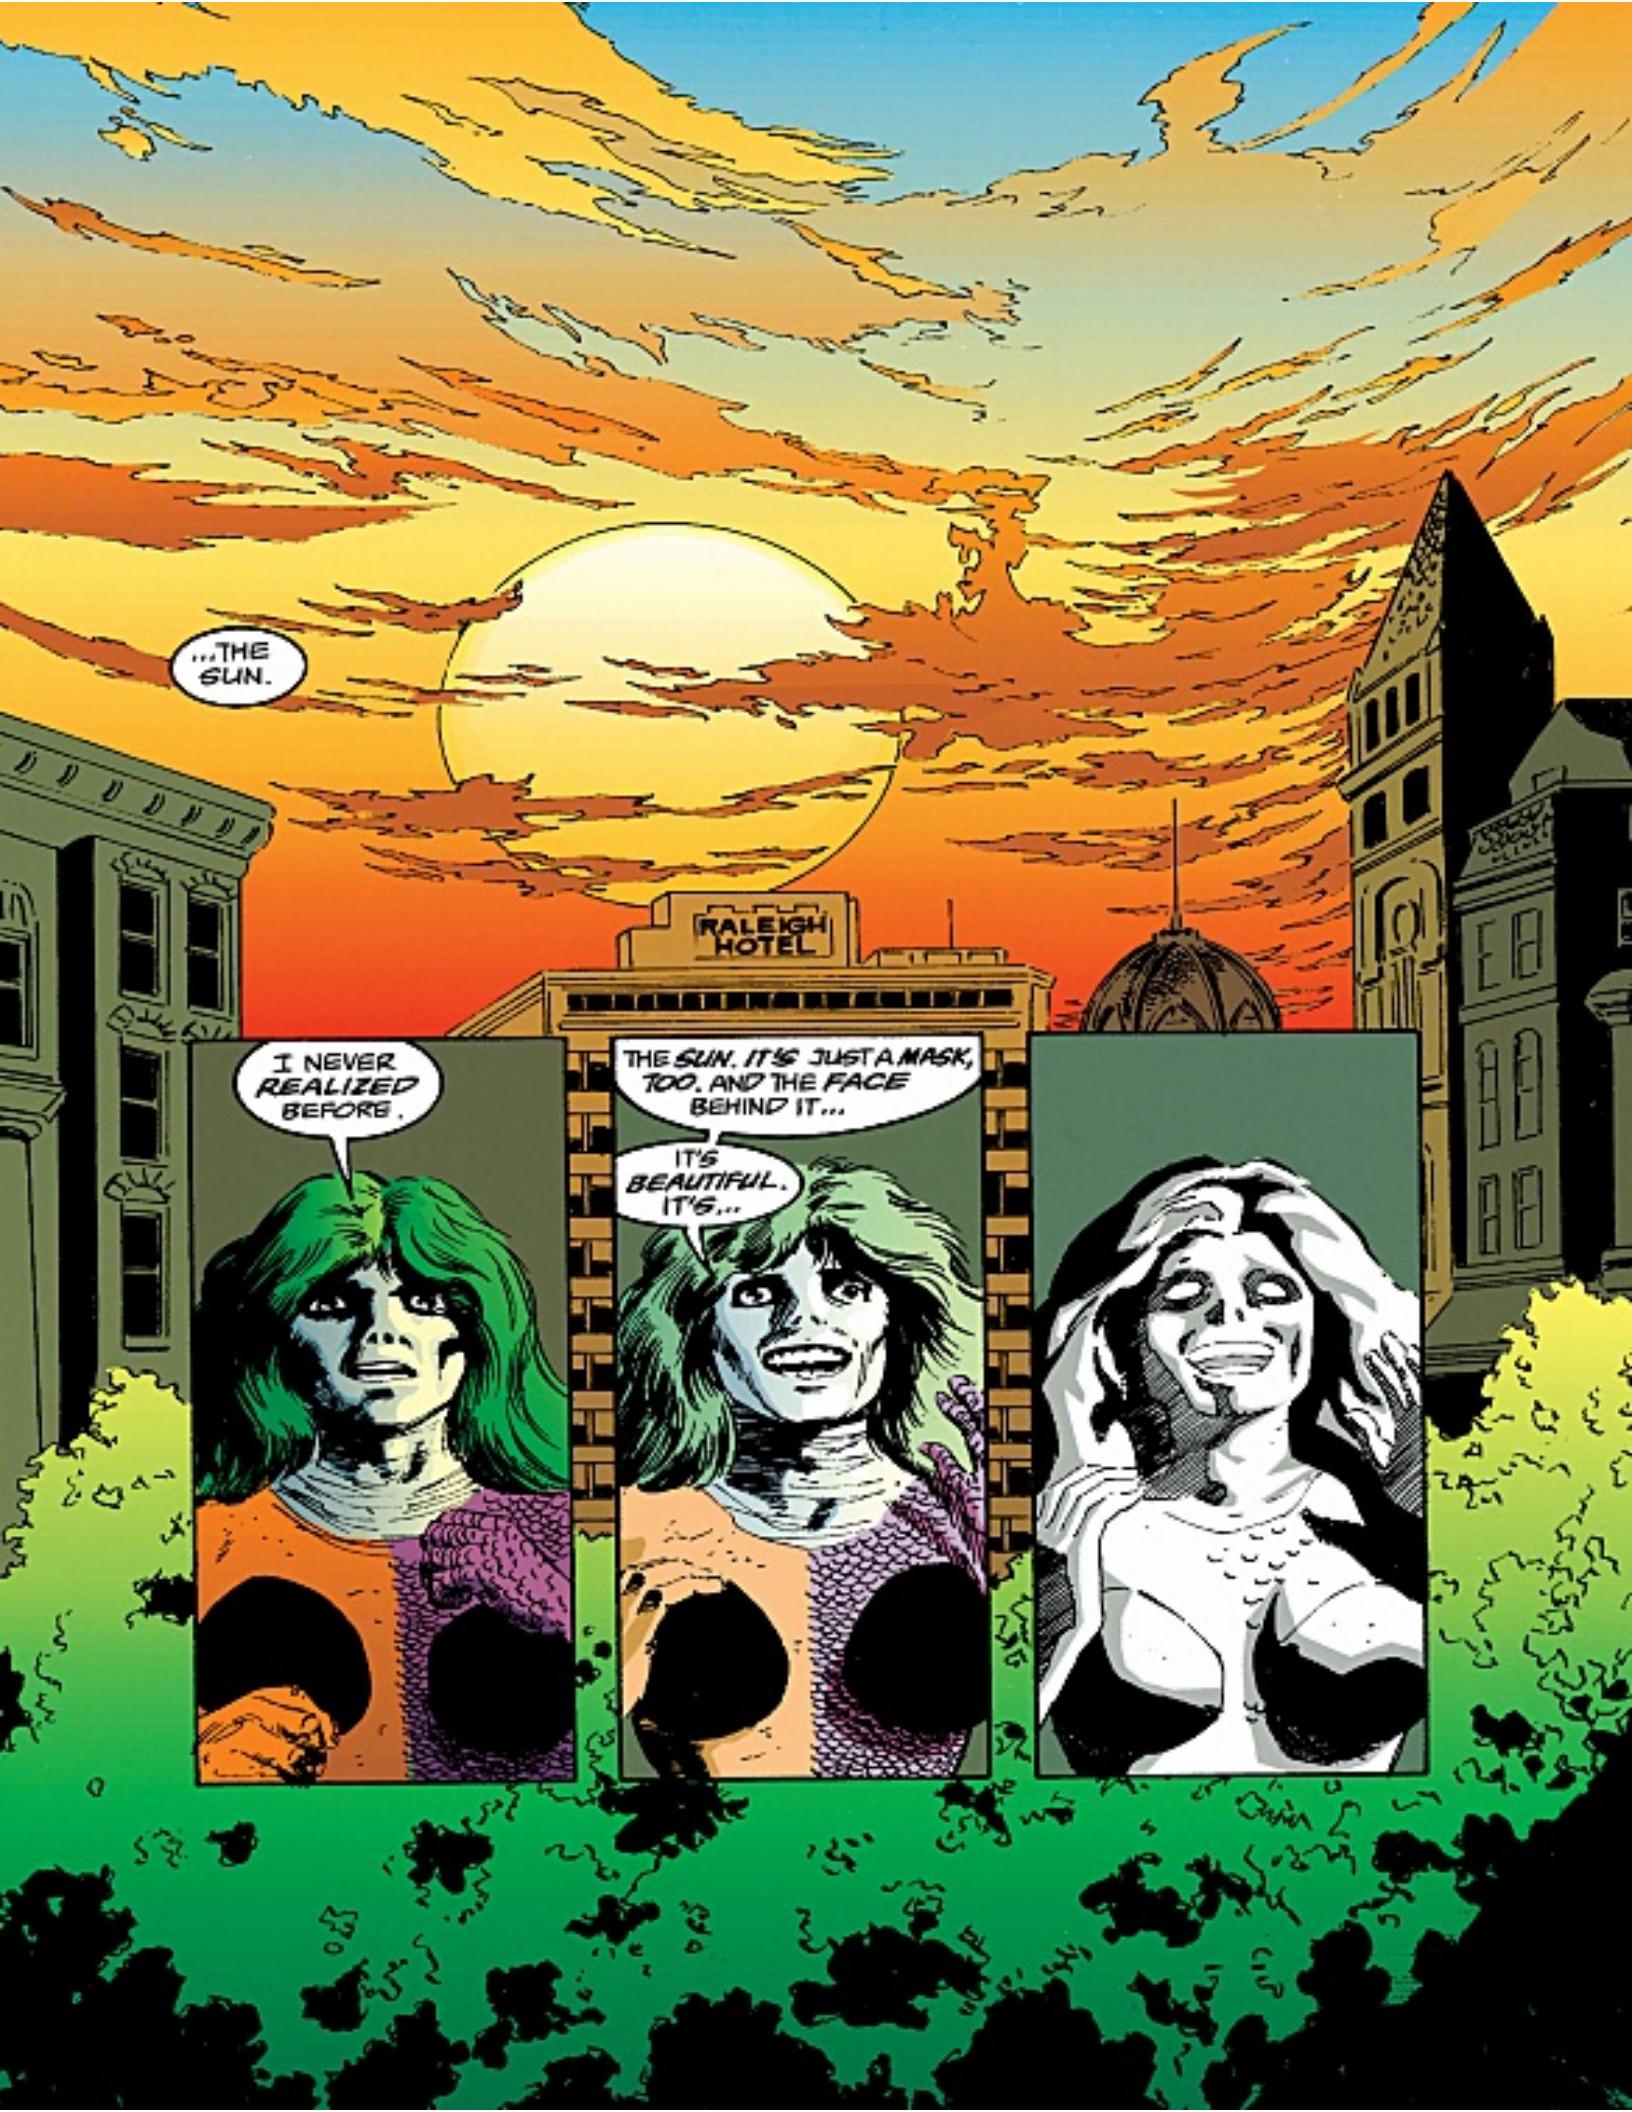

BUT-ARE YOU SAYING YOU WON'T HELP ME? IS THAT WHAT YOU'RE SAYING? THAT I'VE GOT ANOTHER TWO THOUSAND YEARS OF BEING A FREAK?

TWO THOUSAND YEARS OF HELL?

...THE SUN.

I NEVER REALIZED BEFORE.

THE SUN. IT'S JUST A MASK,
TOO. AND THE FACE
BEHIND IT...

IT'S BEAUTIFUL.

SCRIPT INTRODUCTION

by NEIL GAIMAN

Then I stripped them, scalp from skull, and my hunting-dogs fed full,
And their teeth I threaded neatly on a thong;
And I wiped my mouth and said, "It is well that they are dead,
For I know my work is right and theirs was wrong."

But my Totem saw the shame; from his ridgepole-shrine he came,
And he told me in a vision of the night —
"There are nine and sixty ways of constructing tribal lays,
And every single one of them is right!"

—Rudyard Kipling
In the Neolithic Age, 1896

It took a little time before I could be persuaded to allow a script to be published.

For the same reason that a magician doesn't want to let you backstage when he rehearses, for the same reason you should never wander around a film set: it spoils the magic when you know how it's done.

But we all have a craving to see behind the illusion. We want to know how the magician managed to saw the lady in half without spilling blood, and put her together afterwards, apparently unharmed; we want to wander the studio backlots and stare at the backless houses. And some of us want to know how a comic gets written.

I did.

I have always wanted to write comics. (That's not strictly true: I have always wanted to write, to tell stories. Comics were and are one of the media I wanted to tell stories with.)

But I could never figure it out: how did a writer get the story in his head onto a comics page? What did a comics script look like? What did a comics writer do?

I eventually found out, by asking someone who wrote comics (it was Alan Moore—one of the best writers ever to work in this medium) and getting him to show me what a script looked like, and how it was laid out. This he did, on one side of notebook paper.

Once I knew what a comics script looked like, the rest was easy. (No, that's not true. The rest was pretty difficult; and every story presents its own set of problems. But you know what I mean.)

Which is why I eventually agreed to allow this script to be printed. I've even added some marginal notations, and dug out from my files the folded, stapled mini-comic for this issue. (I always make a small doodled version of the comic while I'm writing, to let me know how many panels I'm putting on a page, and to suggest ideas of layout and storytelling.)

Let me throw in a warning before you begin to read the script.

This is only how I write a comics script. Specifically how I write SANDMAN.

There are thousands of people out in the world writing comics, and none of the others write scripts quite like this. Some just write a sequence of panel descriptions, not worrying how they'll fall on the page. Some draw doodles of what they want for an artist, with the dialogue in the margins. Sometimes the writers just suggest a plot, and then come back to it at the lettering stage and write the dialogue then. Sometimes they write something closer to a movie script, just dialogue and action, and let the artists break down the story into panels.

These are all valid ways of writing a comics script. I've used a few of them myself. (But not for SANDMAN.)

A few writers put in much more detail than you'll see in this script. Some writers use far less. Some writers don't know or care who'll be drawing the story they're writing. Some do. (I do.) Some artists write and draw (and often letter and color) their own comics, and they have different ways again of writing scripts for themselves.

Which means, I suppose, that this is a typical comics script, insofar as every script is atypical. And it's the way I write SANDMAN.

(All the other ways of writing scripts are right, too. That's what the quotation at the top of the page is about.)

Each SANDMAN script is a letter to the artist (I drive Karen Berger, my long-suffering editor, crazy, by refusing to write a script unless I know who's going to draw it; if you write for an artist you can play to their strengths. It makes you look good); and this is a letter to Kelley Jones. (It was the first time we'd ever worked together; and working with Kelley has been fun. He's a terrific artist and a nice person.)

We picked the script to "Calliope" for this book as probably the most interesting for a casual reader. The script for "A Midsummer Night's Dream" is longer and technically far more complex (it was much the hardest of these scripts to write), but it's also probably a lot less interesting simply to read, or so I have been assured.

To reiterate: this isn't How to Write Comics the Neil Gaiman Way. It's a script for "Calliope." It's being printed here to satisfy your curiosity (if you have any) about what a SANDMAN script looks like.

There are a number of talented people involved in the production of SANDMAN. In this issue, after Kelley pencilled it, Todd Klein lettered the comic, then Malcolm Jones inked it, going over Kelley's pencils in black ink, getting the artwork to a point at which it could be reproduced (and incidentally adding a great deal to the look of the book); Robbie Busch colored it (and Daniel Vozzo recolored it, years later); and somewhere in the background Karen Berger and Tom Peyer knocked themselves out making sure that everything made sense, got from place to place on time, and that we all got paid.

If you've read "Calliope" already, you know the story. Now you're going to see the script.

You don't have to read it, if you don't want to.

But for those of you who do, welcome backstage.

Let us show you how it was done...

HI KELLEY,

WELCOME TO THE WEIRD WORLD OF SANDMAN. WHAT WE'RE DOING IS A SERIES OF SHORT STORIES FOR FOUR OR FIVE ISSUES HERE; I'VE FINISHED THE DOLL'S HOUSE STORYLINE, AND THERE WAS A WHILE TOWARD THE END OF THE STORYLINE WHEN I JUST COULDN'T TAKE IT ANY MORE -- PARTLY BECAUSE I'D KEEP GETTING NEW IDEAS FOR STORIES AND BE UNABLE TO GET THEM IN, AND ALSO BECAUSE I WANTED TO DO A FEW TOTALLY SELF-CONTAINED STORIES THAT I COULD GET OVER WITHIN 24 PAGES: THE WORRY THAT I DIDN'T HAVE A CLUE HOW DOLL'S HOUSE WAS GOING TO END (WHICH I DIDN'T, UNTIL I GOT THROUGH SANDMAN 15) WAS GETTING PRETTY NERVE-WRACKING...

THIS IS THE FIRST OF THEM. I'M CALLING THE SHORT STORIES "DREAM COUNTRY." INCIDENTALLY, KELLEY, I WRITE PRETTY FULL SCRIPT, FOR THE MOST PART. HAVING SAID THAT, IT'S A GUIDE: IF YOU SEE A WAY TO IMPROVE IT, MAKE IT WORK BETTER, THEN GO FOR IT. YOU'RE THE ARTIST, AFTER ALL.

OK -- LET'S GO.

THEY SAY THAT ON AMERICAN COP SHOWS A LOT.

.....

.....
OKAY KELLEY -- THE BAD NEWS. THE REASON WHY THIS IS PROBABLY GOING TO BE SLIGHTLY LATE IS ALSO THE REASON THAT IT BEARS NO RESEMBLANCE TO THE STORY I TOLD YOU ON THE PHONE. THIS IS BECAUSE I STARTED THE ONE I TOLD YOU ABOUT, SEX AND VIOLETS, TWICE, GOT SEVEN PAGES INTO ONE VERSION AND TEN PAGES, THE SECOND TIME, ON A TOTALLY DIFFERENT TREATMENT, AND EACH TIME IT DIED ON THE PAGE. WHICH MEANT THAT I BASICALLY HAD TO DECIDE WHETHER TO TRY AGAIN, OR TO STRIP THE STORY DOWN AS FAR AS I COULD, TAKE WHAT I COULD, AND START AGAIN. I SUSPECT AT SOME POINT I'LL COME BACK TO OLD PUCK, BUT IN THE MEANTIME WE'VE GOT A DIFFERENT STORY ABOUT A DIFFERENT MUSE, AND ABOUT THE TWO MEN WHO HAVE HELD HER IN THRALL, AND ABOUT THE SANDMAN, AND HIS REVENGE ON THEM. IT'S A DARKER STORY THAN THE OTHER, CREEPIER AND LESS COMFORTING.

THE GOOD NEWS IS THAT I'M 99% SURE IT'LL WORK THIS TIME, AND I HOPE YOU ENJOY DRAWING IT AS MUCH YOU WOULD HAVE THE OTHER.

EDITORS NOTE: The script comments that appear on the following pages, in red and blue ink, are by Neil Gaiman and Kelley Jones, respectively.

Page 1 panel 1

WE ARE LOOKING AT THE FACE OF RICK MADOC. NO PANEL BORDER -- HE'S IN CLOSE UP, FULL FACE, LOOKING AT SOMETHING BELOW HIM WITH AN EXPRESSION OF INTERESTED DISTASTE. HE'S THIN, MID-THIRTIES, RED SHORT-CUT HAIR. NOT A CLASSICAL COMIC BOOK FACE -- HE'S GOOD-LOOKING IN A JOHN LENNONISH SORT OF WAY.

Caption - top right: May 1986.

Madoc:I don't have any idea.

Madoc:So what is it? It smells quite disgusting.

Page 1 panel 2

PULL BACK. WE'RE IN A ROOM IN MADOC'S HOUSE: HIS STUDY, BOOKSHELVES ON THE WALLS, A DESK WITH A WORD PROCESSOR ON IT. A SET OF ENCYCLOPEDIAS. FAIRLY MODERN. MAYBE SOME PAINTINGS ON THE WALL. LITTLE STATUES HERE AND THERE. THERE'S A SLIM TELEPHONE ON A TABLE IN ONE CORNER, AND, IN THE OPPOSITE CORNER OF THE ROOM, A DOOR TO THE WORLD OUTSIDE. BUT THAT'S ALL BACKGROUND, AND WE DON'T NEED TO PUSH IT HERE. DROP IT IN AS WE MOVE AROUND THE ROOM, LOOKING AT THESE PEOPLE. WE'RE LOOKING AT MADOC, WHO IS WEARING A BROWN LEATHER JACKET, TEE SHIRT AND JEANS, AND A YOUNGER MAN, IN GLASSES, A DOCTOR (ALTHOUGH NOT WEARING A WHITE COAT) FELIX GARRISON. DR GARRISON IS HOLDING SOMETHING OUT -- IT'S BLACK, LIKE A LARGE, HAIRY STONE, OR A FOSSILISED TRIBBLE COVERED IN SLIME. IT'S A TRICHINOBEOZOAR -- YOU MAY BE ABLE TO FIND A REFERENCE PICTURE OF SOME KIND IN A MEDICAL DICTIONARY. THE DR LOOKS RATHER PLEASED WITH HIMSELF. IT'S EARLY EVENING IN EARLY SUMMER OR LATE SPRING.

Guy Lawley M.D. found me a photo of a trichobezoar afterwards. It looked a lot like what Kelley had drawn. Guy is the only doctor I know to also write comics from time to time, and he treats my strange medical requests, for adult cancers or various diseases, with more respect than they perhaps deserve.

Garrison:It's what you were asking for. It's a bezoar.

Madoc:Hang on, I thought they were like, precious stones?

WE'RE LOOKING AT THE GUNKY, HORRIBLE, CALCIFIED MASS, HELD IN THE DOCTOR'S HAND, IN CLOSE UP. IT LOOKS REVOLTING. MAKE IT LOOK HAIRY AND SLIMY AT THE SAME TIME: IMAGINE A CAT-SICKED-UP HAIRBALL TO THE MAX...

DR:Most of them are.

This is a trichinobezoar -- it's made of hair. I cut it out of a young woman's stomach this afternoon. Lovely long hair she had. Trouble was, she'd been sucking it, chewing it, -- swallowing the hairs. Must've been doing it for years.

PULL BACK AGAIN. WE CAN SEE, CLOSE TO US, THE DR, LEANING DOWN, OR CROUCHING, GETTING A BOOK OUT OF HIS LARGE BLACK DOCTOR'S BAG. HE'S LEFT THE THING ON THE TABLE, AND RICK IS STARING AT IT IN DISGUST. POSSIBLY POKING AT IT WITH A FINGER.

Dr: Technically that's known as the Rapunzel syndrome.
Anyway, it's a bezoar. Mission accomplished.

Madoc: It's disgusting. But thanks. What do I owe you, Felix?

OKAY -- WE'RE LOOKING AT THE TWO OF THEM. FELIX IS HOLDING OUT A BOOK TOWARDS RICK, A LITTLE NERVOUSLY. RICK'S JUST PLEASED NOT TO HAVE TO HAVE PAID ANY MONEY FOR THIS THING. IF WE CAN SEE THE BOOK -- IT'S A HARDBACK, BY THE WAY -- IT'S CALLED THE CABARET OF DR CALIGARI, BY RICHARD MADOC.

Dr: Oh, nothing.

It would have only been incinerated, or popped into a jar for students to stare at. Just don't tell anyone where you got it.

And, um, I was wondering if you'd sign this for me?

Rick: Sure. No problem.

Page 2 panel 1

WE ARE LOOKING AT THE TITLE PAGE OF THE BOOK -- WE CAN SEE PRINTED OR TYPESET, IN BLACK, THE CABARET OF DR CALIGARI, RICK'S NAME, AND UNDERNEATH THAT, IN BLUE OVERLAY LETTERING, HANDWRITING -- POSSIBLY WE CAN SEE A PEN AT THE BOTTOM FINISHING OFF THE SIGNATURE. KELLEY, UNLESS YOU WANT TO DRAW ANY HANDS HERE, OR THE PEN, THIS IS PROBABLY ALL TODD'S PANEL.

TODD CAN DO IT, MY Penmanship
Sucks. ↴

Book title -- black printing: The Cabaret of Dr Caligari.
By Richard Madoc.

Handwriting -- blue overlay: For Felix Garrison, with thanks, Rick Madoc.

Rick: (off): There you go.

Page 2 panel 2

FELIX, HOLDING THE BOOK AT ARMS' LENGTH, IN BOTH HANDS, READING THE INSCRIPTION. HE LOOKS REALLY PLEASED.

Felix: This is great. It's a real thrill for me, to, you know, be able to do something for one of my heroes. I loved the book. Amazing stuff.

Felix:So, um, what do you need the bezoar for?

Page 2 panel 3

WE'RE LOOKING AT RICK. HE SEEKS SLIGHTLY UNCOMFORTABLE AT THIS.

Rick:Like you were asking the other day -- where do writers get our crazy ideas?
Heh.

Rick:It's research, really.

Felix:I heard you were writing a sequel to the Cabaret -- I'm really excited.

Rick:Oh. Great.

Page 2 panel 4

FOREGROUND -- THE PHONE. IN THE BACKGROUND WE CAN SEE RICK, HEADING FOR THE PHONE, AND FELIX, PICKING UP HIS BAG, AND PREPARING TO LEAVE.

Rick:Uh, that's the phone. Listen, thanks again for the thing.

Felix>No problem. I know how busy you are. I'll just let myself out, then. 'Bye.

FX: Near phone, small: Bleep bleep.

Page 2 panel 5

KEEP THE PHONE IN THE SAME POSITION IT WAS BEFORE, BUT RICK IS NOW IN THE FOREGROUND, AND HE'S PICKED UP THE PHONE. IS TALKING INTO IT. POSSIBLY WE CAN SEE FELIX GOING OUT THE DOOR INTO THE STREET, OR POSSIBLY HE SIMPLY ISN'T IN THE ROOM ANY LONGER.

Rick>Hello? Richard Madoc speaking.

Phone:Rick? It's Harry. Listen, we have to talk. Your publishers were onto me again today.

Rick:Oh. Hi Harry.

Page 2 panel 6

SIMILAR SHOT, ONLY RICK LOOKS REALLY MISERABLE, UNCOMFORTABLE, SHIFTY. AS IF HE DOESN'T WANT THIS CONVERSATION.

Phone:Listen, the novel's almost nine months overdue, and they're threatening to cause trouble. You're in breach of contract, Rick.

Phone:Is it finished yet?

Rick:Nearly finished.

Phone:Well, how much have you got to go?

SIMILAR SHOT, ONLY WE'VE GRADUALLY CLOSED IN ON RICK. HE LOOKS LIKE HE'S LYING.

Rick: It's almost finished, Harry. You can't rush these things. Another couple of weeks, maybe, okay?

Listen, I'm really busy. I'll get back to you.

Rick: Okay?

THREE PANELS ON THE TOP TIER. PULL BACK, SO WE'RE LOOKING AT THE WHOLE OFFICE. RICK'S PUT THE PHONE DOWN. HE'S LOOKING AT IT, WITH HIS ARMS FOLDED.

Rick: How much of the novel have I written? Honestly?

Page 3 panel 2

HE'S PICKING UP THE BEZOAR, THE HAIRBALL, CAREFULLY, AND DISTASTEFULLY, AND IS DROPPING IT INTO A PLASTIC SHOPPING BAG.

Rick: Nothing.

RICK'S GOING OUT THE DOOR, CARRYING THE SHOPPING BAG. HE LOOKS SLUMPED, LESS HYPER.

Rick: Not a word.

Page 3 panel 4

WE'RE OUTSIDE FOR THE FIRST TIME. LONG PANEL ACROSS THE MIDDLE OF THE PAGE. IT'S SUNSET, AND THE SKY IS LIT WITH A MESS OF REDS AND ORANGES. RICK MADOC IS WALKING DOWN A LONDON STREET, HIS BACK TO US, CARRYING THE PLASTIC SHOPPING BAG. I'LL GET YOU PHOTOREFERENCE ON THE KIND OF STREETS WE'RE LOOKING AT HERE: CHELSEA-ish AREA, WHICH PROBABLY MEANS NOTHING TO YOU, BUT YEARS AGO WHEN I WAS A CHILD, IT WAS WHERE THE PUNKS STARTED UP, ON THE KING'S ROAD, AND I ONCE HAD A GIRLFRIEND WHO LIVED OVER A BANK JUST OFF THE KING'S ROAD. I MERELY TELL YOU THIS TO ADD ATMOSPHERE TO AN OTHERWISE DRY AND UNEXCITING PANEL DESCRIPTION. THE STREET IS PRETTY MUCH DESERTED. I DOUBT WE CAN SILHOUETTE HIM AGAINST THE SKYLINE, UNLESS HE'S ACTUALLY WALKING BESIDE THE THAMES HERE -- ANYWAY, I'LL TAKE A PILE OF PHOTOS AND YOU CAN TAKE YOUR PICK

I spent a fun afternoon wandering around Chelsea and the King's Road. Embankment

WHERE YOU PUT HIM. MAKE IT MOODY, THOUGH. LONG, EXPRESSIONIST SHADOWS. THE STREET SHOULD BE DIRTY, NEWSPAPER BLOWING DOWN IT.

No dialogue.

BOTTOM TIER -- THREE PANELS. HE'S STANDING IN A DOORWAY, PRESSING THE ENTRYPHONE BUTTON: THERE'S ONLY ONE BUTTON, AND WE CAN ASSUME THAT WHOEVER OWNS THIS PLACE, A TERRACED RED-BRICK GOTHIC MONSTROSITY JUST LIKE ALL THE OTHERS ON THE STREET, LIVES THERE ALONE. ALL THE OTHERS WERE TURNED INTO APARTMENTS THIRTY YEARS EARLIER AND FORTY PEOPLE LIVE WHERE FIVE DID IN THE EARLIER YEARS OF THE CENTURY.

Entryphone: (jagged or square) Who is it?

Rick: Richard Madoc, to see Erasmus Fry.

Entryphone: I'll be straight down.

Page 3 panel 6

SAME SORT OF SHOT. SHIFT AROUND SLIGHTLY, SO WE'RE LOOKING HEAD ON TO THE DOOR, AND RICK HAS HIS BACK TO US. THE DOOR HAS BEEN OPENED ABOUT AN INCH, AND WE CAN SEE AN OLD EYE STARING OUT OF THE DARKNESS AT US. ACTUALLY, TO GET THIS TO WORK, I THINK WE'LL HAVE TO COME IN FOR A CLOSE-UP. WE CAN SEE THE CHAIN ON THE DOOR IS STILL IN PLACE.

Erasmus: Are you alone?

Rick: Yes. It's just me. I've got it.

Erasmus: Well, come in, dear boy. Come in.

THE DOOR IS COMPLETELY OPEN NOW. AN ELDERLY MAN IS STANDING THERE, LOOKING A LITTLE NERVOUS. HIS NAME IS ERASMUS FRY. REALLY IT IS. HE'S WEARING A TARTAN CHECK DRESSING GOWN, AND TROUSERS AND CARPET SLIPPERS. HE'S GOT AN OLD-FASHIONED WHITE SHIRT ON, NOT TUCKED INTO HIS TROUSERS, AND A DUSTING OF WHITE STUBBLE ON HIS CHIN, OF THE KIND THAT INDICATES THAT HE CAN'T BE BOthered TO SHAVE. HE'S GOT A SHOCK OF WHITE HAIR, AND AN OLD FACE THAT'S STILL STRONG; LIKE AN ELDERLY SHERLOCK HOLMES. HE'S A FAMOUS NOVELIST AND PLAYWRIGHT, OR HE WAS, THIRTY YEARS AGO.

PURE BRIDE OF FRANKENSTEIN

Erasmus: I'm not sorry that I'm not dressed for visitors. When you get to my age, you don't give a toss what you look like. Heh.

Erasmus: Don't just stand there. Come in.

Page 4 panel 1

NOW, WE'RE IN ERASMUS FRY'S HOUSE FOR THE NEXT FOUR PAGES, AND IT'S CLAUSTROPHOBIC AND CRAMPED -- LONG, DIMLY LIT CORRIDORS, CRAMMED WITH OLD STATUARY AND PHOTOGRAPHS AND BOOKS. BLACK PANEL BORDERS TO BLEED FROM HERE UNTIL THE END OF PAGE SEVEN. THREE PANELS ON THE TOP TIER. THEY'RE IN THE HALLWAY. IT'S DARK AND GLOOMY, WITH LARGE OLD PHOTOGRAPHS HANGING ON THE WALLS. THE OLD MAN IS SHUFFLING DOWN THE CORRIDOR WITH THE YOUNGER MAN, TALLER, BEHIND HIM. THE HALLWAY IS ALSO SET WITH MIRRORS, REFLECTING THE FACES OF THE MEN. ERASMUS IS NOT A NICE OLD MAN.

Erasmus: How are you, M'boy? Written anything profound and stirring recently?

Rick: You know I haven't, Mister Fry.

Erasmus: No. We'll go into my study, and you can show me my present.

THEY'RE NOW IN THE OLD MAN'S STUDY. THE OLD MAN IS STANDING UP AND POURING TWO GLASSES OF SHERRY FROM A CUT-GLASS DECANTER. WHEN WE SEE IT, THE STUDY IS EXPENSIVELY FURNISHED, DOMINATED BY A LARGE BLACK- AND -WHITE PHOTOGRAPH OF ERASMUS AGED ABOUT TWENTY. EMPTY FIREPLACE. IT'S ALL DUSTY. IT LOOKS LIKE IT HASN'T BEEN CLEANED OR TIDIED FOR YEARS. THERE ARE A COUPLE OF ARMCHAIRS IN THERE, AND A DESK. RICK IS ABOUT TO SIT IN AN ARMCHAIR. HE'S STILL HOLDING THE PLASTIC BAG.

Erasmus: Ah -- an excuse for a sherry.

Erasmus: Cheap stuff, of course. I'm not wasting the good stuff on a little shit like you.

ERASMUS, SITTING IN THE ARMCHAIR, RAISING THE GLASS OF SHERRY TO HIS LIPS. HE'S ABOUT TO GIVE A LECTURE TO RICK. HE'S PROBABLY RAISING ONE FINGER, OR LEANING HIS CHIN ON ONE HAND. HE'S NOT SMILING. HE LOOKS VERY COMFORTABLE.

Erasmus: Let me tell you about Bezoars. Word comes from the Persian. Pad-zahr. It means counter-poison. Antidote. Mainly found in the stomachs of goats and gazelles.

— DESCRIPTION IN PARACELSUS BOOK

AGAIN, RUN THIS ACROSS THE MIDDLE OF THE PAGE. THE TWO OF THEM SITTING IN ARMCHAIRS, OPPOSITE EACH OTHER: THE YOUNG MAN, ANTSY, SCARED, NERVOUS; THE OLD MAN, COMFORTABLE, POWERFUL. RICK HAS PUT HIS SHERRY DOWN ON THE FLOOR, ISN'T DRINKING IT. WE CAN SEE BOOKSHELVES ACROSS THE WAY -- POSSIBLY A CHESS SET IN ONE CORNER. THEY'RE IN THE LOWER HALF OF THE PANEL, LEAVING PLENTY OF ROOM FOR THE HUGE WORD BALLOONS.

Erasmus: Once believed to possess mystic powers: they can remedy poison, make the sick well. Edward IV survived the effects of a poisoned wound, due solely to a bezoar in his possession.

Queen Elizabeth the First had a bezoar set in gold, with unicorn's horn, given to her by John Dee, her spy and magician.

THREE PANELS ON THE BOTTOM TIER. WE'RE LOOKING AT RICK -- HE'S SITTING THERE LISTENING TO THIS STUFF, GETTING MORE AND MORE IRRITATED -- HE'S PROBABLY LOOKING UPWARDS, BORED AND NERVOUS. NEARLY EXASPERATED. THE BACK OF THE ARMCHAIR FRAMES HIS HEAD.

Erasmus (off): For the common people, apothecaries would lend out bezoars at extortionate rates, for a week, or a fortnight...

SAME SHOT, BUT RICK'S HALF-STOOD UP, PUSHING HIMSELF UP WITH HIS ARMS AT HIS SIDE. HE LOOKS UPSET, IRRITATED, ANGRY.

Rick: Will you shut up?

I haven't written a word in a year -- nothing I haven't thrown away! Do you know what that's like?

Rick: When it's just you, and a blank sheet of paper?

MOVE IN ON RICK. HIS FACE IS SHADOWY, AND PAINED. IT'S LIKE HE'S BARING HIS SOUL HERE.

Rick: When you can't think of a single thing worth saying, a single character that people could believe in, a single story that hasn't been told a thousand times before...

THE OLD MAN HAS STOOD UP, IS LOOKING DOWN SHARPLY. HE'S REACHING OUT HIS HAND.

Erasmus: Of course I know what it's like. Don't be a fool, boy.

Erasmus: Let me see my present.

THE OLD MAN HOLDING UP THE BEZOAR, ADMIRING IT ON HIS OPEN HAND. HE'S IN LECTURE MODE AGAIN.

Erasmus: Oh yes. Rapunzel, let down your hairball. A genuine trichinobezoar. The smell comes from the partly digested particles of food, trapped in-- Erasmus: I'm sorry. I'm lecturing again. An old writer with no-one else to talk to gets fond of the sound of his own voice...

Page 5 panel 3

ERASMUS AND RICK ARE BOTH STANDING UP, NOW. ERASMUS HAS EXTENDED AN ARM, IS USHERING RICK OUT OF THE ROOM.

Erasmus: I will put the bezoar with the rest of them.

I suppose that you want her, now.

Did you bring any clothes?

Rick: Clothes? I didn't know I...

Erasmus: Never mind. I have an old coat you may use.

Page 5 panel 4

THEY'RE WALKING UP STAIRS, NOW, A NARROW, DARK STAIRWAY, HUNG WITH BOOK-COVERS AND PLAYBILLS, ALL WITH THE NAME ERASMUS FRY ON THEM, IN LARGE LETTERS. I DON'T KNOW IF WE CAN SEE ANY TITLES IN THIS OR THE NEXT PANELS, BUT THEY'RE THINGS LIKE A STRANGER IN EDEN OR HALL OF SHADOWS OR HERE COMES A CANDLE, THINGS THAT SOUND LIKE FAMOUS NOVELS OF THIRTY YEARS AGO. RICK IS NERVOUS, ERASMUS KNOWS EXACTLY WHERE HE'S GOING.

Erasmus: I caught her on Mount Helicon, you know. 1927. Greece. I was 27. I'll be 87 next year.

She was bathing in a spring, and I caught her and bound her with Moly -- sorcerer's garlic, as it's sometimes called -- and with certain rituals.

THEY'RE AT THE TOP OF THE STAIRS, WALKING DOWN A NARROW CORRIDOR. IF YOU WANT TO MESS WITH THE ANGLES, SO THE INSIDE SEEMS SUBTLY WRONG, THEN BE MY GUEST. IT'S REALLY DARK. WE OUGHT TO BE ABLE TO SEE THEM, BUT IT'S VERY GLOOMY AND ILL-LIT, ERASMUS HAS PULLED OUT A KEY, WHICH HE'S HOLDING IN FRONT OF HIM. I SUSPECT THEY'RE WALKING TOWARDS US. ERASMUS IS IN THE FRONT, OF COURSE.

Erasmus: The hardest part was getting her back to England.

Erasmus: They say one ought to woo her kind, but I must say I found force most efficacious...

After all, I got the fame and the glory. I created the novels, the poems, the plays...

THEY'RE STANDING IN FRONT OF A DOOR. ERASMUS HAS PUT THE KEY INTO THE LOCK, AND IS TURNING THE KEY. ONE BARE BULB DANGLES FROM A FRAYED FLEX, LIGHTING THE HALLWAY, JUST. I MEAN, IT'S ABOUT A FIFTEEN WATT BULB, BUT IT'S A BULB.

Erasmus: I don't need her anymore, Madoc. And you do.

Here she is.

AND THEN WE GO OVER THE PAGE TO SEE WHAT'S IN THE ROOM...

PAGE 6 PANEL 1

SPLASH PAGE. DARK BORDER AROUND THE PAGE. WE'RE LOOKING STRAIGHT THROUGH THE OPEN DOOR -- POSSIBLY THE PANEL BORDER IS THE DOORWAY. AND WE'RE LOOKING AT IS APPARENTLY A THIN, FIFTEEN-YEAR OR POSSIBLY JUST-SIXTEEN OLD GIRL. SHE'S STANDING THERE STARING AT US. SHE HAS A BEAUTIFUL FACE, WITH DEEP CHEEKBONES -- SHE'S A GODDESS AFTER ALL -- AND A THIN BODY: SHE LOOKS AS IF SHE'S BEEN STARVED FOR A COUPLE OF WEEKS. WE CAN SEE THE OUTLINE OF HER HIPBONES, AND NOT QUITE COUNT HER RIBS. SHE'S NAKED. SHE LOOKS VERY VULNERABLE -- THIS IS THE VULNERABILITY OF NAKEDNESS; IF YOU'VE EVER SEEN ANY PHOTOS OF FAMINE VICTIMS, OR CONCENTRATION CAMP VICTIMS, THERE'S A POINT AT WHICH NAKEDNESS TOTALLY CEASES TO TITILLATE, INSTEAD JUST AROUSES FEELINGS OF PITY. (BILL SIENKIEWICZ CAUGHT IT PERFECTLY IN THE MENTAL HOSPITAL SEQUENCES IN ELEKTRA: ASSASSIN #1.) EITHER SHE HAS HER HANDS ON HER OPPOSITE SHOULDERS, HUGGING HERSELF, OR SHE'S COVERING HER BREASTS WITH ONE ARM, AND REACHING DOWN WITH HER OTHER HAND, COVERING HER PUBIC AREA WITH A HAND. IT'S NOT FALSE MODESTY -- IT'S A WISH TO PROTECT HERSELF FROM. SHE DOESN'T LOOK SCARED -- NERVOUS, PERHAPS, OR UNHAPPY MORE LIKE. SHE ALSO HAS MASSES OF SHAGGY BLONDISH HAIR, DOWN TO THE SMALL OF HER BACK. THE KEY HERE IS VULNERABILITY -- THIS SHOULDN'T LOOK TITILLATING, IT'S NOT A HUBBA HUBBA KIND OF NAKED WOMAN SHOT; IT'S ONE THAT IT ALMOST HURTS TO LOOK AT. TEAR THEIR HEARTS OUT, KELLEY. SHE'S LIT BY THE MUTED BULB IN THE HALL. DIMLY BEHIND HER WE MIGHT BE ABLE TO MAKE OUT A CHEAP CAMP BED WITH A THIN BLANKET ON IT. AT THE BOTTOM OF THE PANEL, PREFERABLY IN THE KIND OF LETTERING WE HAD FOR THE TITLE OF #7, IS THE TITLE.

Erasmus (off, left): Her name's Calliope.

Title: Calliope.

And Credits.

At the bottom of the page, Sandman (logo) characters created by Gaiman, Kieth and Dringenberg.

Kelley drew Calliope as really really skinny, with horribly protruding ribs. Karen felt that this was too extreme, and when Malcolm inked it he made her a little less skinny...

(JUST A BRIEF APOLOGY -- I'M AFRAID ERASMUS TALKS AN AWFUL LOT, AND MAKES SURE HE TAKES THE LONGEST POSSIBLE ROUTE THROUGH ANY SENTENCE. I TRY TO KEEP HIM SHORT-WINDED, BUT HE DOES RATHER TEND TO OVERLOAD ANY PANELS HE'S IN WITH WORDS. OH WELL -- AT LEAST THIS IS HIS LAST PAGE ON STAGE, AS IT WERE... IF NECESSARY YOU COULD SLIP THIS PANEL ONTO THE BOTTOM RIGHT HAND CORNER OF THE SPLASH PAGE, BUT I THINK IT'LL WORK BETTER AS A SPLASH.) WE'RE LOOKING AT CALLIOPE, IN CLOSE UP. A FACE SHOT, SHADY, AS SHE STARES STRAIGHT OUT AT US. SHE'S COME OUT OF THE ROOM, AND IS NOW IN THE HALLWAY, SO THE LIGHT IS DIRECTLY ABOVE HER, CASTING LOW SHADOWS FROM HER NOSE AND ACROSS HER EYES. I TEND TO IMAGINE HER AS A STARVED YOUNG BRIGITTE Bardot, but that's possibly because there's a Brigitte Bardot movie on late night TV right now. She has a combination of grandeur and innocence, here, but obviously hates Erasmus, is counting the days and the hours until her imprisonment is over. He may have her spirit, but he doesn't have her soul, and she says:

Calliope: What would you with me now, Erasmus? Am I now to perform for your amusement? Is this man to be our audience?

Page 7 panel 2

ANOTHER FULL-PANEL FACE SHOT, HEAD AND SHOULDERS, THIS TIME OF ERASMUS, PROBABLY NOT LOOKING DIRECTLY AT US, BUT OFF SLIGHTLY. HE'S BITCHY AND OLD AND HATES EVERYTHING, ESPECIALLY HER.

Erasmus: Don't get yourself all worked up, Calliope.

No, this is Richard Madoc. He's a novelist -- or at least, he's written one extremely successful first novel, and has found himself quite unable to write anything else.

NOW WE'RE LOOKING AT RICK, AGAIN FULL FACE, AS HE STARES AT US, LIPS PRESSED CLOSE TOGETHER, STARING AT THE GIRL (AT US) HIS EXPRESSION UNREADABLE. MAKE THESE THREE PANELS VERY SIMILAR, JUST WITH DIFFERENT PEOPLE IN THEM, IF YOU SEE WHAT I MEAN.

Erasmus (off): Richard, this is Calliope. The youngest of the nine muses. She was Homer's muse, so she ought to be good enough for you.

Calliope, I'm giving you to Richard. You're his now.

PULL BACK NOW. CLOSE TO US, ON THE RIGHT OF PANEL, HER BACK TO US, IS CALLIOPE, AND BEYOND HER, FACING US, ARE THE OLD MAN, AND, TALLER AND YOUNGER AND ILL-AT-EASE, MADOC. HER ARMS ARE NOW AT HER SIDES.

Calliope: But you said -- you told me, you promised that you would free me before you died. You said I could have my freedom...

Erasmus: Put not your trust in princes, my dear.

BACK TO CALLIOPE. SHE'S CRYING, SILENTLY. ONE TEAR IS TRICKLING DOWN HER FACE. SHE'S RAISED A HAND TO HER MOUTH, BUT HER CHIN IS STILL RAISED PROUDLY.

Erasmus (off): Nor in an aging author who has never been what one might call a shining example when it came to keeping his word...

Writers are liars, my dear. Surely you have realised that by now?

Page 7 panel 6

PULL BACK AGAIN FOR A LONG SHOT. MADOC IS PUTTING A COAT AROUND CALLIOPE'S SHOULDERS. ERASMUS HAS TURNED HIS BACK ON BOTH OF THEM, IS WALKING TOWARDS US.

Erasmus: Take the little cow away, Madoc. I never want to see either of you again.

OUT ON THE STREET, NOW. MADOC AND CALLIOPE ARE STANDING THERE -- SHE'S WEARING THE COAT, BUTTONED UP, AND NOTHING UNDER IT, SO WE CAN SEE HER BARE LEGS AND FEET ON THE HARD SIDEWALK. ERASMUS IS STANDING IN THE DOORWAY, FACING THEM, FACING US. FOR THE ONLY TIME, HE LOOKS VULNERABLE, INSECURE. HE LOOKS OLD.

Erasmus: However, if you ever happen to feel a spark of gratitude, you might want to persuade some publisher to bring 'Here Comes A Candle' back into print.

Erasmus: I was particularly proud of that one.

THIS IS OPPOSITE AN AD PAGE. OKAY. NOW, FOR THE FIRST TIME WE SLIDE OUT OF REAL-TIME AND INTO AN ALMOST MONTAGE MODE. OVER THE NEXT FEW PAGES WE'RE GOING TO COVER A FEW YEARS IN REAL TIME. WE'RE ALSO OPENING UP HERE, SO THE FEELING OF CLAUSTROPHOBIA, WE SHOULD HAVE GOT FROM THE LAST FEW PAGES, SINCE WE ENTERED FRY'S HOUSE, SHOULD BE RELIEVED. WHITE PANEL BORDERS HERE AGAIN, FOR THE FIRST TIME SINCE PAGE 4. WE'RE LOOKING AT THE TOP, ATTIC ROOM OF A HOUSE -- MADOC'S HOUSE, -- FROM OUTSIDE. WE CAN SEE THE BRICKWORK, AND A WINDOW, BARRED WITH A METAL GRILLE. THROUGH THE WINDOW WE CAN SEE, ON THE INSIDE, CALLIOPE, LOOKING AT US SILENTLY. SHE'S NAKED AGAIN, BUT WE CAN PROBABLY ONLY SEE HER HEAD AND BARE SHOULDERS, AND THE SIDE OF HER ARMS.

Caption: And Madoc took Calliope back to his home, and locked her in the topmost room, which he had prepared for her.

WHITE INK ON BLACK FOR FIGURE OF CALLIOPE

I changed "bare wooden floor" to "musty old camp-bed" when I saw the art-work.

NOW I WANT TO TRY TO GET ACROSS THE RAPE, AND THE (HORROR OBVIOUS REASONS.) AND THE DOMINANCE, FAIRLY SUBTLY, DOING ALL THE WORK IN THE READER'S HEAD. THE WHOLE THING SHOULD BE REALLY UNDERSTATED. WHAT WE'RE ACTUALLY LOOKING AT IN THIS PAGE ARE BARE WOODEN FLOORBOARDS. AND COMING IN FROM THE RIGHT, WE CAN SEE CALLIOPE'S LEFT ARM AND HAND, PALM UPWARD, LAYING FLAT ON THE FLOOR. COMING DOWN FROM ABOVE IS RICK'S RIGHT ARM; HIS HAND IS CLAMPED AROUND HER WRIST, HOLDING IT DOWN TO THE GROUND. THAT'S ALL WE CAN SEE.

Caption: His first action was to rape her, nervously, on the bare wooden floor. musty old camp-bed.

Caption: She's not even human, he told himself. She's thousands of years old. But her flesh was warm, and her breath was sweet, and she choked back tears like a child whenever he hurt her.

WE ARE NOW DOWN IN HIS STUDY, FROM PAGE ONE, AND HE'S SITTING DOWN IN THE CHAIR NEXT TO HIS WORD-PROCESSOR, SMOKING A CIGARETTE. HE LOOKS VERY PLEASED WITH HIMSELF, SMILING A LAZY SMILE, HIS FEET UP ON THE DESK. THE SMOKE FROM THE CIGARETTE DRIFTS UPWARD. HE'S NOW BAREFOOT, AND JUST WEARING JEANS AND A SINGLET.

Caption: It occurred to him momentarily that the old man might have cheated him: given him a real girl. That he, Rick Madoc, might possibly have done something wrong, even criminal... [Although he left out the Groucho Marx statue.]

WE'RE NOW BEHIND THE WORD PROCESSOR. WE CAN SEE THE BACK OF HIS HEAD, PERHAPS HIS HANDS ON THE KEYBOARD. AND WE CAN SEE THE SCREEN, IN FRONT OF HIM. I'LL GIVE YOU SOME TEXT THAT COULD BE REDUCED AND PUT ON THE SCREEN -- FAILING THAT JUST MAKE IT CLEAR THAT THERE'S TEXT ON THE SCREEN. ANOTHER POSSIBILITY IS THAT WE CAN SEE HIS FACE REFLECTED IN THE SCREEN, OR PARTLY REFLECTED ON ONE SIDE OF THE SCREEN. IF WE CAN, HE'S SMILING.

Screen: CHAPTER THREE. "AND SOME IN VELVET GOWNS"

"Your face," he said to her. "What have you done to your face?"

Marion shrugged. "I wanted to look on the outside like I do on the inside," she said simply, not putting down the knife.

Caption: He switched on the word processor to write it down before it fled.

Caption: He had been writing for three hours before he surfaced enough to realise that he had begun his second novel.

Although they aren't together in this collection, the ad placement in the original comic should have ensured that pages 9 and 10 were opposite each other in Sandman #17

OKAY, FIVE PANELS ON THE PAGE, IN THREE TIERS. TOP TIER OF THREE PANELS, THEN TWO PANELS BELOW THAT. BASICALLY IT'S A NINE-PANEL GRID. FIRST PANEL, WE'RE LOOKING AT CALLIOPE, SITTING ON THE FLOOR OF THE ATTIC ROOM, IN THE CORNER OF THE ROOM, HANDS CLASPED IN FRONT OF HER. SHE'S STILL SORT OF NAKED, BUT, ALONE, SHE'S MORE COMFORTABLE WITH HER NAKEDNESS: HAVING SAID THAT, BEAR IN MIND THAT THE MUSES (UNLIKE THE GRACES) WERE ALWAYS DEPICTED CLASSICALLY AS BEING DRESSED IN LIGHT SHIFTS: THEY WERE ALWAYS CLOTHED, SO SHE'S NOT AT EASE, NAKED. ACTUALLY, ON REFLECTION, HOW ABOUT KEEPING HER IN THE COAT THAT SHE WAS IN BEFORE, ALTHOUGH IT'S NOT ACTUALLY DONE UP: IT'S LOOSE AND OPEN, ALTHOUGH IT WOULD SHADOW HER BODY. WE'RE ABOUT FIVE FEET AWAY FROM HER.

Calliope: Gracious ladies, mother of the Camenae, hear my prayer.

Calliope: Melete, Mneme, Aiode, attend my supplication.

PLAY with Angles
LAYOUT - CONTRAST
Calliope to emptiness of the Attic

RIGHT, WE'RE ZOOMING IN ON HER, SO NOW WE'RE LOOKING AT HER CHEST TO HEAD HERE. SHE'S LOOKING DOWN -- HER HANDS STILL CLASPED IN FRONT OF HER. SHE'S PRAYING, AND SHE'S ALSO VERY SAD, HURTING INSIDE. SHE HAS NO HOPE THAT ANYONE WILL RESPOND.

calliope: It is I, your daughter Calliope, who calls you, as I have called you a thousand times. I...

I implore you, ladies, deliver me from this place and this time.

RIGHT, WE'VE GOT A FINAL CLOSE-UP ON HER FACE, FRAMED BY THE FALLING HAIR, EYES LOOKING DOWN, OR HIDDEN BY LASHES.

Calliope: To whom can I speak, in my grief? I who am laden with wretchedness.

Calliope: Ladies of Meditation, Remembrance and Song, hearken to me.

The panel placement meant we moved a few of these balloons around.

THROUGH MATERIAL ON THE MUSES (NINE OF THEM -- THREE TIMES THREE) I DISCOVERED THERE WAS AN EARLIER VERSION OF THE MUSES WHEN THERE WERE ONLY THREE -- THIS THREE -- AND IT MADE MORE SENSE THAT THEY'D COME FROM AN EARLIER, TRIPLE VERSION OF THE MUSES THAN THAT, AS IN OTHER VERSIONS OF THE LEGENDS, THEY WERE THE DAUGHTERS OF ZEUS AND MNEMOSYNE (MEMORY). CHECK OUT SANDMAN 10 PAGE 19, AND THE DAVE MCKEAN COVER TO SANDMAN 2: THIS IS THE VERY BASIC DESIGN FOR THE THREE, BUT HAVING SAID THAT, FEEL FREE TO DESIGN YOUR OWN VERSIONS. BASICALLY THEY ARE ALL WEARING WHITE CLASSICAL SHIFTS: MELETE, THE OLD HAG ON THE LEFT, LOOKS LIKE A VERY OLD WOMAN, HER STRAGGLY HAIR LONG AND GREASY, HER ARMS THIN AND BONY; MNEME IS BASICALLY THE FACE FROM THE COVER OF SANDMAN 2, RATHER THAN EITHER MIKE OR SAM'S VERSIONS OF THE CHARACTER, BUT HER HAIR IS LONGER, AND WE CAN SEE HER FIGURE THROUGH THE SHIFT -- IT'S HUGE BREASTS AND HUGE HIPS, AS WITH ANY OLD STATUES OF THE EARTH MOTHER: HER ARMS ARE CROSSED ACROSS HER HIPS, HER FACE ROUND AND MOTHERLY; AND ON THE RIGHT STANDS AIODE, TALL AND HAUGHTY, WITH MASSES AND MASSES OF BLONDE HAIR TUMBLING AROUND HER. THE CRONE, THE MAIDEN, THE MOTHER. BEHIND THEM WE CAN EITHER SEE DARKNESS, OR THE BARE WALLS OF THE ATTIC ROOM. THIS IS PROBABLY WAIST TO HEAD SHOTS, AND A FOOT OR SO ABOVE THEIR HEADS.

OLD WOMAN will be my neighbor

Melete: All right. Enough, Beautiful Voice. Why do you call us?

Mneme: We feel your pain, daughter, but we cannot help you.

Aiode: You were snared upon Helicon according to the mysteries. You are lawfully bound.

SMALL INSET SQUARE PANEL ON THE RIGHT -- CALLIOPE'S FACE, TALKING URGENTLY TO THE WOMEN.

Calliope: But it is not just, my mothers. I can bear this burden no more.

Is there nothing you can do? No-one who can intercede on my behalf?

Page 9 panel 6

LONG PANEL ACROSS THE BOTTOM OF THE PAGE. THE THREE AGAIN, ALTHOUGH NOW THEY'VE CHANGED POSITION, THE OLDER AND THE YOUNGER HAVE SWAPPED PLACES. AND WE'VE MOVED IN CLOSER TO THEM. THE YOUNGER ONE LOOKS SYMPATHETIC, THE MIDDLE ONE LOOKS MOTHERLY, THE OLDER ONE LOOKS UNSYMPATHETIC.

Aiode: There are few of the Old Powers willing or able to meddle in mortal affairs in these days, Calliope.

Mneme: Many gods have died, my daughter; while aspects of other gods have been lost for ever.

Melete: Hehh. Only the Endless will never die -- and even they are having a difficult time of late.

Still, every little bit helps, as the old woman said when she pissed ⁱⁿ the sea.

A genuine old English proverb, strangely enough.

THE WOMEN HAVE STARTED TO TALK AMONG THEMSELVES, HAVE TURNED INWARDS -- LEFT TO RIGHT THE ORDER NOW GOES MOTHER, MAIDEN, CRONE, BY THE WAY -- AND ARE DISCUSSING WHAT THEY CAN DO ABOUT THIS.

Mneme: The Endless -- now, there's a thought -- after all, the Dream-King and Calliope were close, long ago. For a short while. Weren't you, my pet?

Aiode: Not for long. And, remember, sister-self, they did not part on the best of terms.

Melete: But she did bear his cub.

That boy-child, who went to Hades for his lady-love, and died in Thrace, torn apart by the sisters of the frenzy, for his sacrilege.

Page 10 panel 2

INSET PANEL, SMALL AND SQUARE, OF CALLIOPE'S FACE -- SHE LOOKS HOPEFUL, AND DESPERATE. (NOTE, SHE NEVER APPEARS IN THE SAME PANEL AS THE 3 SISTERS).

Calliope: Not him. Not after what he did to me. He hates me for that, and I despise him. I would not accept his help.

Page 10 panel 3

PANEL ACROSS THE CENTRE TIER OF THE PAGE, CLOSE IN SO THAT WE'RE JUST LOOKING AT THE THREE FACES OF THE WOMEN, STARING DOWN AT US (OLD ONE, YOUNG ONE, MOTHER, LEFT TO RIGHT). BEAR IN MIND THAT THESE ARE NOT WOMEN BUT ARCHETYPES -- IN THIS CASE A GRECIAN VARIANT ON THE ONE-WHO-IS-THREE WE'VE SEEN BEFORE.

Melete: Foolish child. Oneiros is in no position to help you, even if he wished to -- which is unlikely, to put it mildly.

Aiode: You see, just like you, Calliope, your one-time admirer has been ensnared by mortals.

And while you are imprisoned in your tower, he is immured beneath the ground.

Mneme: I am sorry, my little one. Your prayers were wasted. There is nothing we can do for you, and nothing you can do but hope.

Page 10 panel 4

OKAY -- NOW WE GO BACK TO THREE PANELS ON THE BOTTOM TIER, LIKE THE THREE PANELS ON THE TOP OF PAGE 9. (BEAR IN MIND THAT BECAUSE OF THE AD PAGE ON PAGE 8 THESE TWO PAGES ARE OPPOSITE EACH OTHER, ALTHOUGH DON'T MAKE THEM A DOUBLE PAGE SPREAD.) CALLIOPE'S STOOD

UP. WE'RE FAIRLY CLOSE UP ON HER STANDING FIGURE. SHE'S LOOKING TOWARDS US, ARMS OUTSTRETCHED, PALMS UPWARD, PLEADING.

Calliope: No -- please, come back, please. There must be something, there must be someone who can free me...

PULL BACK FROM CALLIOPE A LITTLE FURTHER. SHE'S LOWERING HER HANDS TO HER SIDES. SHE'S TALKING TO AN EMPTY ROOM.

Calliope: Please... Send someone... anyone...

OKAY, PULL BACK ALL THE WAY. CALLIOPE IS A SMALL FIGURE, HER HANDS BY HER SIDES; WHILE WE CAN SEE ALL THE ROOM AROUND HER, AND IT'S TOTALLY EMPTY. THE THREE WOMEN HAVE GONE.

Calliope: (small) Even Oneiros.

Page 11

I DUNNO IT'S HALF PAST FIVE IN THE MORNING, AND THE TV IS SHOWING AN "IN-DEPTH EXAMINATION" OF THE CLOSING OF A CANADIAN RAILROAD; AT FOUR IN THE MORNING I WAS RUNG THREE TIMES IN SUCCESSION BY SOMEONE OR SOMETHING WHO DIDN'T SPEAK. INITIALLY I THOUGHT IT WAS JUST SOMEONE CALLING FROM THE U.S. WITH A BAD LINE, BUT THE THIRD TIME I THOUGHT I HEAR RUSTLING AND BREATHING. SPOOKED THE SHIT OUT OF ME, I CAN TELL YOU. ANYWAY, I WANTED TO GET THROUGH PAGE 12 TONIGHT, BUT I'LL BE HAPPY IF I CAN GET TO THE END OF PAGE 11.

It wasn't me. K

AT THE TOP LEFT OF THE PAGE IS CALLIOPE'S FACE, SHADOWY, INTENSE - NOT IN A PANEL BORDER. I SUSPECT WE'D ONLY ACTUALLY GET THE LEFT SIDE OF HER FACE, IF SHE'S STARING STRAIGHT IN FRONT OF HER, AND GOING OFF INTO A FLASHBACK, THE RIGHT HAND SIDE OF HER FACE WOULD MERGE WITH THE PANEL WE'RE GOING INTO, IF YOU SEE WHAT I MEAN; SO THE LEFT SIDE OF HER FACE, FRAMED BY HAIR, IS ALMOST PANEL BORDER. OH, WHILE I THINK OF IT, ALTHOUGH SHE'S THIN, AND NOT 100% CLEAN, HER HAIR IS STILL FAIRLY UNMATTED, SHE'S NOT ILL, OR ACTIVELY STARVING, OR ANYTHING -- THIS IS BECAUSE SHE'S ONE OF THE IMMORTALS. PERHAPS SHE'S LOOKING SLIGHTLY TO THE RIGHT.

Caption: It had been her own fault.

Caption: Spring 1927. Mount Helicon.

Caption: She had only returned for a brief time, lured perhaps by nostalgia...

OKAY -- SEGUE INTO THE PANEL FROM THE LAST ONE. WE'RE LOOKING AT CALLIOPE AS SHE WAS OVER SIXTY YEARS AGO. SHE LOOKS NOW LIKE A HAPPY FIFTEEN-YEAR-OLD BRIGITTE Bardot. SHE'S WEARING A WHITE CLASSICAL SHIFT, AND IS UP TO HER THIGHS IN WATER, ON A GOLDEN, SUNNY DAY, IN GREECE. SHE LOOKS VERY YOUNG AND VERY HAPPY. ONE IDEA MIGHT BE TO COLOUR THIS IN VERY VIVID COLOURS; ANOTHER IDEA MIGHT BE TO DO THIS PANEL AND THE NEXT IN SEPIA -- POSSIBLY A BETTER IDEA, BECAUSE GETTING COLOURS TO APPEAR MORE VIVID THAN THEY DO AUTOMATICALLY CAN BE A REAL BITCH. ON THE BANK OF THE POOL IS A SCROLL.

Caption: She had laid down her scroll, and was bathing in a clear pool, remembering the lost, golden days: when the nine were still sought and wooed and needed...

Caption: When the music of the spheres still resonated [echoed] in mortal souls.

DO THIS PANEL NEXT TO THE OTHER ONE, WITH ONLY A THIN WIGGLY LINE BETWEEN THIS PANEL AND THE LAST. CALLIOPE'S VIEWPOINT. WE'RE LOOKING AT A YOUNG, 27-YEAR-OLD ERASMUS FRY, RECOGNISABLE FROM THE PHOTOS WE SAW IN HIS HOUSE, EARLIER. HE'S WEARING A 1920S SUIT, NO HAT, HAS DARK, SLICKED-BACK HAIR, AND IS STANDING FAIRLY CLOSE TO US (HE'S ON DRY LAND, BUT WE'RE PROBABLY LOOKING AT HIM FROM WAIST TO HEAD), GRINNING LIKE A WOLF. IN ONE HAND HE'S HOLDING LONG-STEMMED WILD GARLIC FLOWERS, IN THE OTHER HE'S HOLDING A ROLLED-UP PARCHMENT SCROLL, HOLDING IT TOWARDS US. HIS EYES ARE BRIGHT, AND HE'S A TOTAL BASTARD.

Caption: In one hand he held Moly flowers, that had power over her kind, and in his other hand he held her scroll.

Caption: Which one are you? He had asked her.

Caption: Calliope, she told him.

Caption: Kall-i-oh-pee, he had echoed, as if he were tasting her name.

ACROSS THE CENTRE OF THE PAGE IS THE SCROLL, LAID HORIZONTALLY ACROSS -- NOT IN A PANEL BORDER: IT'S BURNING, FLAMES LICKING UP FROM IT.

Caption: And then he smiled. Well, he said, you can call me master.

Caption: And then he burned her scroll.

BOTTOM TIER. THE ATTIC ROOM -- RICK HAS ENTERED. HE LOOKS REALLY HAPPY. SHE'S STANDING THERE IN HER COAT, HER EXPRESSION SET. STARING AT HIM. MEDIUM SHOT.

Madoc: Hey! Great news! I've finished the novel. It's called "And My Love She Gave Me Light." Two drafts in five weeks. And it's all good stuff.

Calliope: I am pleased for you. Now will you let me go?

CLOSE IN ON THE TWO OF THEM CLOSE. HE'S PUTTING HIS ARMS AROUND HER. SHE'S LOOKING UP AT HIM SADLY.

Madoc: Are you out of your mind? This is just the beginning. Come here, gorgeous. Let's make two and a half minutes of squelching noises...

Calliope: Please, Madoc. Let me go. Stop forcing me to do these things.

Page 11 panel 7

LIKE PANEL ONE -- JUST MADOC'S FACE, LOOKING STRAIGHT AT US, NO PANEL BORDER. IF YOU JUST DID THE LEFT SIDE OF CALLIOPE'S FACE AT THE TOP, THEN JUST DO THE RIGHT SIDE OF MADOC'S FACE HERE, HIS FACE SET AND HARD. IF HE'S SMILING, HE'S SMILING CRUELLY. IF SHE WAS LOOKING OFF TO THE RIGHT IN THE FIRST PANEL, THEN HERE HE'S LOOKING SLIGHTLY OFF TO THE LEFT.

Madoc: Listen. You're my possession, until I tell you that you're free. Don't forget it.

You're my personal muse, sweetheart. Now.

Let's party.

SHOCKING - NOT SEXUAL

Page 12

OKAY -- THIS PAGE AND THE NEXT ARE A SERIES OF QUICK HOPS, WATCHING RICK MAKING IT UP TO THE TOP OF THE TREE. KEEP ALL THE PANEL BORDERS HERE VERTICAL, AND KEEP THE PANELS DISTINCT FROM EACH OTHER. IT'S BASICALLY A SIX-PANEL GRID -- THREE ON THE TOP TIER, THREE BELOW.

Page 12 panel 1

THE TOP HALF OF PAGE 12. WE'RE AT A PARTY -- IT'S A PUBLISHER'S PARTY, WELL-LIT. PEOPLE ARE MILLING AROUND, SMALL KNOTS OF PEOPLE, SOME OF THEM DRINKING GLASSES OF WINE. IN THE MIDDLE OF THE PARTY IS A DISPLAY OF THE BOOK, WITH, ABOVE IT, A HUGE MOCK-UP, OF THE BOOK COVER. IT'S CALLED "...AND MY LOVE SHE GAVE ME LIGHT," THE COVER SHOWING A CANDLE BURNING ON A SKULL, AND, AT THE BOTTOM OF THIS, RIC MADOC. (HE'S LOST THE K FROM HIS NAME, FOR REASONS OF COOL.) BIG

You can find the ancient riddle this line is taken from in Book Four of "The Books of
end of time.

PHOTO OF HIM IN THE BACKGROUND. THERE COULD BE A FEW BALLOONS AROUND, POSSIBLY WITH REPRODUCTIONS OF THE BOOK COVER ON THEM. SOME OF THE PEOPLE -- MEN AND WOMEN -- ARE REALLY WELL DRESSED, SOME ARE FASHIONABLY SLOPPY: SOME OF THEM ARE LOOKING SIDELONG AT RICK -- HE'S THE STAR, AFTER ALL. STANDING NEXT TO RICK, WHO'S ON THE EXTREME RIGHT, FAIRLY NEAR TO THE BOOK DISPLAY, IS RICK. HE'S IN A GOOD SUIT, LOOKING REASONABLY COMFORTABLE. HE'S GRINNING. NOW REMEMBER, HE'S GOING TO GET BETTER DRESSED AND COOLER SLICKER OVER THE NEXT PAGE OR SO, SO WE DON'T WANT TO BLOW IT ALL HERE. STANDING NEXT TO HIM IS AN ATTRACTIVELY DRESSED YOUNG WOMAN WITH LONG BLACK HAIR AND TOO MUCH MAKE-UP. HE'S SMOKING A CIGARETTE. IT'S REALLY UP TO YOU HOW MANY PEOPLE YOU DRAW, BUT TRY TO GIVE THE IMPRESSION THAT THIS A WELL-ATTENDED LUNCH PARTY SOMEWHERE QUITE LARGE.

Caption: May 1987.

Boring psuedy type on the left (small):

Really, John, I don't see any way that a work of genre fiction could be nominated for the Booker prize.

Another boring psuedy type next to him (small):

Well, I feel in the light of his latest novel that Madoc's work has to be seen as transcending genre. It's as if it were written by a different man.

Someone: (small)It's a beautiful book. Quite remarkable. I mean, the sheer richness of the material...

Woman talking to Rick:I loved your characterisation of Aileen. There aren't enough strong women in fiction.

Rick:Actually, I do tend to regard myself as a feminist writer.

Woman:So tell me -- where do you get your ideas?

Page 12 panel 2

BOTTOM TIER -- THREE PANELS. AN EXPENSIVE GENTLEMAN'S CLUB, DIMLY LIT. TALKING TOGETHER ARE RICK AND A PRODUCER, A TUBBY TYPE, WITH A HUGE SHOCK OF WHITE HAIR, SMOKING A HUGE CIGAR (SOME OF THEM DO). THEY'RE SITTING OVER A LITTLE TABLE, WITH A COUPLE OF DRINKS ON IT.

caption: June 87.

Rick:Harvey, the only condition under which I'd be willing to do a screenplay for you of "...And My Love," would be if I could direct it.

Harvey:Let me put this simply for you, Ric. Impossible.

WE'RE OUT ON A LONDON PAVEMENT AT NIGHT, WITH THE LIGHTS TWINKLING OFF ROMANTICALLY INTO THE DISTANCE. RICK IS WALKING WITH A BEAUTIFUL YOUNG WOMAN WITH BROWN HAIR -- OBVIOUSLY NOT CALLIOPE -- POSSIBLY WEARING GLASSES. THEY'RE WEARING LIGHT CLOTHES -- SHE'S IN A SILKY SORT OF EVENING DRESS. THEY'RE WALKING AWAY FROM US. HE'S RESTING ONE HAND ON HER BOTTOM, POSSESSIVELY AND JUST A LITTLE OFFENSIVELY. SHE'S OBVIOUSLY HERO-WORSHIPPING HIM.

Cap:July 1987.

Her:When they said in the TLS that you could be considered the greatest epic poet since Byron--

Rick:It surprised the hell out of me. I saw The Spirit Who Had Half of Everything as a lightweight project between real books...

I was honestly surprised when my publisher agreed to take it.

Page 12 panel 4

WE'RE IN RICK'S STUDY. HE'S TALKING ON A MOBILE PHONE NOW, NOT THE OLD PHONE HE WAS ON BEFORE, POSSIBLY SITTING IN A LARGE LEATHER CHAIR. BUT KEEP A COUPLE OF THINGS THE SAME -- A LITTLE STONE SCULPTURE OF ATHENE, OR SOMETHING. HE'S GOT A NEW HAIRCUT, NOW, AND LOOKS A LOT SLICKER.

Cap:October 1988.

Rick:Look, Harry, it's nothing that you've done. It's just that the William Morris agency can look after my interests better. They've got contacts you haven't.

But you've still got the first three novels and the poetry collection to handle...

Rick:Don't be like that, Harry.

Page 13 panel 1

OKAY -- STRAIGHT SIX-PANEL GRID, THREE ON TOP, THREE BELOW. FIRST PANEL -- WE'RE ON A STAGE -- AND UNDER THE SPOTLIGHT STANDS RICK IN HIS TUXEDO, HOLDING A BIG BOUQUET OF FLOWERS. HE'S TALKING INTO THE MICROPHONE; WE CAN SEE A THEATRE SET BEHIND HIM. POSSIBLY DO THIS AS A FAIRLY LONG SHOT, SO WE CAN SEE THE HEADS OF THE THEATRE-GOING AUDIENCE.

Cap:February 1989

An oblique James Branch Cabell reference. "The Spirit who had half of Everything" was a chatter he never got around to writing in
"Figures of Earth".

Rick: Thank you, all of you, so much. You know, when I first told my agent I was planning to write a play, he said Ric, you're crazy.

Rick: So I got a new agent. Ha ha ha.

SAME CHARACTER AS PAGE 12 PANEL 2: THE PRODUCER, IN AN OFFICE, WITH A DIFFERENT CIGAR. RICK (ALL RIGHT, WE'LL CALL HIM RIC, SINCE THAT'S WHAT HE CALLS HIMSELF), RIC IS WEARING SOMETHING LARGE AND WHITE AND SHARP. HE'S FAR MORE COMFORTABLE THAN HE LOOKED ON THE PREVIOUS PAGE, WHILE THE PRODUCER IS BEING FAR LESS CONDESCENDING.

Caption: April 1989.

Producer: ...we've been actively discussing your original offer to write a screenplay, if we let you direct. I'm pleased to tell you that--

Ric: Harvey, it's too late. I've already signed a three-film deal in the US. But thanks, y'know.

Page 13 panel 3

A LARGE HOUSE. SOMEWHERE PRETTY OLD AND IMPRESSIVE. EXTERNAL SHOT. DAYLIGHT. WE CAN SEE AN ATTIC WINDOW AT THE TOP, BARRED, BUT NO-ONE IN THERE.

Caption: May 1989.

Caption: Ric Madoc buys a new house, in Chelsea. He's busy on pre-production for the film, and most of the moving is done for him.

Caption: He moves his most valuable possession himself, though, late one spring night.

Page 13 panel 4

RIC, COOL AND COLLECTED ON A US TV SHOW -- WHATEVER YOUR LOCAL EARLY MORNING TV SHOW IS, CHATTING TO SOMEONE ON A SOFA. WAKE UP AMERICA TYPE LOGO BEHIND THEM. THE ANNOUNCER IS LOOKING AT THE CAMERA, NOT AT RIC.

Cap: September 1989

Ric: No. No, I like Hollywood well enough, but I'm really pleased to be going home. Two months away is enough for me.

Announcer: Hi! In case you've just tuned in, I'm talking to Ric Madoc, writer, poet and soon-to-be film director, about his new epic novel Eagle Stones...

Eagle Stones are stones with magical properties, once said to have been found in eagles' nests. Without the stones the eggs could not hatch.

NOW WE'RE LOOKING AT A TV SET, AT A SLICK PRESENTER OF U.S. TV SHOW THE TRAILER, WHICH SHOWS TRAILERS OF UPCOMING MOVIES. HE'S SOME SLICK IDIOT, WITH 'THE TRAILER' IN THE BACKGROUND. YOU CAN SET THE TV WHEREVER YOU LIKE, AS LONG AS THE LOCATION'S IN THE US OF A.

Cap:October 1989

Announcer:...Writer of the best-selling novel 'Eagle Stones' talks to us about his extraordinary new film, "...And the Madness of Crowds," and we'll be showing some exclusive footage!

That's all... after this short break.

Ric took the title from a Victorian called "Extraordinary Popular Delusions and the Madness of Crowds", by Charles Mackay.

WE'RE LOOKING AT A MOVIE POSTER -- BASICALLY HAVE FUN DESIGNING IT. I IMAGINE THAT IT'S A NUMBER OF FACES STARING BLANKLY OUT AT US. LARGE ON IT IS THE TITLE RIC MADOC'S '...AND THE MADNESS OF CROWDS,' AND THERE'S A FLASH ACROSS THE BOTTOM RIGHT HAND CORNER, READING NOMINATED FOR 3 OSCARS. BEST ORIGINAL SCREENPLAY, BEST DIRECTOR, AND BEST PICTURE.

TODD -- YOU'LL PROBABLY WANT TO DO THE LETTERING FOR THIS. DO IT LIKE A FAIRLY CLASSY MOVIE POSTER. THINK WOODY ALLEN, I SUPPOSE.

Caption:March 1990.

ON A FENCE - NOT BRICK.

I'LL STICK TO THE SAME KIND OF GRID STRUCTURE HERE, BUT FEEL FREE TO LOOSEN IT UP NOW, SINCE WE'RE IN REAL TIME. WE'RE NOW IN THE ATTIC OF THE NEW HOUSE. WE'RE LOOKING AT CALLIOPE. SHE'S NOW SORT OF DRESSED - A LIGHT BLOUSE, AND A SKIRT, ALTHOUGH SHE'S BAREFOOT. THE WALLS ARE BARE, AND, BEHIND HER, WE CAN SEE THE WINDOW, BARRED. IT'S NOT AS TACKY AS THE ROOM WE SAW BEFORE, IN WHICH SHE WAS IMPRISONED, BUT NEITHER IS IT FURNISHED IN ANY WAY. SHE'S LOOKING STRAIGHT TOWARD US. SHE LOOKS A LITTLE SURPRISED. A LITTLE STARTLED. ALSO A LITTLE NERVOUS. THIS IS FROM THE SANDMAN'S VIEWPOINT, SO WE CAN'T ACTUALLY SEE THE SANDMAN.

Calliope:Oh. It's you.

SANDMAN'S VIEWPOINT AGAIN. SHE'S LOOKING DOWN, NOW, A LITTLE EMBARRASSED PERHAPS. IT'S BEEN FOUR THOUSAND YEARS SINCE SHE'S HAD ANYTHING TO DO WITH HIM, AND THEY DIDN'T PART ON THE BEST OF TERMS ^{although that's not his same...}

Calliope:They... they told me that you had been imprisoned. Just like me.

I always refer to him in scripts as The Sandman, Sandman caption: They spoke the truth. I was imprisoned. But, as you can see, I am free now.

Page 14 panel 3

RIGHT -- SAME VIEWPOINT, BUT SHE'S TAKEN A STEP TOWARD US, NERVOUSLY, BUT URGENTLY.

calliope: Then please -- by the love I once had for you. By -- whatever you felt for me. Please.

Make him give me my freedom. Make him let me go.

WE'RE IN A TV STUDIO, AND THE LOGO BEHIND US READS "THE BOOK NOOK." AN INTERVIEWER SITS IN A CHAIR, WEARING A HAT, WITH A HANDLEBAR MOUSTACHE. ON THE TABLE BETWEEN THEM ARE GLASSES OF WATER, AND PERHAPS A COUPLE OF BOOKS. HE'S EXPOUNDED. RIC SITS ON A CHAIR NEXT TO HIM. WE MAY BE ABLE TO SEE A FEW CAMERAMEN WITH CAMERAS AROUND.

Interviewer: Although you've been compared to the multi-talented Jean Cocteau, and to a lesser extent to writer-directors like Clive Barker, it seems to me that the creator who perhaps you most resemble is the late 1940s cult figure, Erasmus Fry...

CLOSE IN ON RIC. HE LOOKS A LITTLE PERTURBED. HE'S LEANING FORWARD, ONE FINGER RAISED. BY NOW RIC HAS A TOTALLY NEW IMAGE THAT HE'S COMFORTABLE WITH -- ONE EARRING PERHAPS, HIS RED HAIR CUT VERY SHORT AT THE SIDES, LONGER AT THE BACK.

Ric: Excuse me -- you said 'the late.' He's dead?

Interviewer: Last summer. Did you know him?

PULL BACK AGAIN INTO A TWO SHOT. RIC'S SITTING BACK IN HIS CHAIR, A LITTLE STUNNED.

Ric: I didn't know him. We met... on a couple of occasions. He was... interested in my work.

Interviewer: Ah. Anyway, like you, Fry was above all a creator of epics, of huge, towering romances...

The interviewer bears an ~~odd~~ ^{striking} resemblance to ~~Erasmus~~ Fry and some ~~old~~ friend
collaborator,
Kim Newman.

Big shot
Lotsa shadow
From here on - all shots of Rick close or cropped, more anxiety in atmosphere

Page 15 panel 1

AFTER THE TAPING'S OVER, THE INTERVIEWER IS TALKING WITH RIC IN THE BBC BAR, AND SINCE I'M NOT GOING TO GET YOU PHOTOREF OF THE BBC BAR, JUST IMAGINE ANY SMALL BAR, VERY HIGH CLASS WITHOUT BEING POSH, AND YOU'LL DO FINE. THEY'RE STANDING TOGETHER, BOTH WITH DRINKS IN THEIR HANDS.

Interviewer:...went very well, I thought. It'll be broadcast in June -- we'll let you know the exact date.

Ric:Thanks.

I suppose Fry must have died when I was shooting in the US. Old age, I suppose. He must've been almost ninety.

Page 15 panel 2

CLOSE IN ON THE INTERVIEWER. HE'S JUST TALKING CASUALLY -- AS FAR AS HE'S CONCERNED THIS IS JUST A GOOD ANECDOTE.

Interviewer:Oh no. He poisoned himself.

It's quite funny. Apparently the last thing he did was write a letter to his old publishers, begging them to bring one of his books back into print...

Page 15 panel 3

PULL BACK AGAIN FOR A TWO SHOT, OR CLOSE IN ON RIC. HE LOOKS A LITTLE GUILTY, A LITTLE HURT.

Ric:'Here Comes A Candle,' I suppose.

Interviewer:I think that was it. How did you guess?

Ric:It was a good book. Perhaps my favourite book, when I was growing up.

Very moving, and honest, and strange.

Ric:Poor old sod.

Page 15 panel 4

OUTSIDE THE HOUSE WE SAW ON PAGE 13 PANEL 3. A CAR IS PARKED IN FRONT OF THE HOUSE, AND RIC IS GETTING OUT AND SHUTTING THE DOOR.

No dialogue.

Again
lotsa shadow-
almost silhouette.

After this story was published, my friend Pete Atkins told me that "Here comes a candle" was the title of his first-published short story. I had to confess I hadn't known that before. But Pete's mind and mine often run* in similar directions...

RIC, OPENING THE FRONT DOOR, WITH HIS FRONT DOOR KEY. UP TO YOU REALLY HOW YOU DO THIS PANEL, AND THE TWO ON EITHER SIDE -- BASICALLY WE'RE JUST SPENDING THREE SILENT PANELS WATCHING HIM GO INTO HIS HOUSE. WE'RE ALSO BUILDING UP THE SUSPENSE A BIT, BECAUSE DEEP IN THEIR GUTS, THE READER KNOWS THAT WHEN WE TURN THE PAGE, THE SANDMAN'S GOING TO BE THERE, AND INDEED HE IS. SO MAKE THESE THREE PANELS AS PROSAIC AS POSSIBLE. IT'S LIKE THE MOMENT IN A MOVIE WHEN YOU SUDDENLY NOTICE THAT THE MUSICAL SOUNDTRACK HAS STOPPED, AND ALL WE CAN HEAR ARE HIS FEET CRUNCHING ON THE GRAVEL, THE KEYS IN THE LOCK, HIS FOOTSTEPS ECHOING MUFFLED DOWN THE HALL.

No dialogue.

RIC, PROBABLY FROM BEHIND, WALKING DOWN A CORRIDOR.

No dialogue.

OKAY. OVER THE PAGE. WE'RE LOOKING AT THE SANDMAN. NOW, LOOKING AT SANDMAN 13, WITH ALL THE VARIANT CLOTHES THROUGH THE YEARS, SHOWED ME THAT THE CHARACTER LOOKS PRETTY GOOD HOWEVER HE'S DRESSED, AND I'VE WANTED TO EXPERIMENT A LITTLE, FOR A WHILE. SO, HOW HE'S DRESSED: HE'S DRESSED IN BLACK. YOU'LL PROBABLY WANT TO ACTUALLY BLACK IN AS MUCH AS POSSIBLE OF THIS, AND NOTE ON THE ARTWORK THAT THE REST OF IT'S IN K-TONE GREYS, OTHERWISE ROBBIE WILL PROBABLY DO HIM IN PURPLE, WHICH THE SEPARATORS WILL PRINT PINK FOR NO IMMEDIATELY OBVIOUS REASON... ANYWAY, THIS IS WHAT HE LOOKS LIKE. FACIALLY, AND HAIR-WISE, NOTHING MUCH HAS CHANGED -- STILL A SHOCK MOP OF BLACK HAIR, AND A LONG, THIN, SLIGHTLY ANDROGYNOUS FACE WITH GOOD CHEEKBONES AND NO EYES -- JUST BLACK SHADOWS WHERE THE EYES SHOULD BE WITH, OCCASIONALLY, LONE AND DISTANT SINGLE STARS GLINTING IN THE SOCKETS. BUT INSTEAD OF WEARING A BLACK COAT, PUT HIM IN A LARGE BLACK LEATHER JACKET, WITH A HIGH COLLAR IN THE BACK, THIN BLACK JEANS, AND A JET-BLACK TEE SHIRT. HE DOMINATES ANY ROOM HE'S IN: HE'S REGAL, ARISTOCRATIC; ALTHOUGH IN A LEATHER JACKET HE LOOKS MORE LIKE THE SKINNY, UNDEAD KING OF THE STYLE BIKER PUNKS FROM HELL. HE'S SITTING ON A CHAIR, WITH HIS ARMS CROSSSED, AND LEGS CROSSSED, LOOKING FAIRLY COMFORTABLE. HAVING SAID THAT, HE IS NOT PLEASED -- THE IMPRISONMENT ASPECT REMINDS HIM TOO MUCH OF HIS OWN IMPRISONMENT. IMAGINE A PARENT, OR A COP, WAITING FOR YOU TO COME HOME. IF HE'S NEXT TO A TABLE ONE OF HIS ARMS COULD BE ON THE TABLE, PERHAPS. HE'S LOOKING UP AT RIC, EITHER ON THE EXTREME LEFT OR OFF PANEL TO THE LEFT. OH -- THE LOUNGE -- GO FOR THAT LARGE, SPACIOUS, UNLIVED-IN SORT OF LOOK YOU GET IN MAGAZINES, BUT ONLY EVER REALLY GET BY NOT LIVING SOMEWHERE. POSSIBLY A FEW HUGE PAINTINGS ON THE WALL, DEPICTING CLASSICAL SCENES -- PERSEUS CUTTING OFF THE GORGON'S HEAD, FOR EXAMPLE.

SANDMAN IS NIGHT'S FACE

Ric (off, left): Christ! What are you doing in my house?

Who let you in?

Sandman: Nobody let me in, Richard Madoc.

Page 16 panel 2

WE'RE LOOKING AT RICK, IN MEDIUM CLOSE UP -- HE'S ANGRY, IS GESTURING TOWARDS US, WHITE WITH ANGER AND THE SHOCK YOU GET WHEN YOU FIND A STRANGER IN YOUR HOME. TIGHT-LIPPED.

Like we know the deal and is guilt ridden

Ric: I don't know who you are, but I want you out of here, now, or I'm calling the police.

Page 16 panel 3

BOTTOM TIER. LONG, THIN PANEL; AN EXTREME CLOSE-UP ON THE SANDMAN'S FACE. DARK SHADOWY EYES, WITH SINGLE STAR GLINTING IN ONE EYE. HE'S REASONABLY ANGRY AS WELL, BUT THE SANDMAN GETS QUIETLY ANGRY, NOT LOUDLY ANGRY.

Sandman: Be quiet.

OKAY -- THE SANDMAN HAS STOOD UP, NOW. WE'VE GOT A TWO SHOT -- THE SANDMAN'S STOOD UP, NOW. HE'S ON LEFT OF PANEL, HIS BACK SLIGHTLY TO US, FACING THE SANDMAN, IS ON THE RIGHT. THE SANDMAN IS ABOUT 6'4" AT THIS POINT, RIC IS ABOUT 5'11", SO THAT RIC IS LOOKING UP AT THE SANDMAN. IF THE SANDMAN'S ARMS WEREN'T FOLDED BEFORE, THEY ARE NOW.

Sandman: You are keeping a woman imprisoned here, Richard Madoc. Keeping her against her will.

I have come to request that you set her free.

FOUR PANELS ON THE TOP TIER. SMALL PANEL -- RIC, TRYING TO BLUSTER IT OUT. HEAD SHOT.

Ric: Are you out of your mind? There's no woman here. Now get out of here. Do you know who I am? There -- there's a law against people like you.

Page 17 panel 2

SAME SIZED PANEL. THE SANDMAN, HEAD AND SHOULDERS, STARING AT US. HE'S NOT SAYING ANYTHING. HIS EXPRESSION IS BLANK. HE KNOWS MADOC IS LYING.

No dialogue.

SAME SHOT AS PANEL 1. RIC, LOOKING DOWN; HE'S REALLY WORRIED. HE'S REALLY FRIGHTENED. HE KNOWS HE CAN'T BLUFF THIS ONE OUT.

Ric:Are you going to call the police? Is that it?

Page 17 panel 4

THE SANDMAN -- LOOKING STRAIGHT AT US, HEAD SHOT AGAIN. HE'S JUST STATING THE FACTS.

SM:No. I will not call any human agency.

SM:Just let her go.

PANEL ALONG THE MIDDLE OF THE PAGE. LONG PANEL -- ON THE LEFT IS RIC, LOOKING DOWN, LOOKING SHAKEN, AND BROKEN. HE'S ABOUT TEN FEET AWAY FROM US. ON THE EXTREME RIGHT, FAIRLY CLOSE TO US, WE CAN SEE THE SANDMAN'S FACE IN PROFILE.

Ric:But you don't understand -- I need her. If I didn't have her, I wouldn't be able to write. I wouldn't have ideas.

I can't free her yet. Not now. Maybe in a year or so.

Look, I have money -- an awful lot of money -- and ...

SM:Hold your tongue.

TWO PANELS ON THE BOTTOM TIER. HEAD SHOT OF THE SANDMAN, STARING STRAIGHT AT US: HE SEEMS HALF AMUSED, HALF DISGUSTED, HALF HURT. (YES, I KNOW IT MAKES THREE HALVES.) It's okay - I failed math 12

SM:She has been held captive for more than sixty years. Stripped of all possessions. Demeaned, abused, and hurt.

I... know how she must feel.

SM:And you will not free her, because 'you need the ideas'?

Page 17 panel 7

OK -- NOW GO IN FOR THE FINAL PANEL FOR A REALLY CLOSE-CLOSE UP: ONE EYE, STARING AT US, WITH A LITTLE WHITE SKIN AROUND IT.

SM: You disgust me, Richard Madoc.

SM: You want ideas? You want dreams? You want stories?
Then ideas you will have.

Ideas in abundance.

Page 18 panel 1

WE'RE OPPOSITE AN AD PAGE HERE, AND THE FIRST PANEL'S A SMALLISH PANEL, SHOWING RIC. HE'S RAISED HIS HAND TO HIS FACE. HE'S WAKING UP -- HE WAS ASLEEP. SITTING IN A LARGE ARMCHAIR, IF WE CAN SEE IT. THIS IS A CLOSE-UP ON HIS FACE. THIS PAGE IS ROUGHLY A NINE-PANEL GRID.

Ric: Uhhhnnn.

LARGER PANEL. IT WOULD COVER TWO PANELS OF A NINE PANEL GRID. THE ROOM -- THE SAME ROOM WE WERE IN ON THE PAGE BEFORE. RIC'S GETTING UP FROM HIS CHAIR, WIPING HIS EYES. THE SIZE OF THE ROOM, THE CLEANLINESS AND CLEAN LINES, EMPHASISE THE EMPTINESS OF THE ROOM, AND THE FACT THE ONLY PERSON IN IT IS RIC HIMSELF. HE'S POSSIBLY RUBBING HIS EYES, POSSIBLY LOOKING AROUND THE ROOM. VERY CLEAN LINES -- ALMOST MOEBIUS-LIKE.

No dialogue.

NEXT TIER. OKAY -- NOW WE'RE UPSTAIRS IN THE ROOM WHERE SHE'S BEING KEPT PRISONER. WE'RE LOOKING STRAIGHT AT RIC. NOW FOR THE FIRST TIME IN A WHILE WE CAST SHADOWS UP HIS FACE, PROBABLY LIGHTING HIM FROM BELOW. REAL BRIDE OF FRANKENSTEIN STUFF. HE LOOKS A LITTLE HAUNTED.

Ric: I just had this weird dream....

What do you know about it? Huh? Are you doing that? Giving me nightmares?

Are you doing it?

Page 18 panel 4

WE'RE LOOKING AT CALLIOPE, WHO'S JUST STARING UP AT US SULLENLY.

No dialogue.

Page 18 panel 5

POSSIBLY DO THIS FROM CALLIOPE'S VIEWPOINT. RIC HAS RAISED HIS FIST. HE LOOKS A LITTLE CRAZY. HIS EYES ARE WIDE, HIS NOSTRILS FLARED. HE'S REALLY READY TO BEAT THE SHIT OUT OF HER.

Ric: Tell me.

Ric: Tell me, or so help me, I'll, I'll...

Page 18 panel 6

CALLIOPE, IN CLOSE UP, TALKING, LOOKING TOWARD US, OR SLIGHTLY TO THE LEFT. SHE LOOKS PROUD, LIKE SHE'S PULLED WHATEVER REMNANTS OF DIGNITY SHE HAS AROUND HER, BECAUSE SHE KNOWS THAT RIC'S TIME HAS COME.

Calliope: No, I am not doing it, Richard Madoc.

You have met Oneiros, whom the Romans called the Shaper of Form.

Calliope: He was once my lover, and he was the father of my son.

Ric (off, small): I didn't know you'd ever had a son.

A possible etymology of "Morpheus" is
"He who shapes"...

Page 18 panel 7

PULL BACK -- REALLY LONG SHOT. OF THE TWO OF THEM. TWO TINY FIGURES -- HE'S NEARER TO US, SHE'S TURNED TO THE WINDOW.

Calliope: You know nothing about me, Richard Madoc.

I am alive in my own right. I am more than a receptacle for your seed, or an inspiration for your tales.

she should BE looking out of the window like she's waiting for something

ANOTHER LONG SHOT. HE'S WALKING TOWARD US, SEEING PUZZLED AND WEIRDED OUT. SHE'S IN THE BACKGROUND, STARING OUT OF THE WINDOW, SADLY. SHE'S NOT LOOKING AT HIM.

Calliope: Still, it is too late now to let that concern you.

Calliope: Goodbye, Richard Madoc. Enjoy your party.

A line I changed on the second draft of the script, but that has been left as it was originally in the lettered version.

Page 19, panel 1

OKAY -- OVER THE PAGE, NOW: I TEND TO IMAGINE THE NEXT TWO PAGES AS BEING LAID OUT BY EARLY SWAMP THING BISSETTE AND TOTLEBEN, ALL PANEL ANGLES JAGGED AND ANGULAR, AS IF THE PAGE IS A HUGE SHATTERED MIRROR. DON'T DO PANELS 19 AND 20 AS A DOUBLE PAGE SPREAD, COS WHEN OR IF IT'S EVER COLLECTED UP, 19 IS OPPOSITE 18, WHICH ISN'T TRUE HERE. WE'RE LOOKING AT A SMALLISH PANEL. RICK IS CLOSE TO US, AND IN FRONT OF HIM, FURTHER AWAY FROM US, IS A NEWSPAPER-

SELLER, ON A PAPER STALL. RIC'S DRESSED AS HE WAS BEFORE -- IT'S NOW LATE AFTERNOON, EARLY AFTERNOON. HE'S TAKING A MAGAZINE AND A NEWSPAPER.

Ric: A Time Out, please. And a Standard.

Paperman: Right-ho. Saw you on the telly the other night. I said to my wife, he buys papers from me, she said, He never, I said, he does. One twenty, please.

Ric: Ah... I'm going to a party...

OKAY -- BEGIN TO DISTORT THINGS. RIC'S LOOKING TOWARDS US, INTENTLY, POSSIBLY IN REAL CLOSE-UP. HE'S CRACKING UP -- IS EXCITED AND OBSESSED.

Ric: You know, I could write a whole story set at a party. Possibly something could have happened to the world outside -- a holocaust of some kind... These people are partying against the darkness.

RIC IS STUMBLING TOWARDS US DOWN THE PAVEMENT, TOWARDS OUR TILTED CAMERA, ACROSS A JAGGED PANEL BORDER -- POSSIBLY WE CAN SEE THE NEWSPAPERSELLER IN THE BACKGROUND, WAVNG, WORRIEDLY.

Newspaperman (smallish): Here! Mister Madoc! That's one pound twenty you owe me!

Ric: The fraternity of critics. In reality a dark brethren, linked by profane rites and blood vows. To destroy an author they sacrifice a child and perform a critical mass...

Page 19 panel 4

OKAY -- RIC'S NOW GRABBED SOMEONE, POSSIBLY A LITTLE OLD LADY, BY THE LAPELS, AND, OBSESSED AND CRAZED, IS PULLING HER UP OFF THE GROUND, SHOUTING IN HER FACE. SHE'S TERRIFIED, NOT SAYING ANYTHING.

Ric: A city in which the streets are paved with time.

Ric: A train full of silent women, plunging forever through the twilight.

I may write this story one day.

Ric: Heads made of light. A small piece of blue cardboard. A plum, sweet and tart and cold. A were-goldfish who transforms into a wolf at full moon.

LONG PANEL. HALF AN HOUR LATER. OKAY -- A CROWDED SIDEWALK, AND RIC'S CRAWLING ON THE GROUND TOWARD US. PEOPLE AROUND ARE STANDING AND LOOKING AT HIM -- NO-ONE'S DOING ANYTHING TO HELP HIM. HIS CLOTHES

ARE LOOKING FRAYED AND DIRTY AS IF HE'S BEEN CLIMBING AROUND ON THE SIDEWALK FOR HALF AN HOUR. HIS FINGERNAILS HAVE BEEN WORN DOWN AND THE TIPS OF HIS FINGERS ARE BLEEDING. EITHER IN THIS PANEL OR ONE OF THE NEXT FEW, YOU COULD SHOW A WALL WITH, OVER IT, ON A RED OVERLAY, SOME KIND OF WEIRD IMPRESSIONISTIC DRAWING, LOOKING LIKE IT WAS EXECUTED WITH RED PAINT.

TODD-- THE LETTERING'S GRADUALLY GETTING WAVIER, AS RIC LOSES HIS GRIP ON EVERYTHING. WAVERY ALL THROUGH.

Ric: Two old women taking a weasel on holiday.

Ric: Gryphons shouldn't marry. Vampires don't dance.

Ric: A man who inherits a library card to the library at Alexandria.

Ric: A rose bush, a nightingale, and a black rubber dog-collar.

OKAY, STILL REALLY JAGGEDY PANELS. AND WE CAN SEE THE PREVIOUS SCENE FROM A BIT OF A DISTANCE NOW. A MAN -- FELIX GARRISON -- FOUR YEARS OLDER, IS WALKING WITH HIS BACK TO US, ATTRACTED BY A KNOT OF PEOPLE STANDING AROUND THE FALLEN MAN.

Ric: (small and wavy): A man who falls in love with a paper doll.

The sun setting over the Parthenon. Shark's teeth soup.

Felix: Is something wrong? I'm a doctor. Stand back, please.

People should do nothing
But watch - look
ERIC R

Page 20 panel 2

FELIX LEANING OVER RIC, WHO'S NOW LYING ON HIS BACK ON THE SIDEWALK, STILL TOTALLY HYPER AND OBSESSED. FELIX, WHO WE CAN NOW RECOGNISE, IS SHOCKED, BUT, BEING A GOOD DOCTOR, SIMPLY LOOKS CONCERNED, NOT UPSET.

Felix: Good grief -- Richard Madoc!

What's the matter, old fellow?

Ric: (wavy) I'm just having ideas. So many...

Ric: (wavy) An old man in Sunderland who owned the universe, and who kept it in a jam-jar in the dusty cupboard under his stairs...

OKAY -- RIC IS NOW SORT OF STANDING UP, LEANING HEAVILY ON FELIX,

WHO'S THROWN RIC'S ARM OVER HIS SHOULDER. HE'S STAGGERING DOWN THE PAVEMENT, SUPPORTING MUCH OF RIC'S WEIGHT, WHILE AROUND THEM (IF YOU CAN GET THEM IN) SPECTATORS JUST STAND AND STARE, MAKING NO EFFORT TO DO ANYTHING AT ALL. IF YOU CAN'T GET THE SPECTATORS IN THEN DON'T WORRY AND DON'T PUSH IT.

Felix: My home is just around the corner. Lean on me. Do you remember me -- Felix Garrison?

Ric: (wavery) It's the ideas. Where we get them from. A sestina about silence, using the key words Dark, Ragged, Never, Screaming, Fire, Kiss. Strangely enough, people actually did write sestinas using these key words and read them in.

Page 20 panel 4

FELIX IS PUSHING OPEN HIS FRONT DOOR, WITH RIC JUST SORT OF CLUTCHING HIM. RIC HAS ONE ARM OVER FELIX'S SHOULDER -- FELIX IS TAKING ALL HIS WEIGHT. RIC OBVIOUSLY JUST DOESN'T HAVE MUCH FREE ATTENTION, HE'S STARING OFF IN SOME OTHER DIMENSION, TALKING TO HIMSELF, TALKING. FELIX GARRISON F.R.C.S. ON A BRONZE PLATE ON THE DOOR.

Felix: Come on inside. You'll have to tell me what's the matter. Soon have you feeling better...

Ric: (wavery) A biography of Keats, from the Lamia's viewpoint...

Page 20 panel 5

OKAY -- INSIDE FELIX'S HOUSE. RIC IS NOW SITTING IN A LARGE LEATHER CHAIR, STARING HOPELESSLY IN FRONT OF HIM -- HE'S NOT FOCUSING ON ANYTHING, STARING OFF BLANKLY. HE'S RAISED HIS HANDS TO HIS FACE, AND WE CAN SEE THAT THE ENDS OF THE FINGERS ARE REALLY DISGUSTING -- HE'S ALMOST WORN THEM DOWN -- THEY'RE ALMOST JUST NUBS OF BLOODY MEAT, CRACKED FINGERNAILS. FELIX HAS REACHED DOWN AND IS TOUCHING ONE OF THE HANDS, ALTHOUGH I SUSPECT HE'S STANDING UP ~~TO DECODE~~ AND GOES OFF ABOVE THE TOP OF THE PANEL, SO IT'S PROBABLY JUST HIS ONE ARM, COMING FROM OFF PANEL. TODD -- NOT WAVERY ANY MORE.

Felix: God -- what did you do to your hands?

Ric: All the pictures in my head. I had to get them down, but I didn't have any paper, or paints. So I used a wall.

And my fingertips.

ANOTHER STANDALONE PAGE OPPOSITE AN ADVERT. OKAY -- NOW REGULARISE THE PANELS. WE'RE IN FELIX'S HOUSE. LONG SHOT OF THE TWO MEN -- RIC IS SITTING DOWN, FELIX IS STANDING UP, GETTING A BOTTLE OF PILLS OUT OF A CABINET OR SOMETHING.

Ric: All the ideas, inside. All the pictures and poems and tales and songs and plays and speeches and fragments...

They're all coming out. You must help me.

Felix: I'll give you a sedative. And I'll bandage those fingers.

Ric: No! No... I'm sorry. Nothing like that.

GO IN FOR AN EXTREME CLOSE-UP OF RIC'S FACE, TORTURED AND UNHAPPY.

Ric: It's her revenge, you see. Or his revenge. I said I needed the ideas -- but they're coming so fast, swamping me, overwhelming me...

You have to make them stop.

Page 21 panel 3

WE CAN SEE FELIX'S OUTSTRETCHED HAND, WITH THREE PILLS IN THE PALM.

Felix: Here -- this will calm your nerves.

Ric: No! I told you.

Concentrate ON Ric's HANDS

Look -- go to my house. The keys are in my pocket if - if you can take them out for me. I don't think I can use my hands any more.

Page 21 panel 4

RIC IN MEDIUM CLOSE-UP, OR A TWO-SHOT OF THE BOTH OF THEM. HE'S PLEADING WITH FELIX. FELIX COULD BE HOLDING THE DOOR KEYS.

Ric: Go upstairs. At the top of the house there's a room. There's a woman in there.

Let her out. She's locked up in there, you see.

Page 21 panel 5

FELIX IS PUTTING ON HIS COAT. NEARER TO US, RIC SITS IN THE CHAIR, IN HIS OWN LITTLE UNIVERSE, STARING AT US AS WELL. HIS EYES ARE LARGE AND WHITE AND ROUND, HIS PUPILS ALMOST PINPRICKS; HE'S HALF TALKING TO HIMSELF, HALF TO FELIX. FELIX IS READY TO GO. HE LOOKS CONCERNED.

Ric: Tell her -- tell her that she can go. That I free her. Make her leave. Make her go away.

Ric: I signed a book for you once, didn't I?

Oh god. Please.

FELIX IS OVER BY THE DOOR, IN THE BACKGROUND, FACING US. RIC IS STILL IN THE CHAIR, STARING OFF INTO THE UNFOCUSED DISTANCE. FACE SCRATCHED, CLOTHES TORN, HANDS RUINED.

Felix:All right. Stay there. I'll be back soon.

Ric:Make it stop. Tell her I'm sorry.

Ric:Magical and alchemical traditions seen as a cargo cult; Aureolus Theophrastus Bombastes Paracelsus and Raymond Lulli were the same man.

page 22 panel 1

OK -- OUTSIDE SHOT OF RIC'S HOUSE. IT'S NOW EVENING -- ABOUT THREE OR FOUR HOURS LATER THAN OUR LAST GLIMPSE OF THE HOUSE. NOT A BIG PANEL. WE CAN SEE FELIX GOING IN.

No dialogue.

Page 22 panel 2

OK -- NOW DO AN ANGLE SHOT, SO WE CAN SEE UPWARDS, UP A SPIRAL STAIRCASE, AND, AT THE TOP OF THE STAIRS, IS FELIX, OPENING A DOOR -- THE ROOM WHERE CALLIOPE HAS BEEN KEPT PRISONER. HE'S UNDOING A PADLOCK.

Felix:Um. Hello?

Felix:Is there, um, anyone here? He says -- Ric, uh, says you're free to go. Hello?

Page 22 panel 3

OKAY -- NOW, WE'RE IN A ROOM, WHICH IS HER CELL. IT'S EMPTY: THERE ARE BARE WALLS, BARE FLOORBOARDS, A BARRED WINDOW, AND, ON THE FLOOR, A LARGE, OLD LEATHERBOUND BOOK, WITH A PAPERJACKET. BY OLD, I MEAN PROBABLY ABOUT FIFTY YEARS OLD. WE CAN EITHER SEE FELIX IN THE ROOM, OR WE CAN SEE HIS SHADOW COMING IN FROM OUTSIDE. WE SHOULD FEEL WE'RE ABLE TO SEE ALL THE ROOM, POSSIBLY SLIGHTLY FISH-EYE, AND WE CAN TELL IT'S EMPTY.

No dialogue.

WE'RE LOOKING, FROM FELIX'S VIEWPOINT, AT THE BOOK ON THE FLOOR. IT'S CALLED HERE COMES A CANDLE BY ERASMUS FRY, AND IT'S GOT AN ILLUSTRATION ON THE FRAYED PAPER JACKET -- AN OLD-FASHIONED, SLIGHTLY STYLISED ILLUSTRATION SHOWING A YOUNG WOMAN, NAKED BUT ALWAYS DISCREETLY COVERED BY HAIR. THERE'S A BLURB ON THE BOOK-COVER AS WELL, WHICH READS SHE WAS HIS MUSE -- AND THE SLAVE OF HIS LUST!

No dialogue.

WE CAN SEE FELIX NOW, IN THE ROOM. HE'S PICKED UP THE BOOK, AND HE'S RAISED HIS HAND TO HIS FOREHEAD, LOWERED HIS HEAD; IT'S OBVIOUS TO HIM THAT RIC'S CRACKED UP COMPLETELY BY NOW.

No dialogue.

WE CAN SEE HIM WALKING AWAY, LOOKING DEJECTED -- HE'S ON HIS WAY TOWARD THE FRONT DOOR. WE'RE LOOKING FROM A SECOND FLOOR STAIRCASE DOWN AT HIM BELOW US. HE'S STILL GOT THE BOOK.

No dialogue.

OKAY -- NOW, GO FROM A LOT OF SHADING TO VERY STARK WHITES AND BLACKS. NO MORE WEIRD ANGLE SHOTS ON THIS PAGE, EITHER. VERY REGULAR PANEL GRID -- THREE ON THE TOP, THREE ON THE BOTTOM. WE'RE LOOKING AT, ON THE LEFT, CALLIOPE, AND ON THE RIGHT, THE SANDMAN. THEY'RE BOTH LEANING ON THE BANISTER, LOOKING DOWNDWARDS, INTERESTED. SHE'S NOW WEARING A LIGHT TUNIC -- A CHITON, I SEEM TO REMEMBER IT'S CALLED, UNLESS THAT'S SOMETHING ELSE, BUT A STANDARD CLASSICAL GREEK TUNIC-SKIRT, AND HER HAIR IS PILED UP ON HER HEAD, BEHIND HER. SHE LOOKS A LOT MORE IN CONTROL. CLEAN AND PERFECT. HE'S WEARING HIS BLACK ROBE, COVERING ALL OF HIM, FROM HEAD TO TOE.

Calliope: So. It's over. Thank you.

Sandman: What will you do now, Calliope?

SANDMAN'S CAPE
IS ALIVE, FOLDS ARE LIKE INTESTINES.

Calliope: I don't know. Return to the minds of humanity,
I suspect. My time is over, and this age of the world is not my age.

SHE'S NOW LOOKING UP AT HIM, WHILE HE'S STILL STARING STRAIGHT AHEAD OF HIMSELF. SHE'S LOOKING AT HIM WITH WONDER, OR WITH DEEP THOUGHT.

Calliope: You have changed, Oneiros. In the old days, you would have left me to rot forever, without turning a hair...

Calliope: Do you still hate me? For what I did?

CLOSE UPON THE SANDMAN -- HE'S NOT LOOKING AT HER, BUT HE'S THINKING, AND BEING HONEST. AND HE SAYS, Sandman: No. I no longer hate you, Calliope.

I have learned much in recent times, and...

Sandman: No matter. I do not hate you, child.

Calliope: I think you should release the mortal now. He has set me free...

Sandman: If that is what you wish, it is done.

Page 23 panel 4

PULL BACK AGAIN FOR A TWO SHOT. THEY'RE WALKING DOWN THE STAIRS TOGETHER, TOWARD THE FRONT HALL, AND WE'RE LOOKING STRAIGHT AT THEM, AND SHE'S BEGINNING TO SMILE, AND SAYING.

Calliope: Maybe...

Calliope: Maybe I could visit you, in the dream realm? It would be nice to see you again. Properly. What do you think?

Page 23 panel 5

OKAY -- THEY'RE OUTSIDE THE HOUSE, NOW. AND SHE'S TURNED HER BACK ON HIM, SO SHE'S FACING RIGHT, AND HE'S LEFT OF HER, FACING RIGHT AS WELL, LOOKING DOWN AT HER. POSSIBLY REACHING OUT AS IF HE'S ABOUT TO TOUCH HER, BUT HAS THOUGHT BETTER OF IT.

SM: I do not think that would be a good idea, Calliope.

Calliope: No. No, perhaps it wouldn't.

Thank you anyway, Oneiros. I will not forget this.

Page 23 panel 6

SHE'S NOW FACING US. HE'S SIMPLY FADING AWAY -- HE LOOKS LIKE A RAGGED SMUDGE OF BLACK -- CHECK SANDMAN 8 PAGE 11 FOR WHAT I'M TALKING ABOUT HERE (I ASSUME MIKE DID IT BY MOVING A PHOTOCOPY AROUND) OR THE LAST PAGE OF SANDMAN 3. SHE LOOKS HURT, PERHAPS, AND THOUGHTFUL.

Calliope: Fare you well, Oneiros. Fortune go with you.

Sandman: Goodbye, Calliope.

Dont like the smudge,
Lookin' like mistake -
Cross Hatch

OKAY -- WE'RE BACK IN THE STUDY WE WERE IN BEFORE, FELIX'S PLACE. SITTING, EYES BLANK AND HUGE, STARING AT US, IS RIC. FELIX IS STANDING BEHIND HIM. HE NOW HAS NO IDEAS -- THAT'S ALL BEEN TAKEN AWAY FROM HIM.

Felix:I've done it, Rick. Um, how are you feeling now?

Ric:I... I don't know any more.

I keep trying to think... about what she said...

Ric:'The shaper of forms'... it seems like it should mean something...

Page 24 panel 2

WHITE PANEL. WE CAN SEE, IN THE MEDIUM DISTANCE, THE SANDMAN, IN HIS CLOAK, BASICALLY HEAD AND SHOULDERS, I SUPPOSE, OR JUST A FACE SHOT -- REALLY UP TO YOU; PLAY IT BY EAR. HE'S STARING AT US. POSSIBLY YOU MIGHT WANT TO DRAW A BASIC IMAGE, THEN OVERLAY IT WITH WHITE DOTTED ZIP-A-TONE.

No dialogue.

OKAY -- SIMILAR SHOT TO THE FIRST, ONLY WE'RE CLOSE UP ON RIC'S FACE. AND FELIX'S FACE COMES IN AT ONE SIDE, IN CLOSE-UP, TALKING TO HIM. RIC IS REALLY QUITE BLANK -- HE HAS NO IDEAS LEFT, AND NEVER WILL HAVE. HE'S STILL SMART, BUT HE'LL NEVER HAVE ANOTHER ORIGINAL THOUGHT AGAIN IN HIS LIFE. HE ISN'T REGISTERING ANYTHING THAT FELIX IS SAYING.

Felix:There was no-one there. In the room. There was just a book.

Ric:I don't know... It doesn't connect with anything... It's a name...

Ric:I wish I could remember...

Page 24 panel 4

SAME AS PANEL 2, ALTHOUGH IF YOU WANT TO BE FANCY YOU COULD MAKE IT A DIFFERENT SHOT, I SUPPOSE, BUT IT'S NOW A SMALLER IMAGE OF THE SANDMAN STARING AT US. WHITE PANEL. BASICALLY WE'RE LOOKING AT RIC'S MIND HERE.

No dialogue.

EXTREME CLOSE UP ON RIC. HE LOOKS REALLY BLANK. POSSIBLY RAISED ONE MESSED-UP FINGER TO HIS LIPS.

Ric:It's so hard to think...

...Morpheus? ...Orpheus? ...One of those...

SAME AS PANELS 2 AND 4, ONLY THE SANDMAN FIGURE IS TINY NOW.

no dialogue.

PULL BACK A BIT -- FELIX IS HOLDING OUT THE BOOK TO RIC, WHO'S STILL SITTING, SLIGHTLY HUNCHED, STARING INTO SPACE, AND DOESN'T REGISTER IT.

Felix: You can take it with you to the hospital, Richard.

Ric: She's gone, you see. And it's all gone with her. Everything. All of them, all the dreams...

Ric: No... I can't remember. I've lost it...

Page 24 panel 8

WHITE PANEL.

No dialogue.

Page 24 panel 9

OKAY -- FINAL SHOT IS OF RIC, LOOKING AT US, UNFOCUSED. TRY TO ECHO -- THOUGH NOT COPY -- THE FIRST SHOT WE SAW, PAGE 1 PANEL 1, AT LEAST IN TERMS OF THE SIZE OF THE FACE, AND THE DIRECTION IT'S LOOKING. HE LOOKS HURT, WOUNDED, DESTROYED, MESSED UP. ZOMBIE.

Ric: It's gone.

Ric: I've got no idea any more.

No idea at all.

Then either END or,

NEXT: A Dream of a Thousand Cats -- whichever you think works best.

CAT-EYES

Okay -- that's it; a bit delayed due to power cuts, caused by hurricane winds (remember the last time that happened, Karen?) --anyway, if anyone has a question, ring me. Hope you all like it; enjoy.

To the late Reverend E. Cobham Brewer, author of, amongst other things, Brewer's Dictionary of Phrase and Fable. I always keep meaning to dedicate a book to him and I'll probably never get round to it, so this'll have to do.

To the people who've publicly supported SANDMAN, particularly Mikal Gilmore, Tom Whitmore, Ed Bryant, Steve Erikson and Dave Sim. Thanks guys.

To everyone who's made my life easier and left me alone to write. And to the kids, who don't.

BIOGRAPHIES

Neil Gaiman is the creator and writer of the internationally acclaimed comics masterpiece THE SANDMAN, which was the first comic book to receive mainstream literary recognition when issue #19 ("A Midsummer Night's Dream") won the World Fantasy Award for Short Fiction in 1991. His most recent installment in the series, THE SANDMAN: OVERTURE, won the Hugo Award for Best Graphic Fiction in 2016.

He is also a New York Times best-selling author of books, short stories, films and graphic novels for all ages. Some of his most notable titles include American Gods, for which he received the Hugo, Nebula, Bram Stoker and Locus awards; The Graveyard Book, which was the first book to ever win both the Newbery and Carnegie medals; and The Ocean at the End of the Lane, which was named Book of the Year in 2013 by the UK's National Book Awards. His most recent title, Norse Mythology, is a retelling of the stories of the Norse gods and giants from the Prose and Poetic Eddas, and he is currently adapting Good Omens, the novel he co-wrote with Sir Terry Pratchett, into a six-part television series with the BBC and Amazon Studios.

In addition to his work on the page and screen, Gaiman is a professor in the arts at Bard College. He has four children and is married to the writer and performer Amanda Palmer.

Born in 1962, Kelley Jones would have been an all-star baseball player except that he could not hit a curveball with any consistency. Now an artist of some renown, Jones has lent his unique gothic style to a wide selection of comic book titles, including THE SANDMAN, DEADMAN, BATMAN, Moon Knight, Aliens and Grendel, to name just a few. A resident of the Golden State, Jones continues to enjoy drawing comics because it remains one of the only jobs where you can listen to a ball game and not get into trouble.

The award-winning work of Charles Vess has graced both covers and interior pages for comics and mainstream publishers, including DC, Marvel, Dark Horse, Little Brown, Tor and HarperCollins. His work has been featured in numerous gallery and museum exhibitions in the U.S. and abroad, and his awards include an Ink Pot, three World Fantasies for Best Artist, the Mythopoeic, a Gold and Silver Spectrum Annual, two Chesleys, two Locus Magazine and two Will Eisner Comic Industry Awards. He also shared the prestigious World Fantasy Award for Best Short Fiction with Neil Gaiman in 1991 for their collaboration on THE SANDMAN #19, "A Midsummer Night's Dream." The two reunited to produce the illustrated fantasy novel NEIL GAIMAN AND CHARLES VESS' STARDUST, which was adapted in 2007 into an acclaimed motion picture. His latest publication is The Books of Earthsea, an edition of the collected Earthsea novels by Ursula K. Le Guin from Saga Press which features 55 of his illustrations.

Books featuring Colleen Doran's work have received Eisner, Harvey and International Horror Guild awards. Several of her works have been listed as New York Times bestsellers. She did the art for Amazing Fantastic Incredible: A Marvelous Memoir, the official graphic novel autobiography of legendary Marvel Comics writer/editor Stan Lee. Her current projects include a graphic novel with Neil Gaiman for Dark Horse, the Line Webtoon webcomic Finality with Warren Ellis, The Clock with Matt Hawkins for Top Cow/Image, illustrations for an art book and the finale of her epic space opera series A Distant Soil for Image/Shadowline. She is very busy and often tired, and used to grow almost all of her own food. She spends too much time drawing to do that now.

Malcolm Jones III attended the High School of Art and Design and the Pratt Institute in New York City before making his comics debut in the pages of DC's YOUNG ALL-STARS. In addition to his celebrated work on THE SANDMAN, Jones contributed work to many other titles from both DC and Marvel, including BATMAN, THE QUESTION QUARTERLY, Dracula and Spider-Man. He died in 1995.

Dave McKean has illustrated over 80 books and graphic novels, including Signal to Noise, The Wolves in the Walls, Coraline and The Graveyard Book, all written by Neil Gaiman, The Magic of Reality by Richard Dawkins, The Fat Duck Cookbook by Heston Blumenthal and What's Welsh for Zen by John Cale. He has written and illustrated the multi-award-winning Cages, Pictures That Tick 1 and 2 and Black Dog: The Dreams of Paul Nash. He has also directed several short films and three features: MirrorMask, The Gospel of Us with Michael Sheen and Luna, which premiered at the Toronto Film Festival in 2014. He lives on the Isle of Oxney in Kent, UK.

Daniel Vozzo was born and raised in Brooklyn, New York. After spending most of the 1980s drumming for several rock-and-roll bands, he landed a job working in DC Comics' production department, where he helped develop a computer coloring department in 1989. He soon began to work freelance, coloring a number of titles for DC's Vertigo line. He sings great in the shower and always holds the door open for people. Currently living in northern New Jersey, Vozzo continues to color comics and is once again playing music. He has also been working on fine-tuning his writing skills. When asked if he thinks he's good at writing, he insists that he has always had very good penmanship.

A professional colorist for more than 25 years, Steve Oliff has also been a pioneer in bringing comics into the digital age. Beginning in 1989 with his Harvey Award-winning computer coloring work on Katsuhiro Otomo's Akira for Marvel, Oliff and his coloring house Olyoptics have revolutionized the field of comic book coloring as well as winning over a dozen industry awards for color excellence on such titles as Spawn, BATMAN, THE SANDMAN and THE MAXX.

One of the industry's most versatile and accomplished letterers, Todd Klein has been lettering comics since 1977 and has won numerous Eisner and Harvey awards for his work. A highlight of his career has been working with Neil Gaiman on nearly all the original issues of THE SANDMAN, as well as BLACK ORCHID, DEATH: THE HIGH COST OF LIVING, DEATH: THE TIME OF YOUR LIFE and THE BOOKS OF MAGIC.
